Ike Ridicules Khrush Claim

Attack On Mystery U-Boat Is Reported

Argentine Navy Silent On Story Of Engagement

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—An unconfirmed press report said a mystery submarine, hunted by the Argentine navy for 10 days, surfaced in Argentine waters Thursday and was attacked by warships and naval aircraft.

This was the latest story in a bizarre naval operation that has prompted wild speculation as well as serious political questions on what the submarine—if it is a submarine — is doing in Argentine waters. Interest is fed by the Argentines' delicate sense of nationalism.

All that the navy would say is that it is still pursuing the submarine believed trapped in Golfo Nuevo, a 20x40-square-mile body of water separated from the Atlantic by a narrow entrance. Argentina claims the gulf as territorial waters.

News Blackout

A communique said naval forces at Golfo Nuevo, 650 miles southwest of Buenos Aires, were put on the alert to attack. An official news blackout blocked any independent information from the scene.

The Argentine news agency Telam said its correspondent at Puerto Madryn was told of the surface battle by unofficial sources. He added that the situation was "extremely confused."

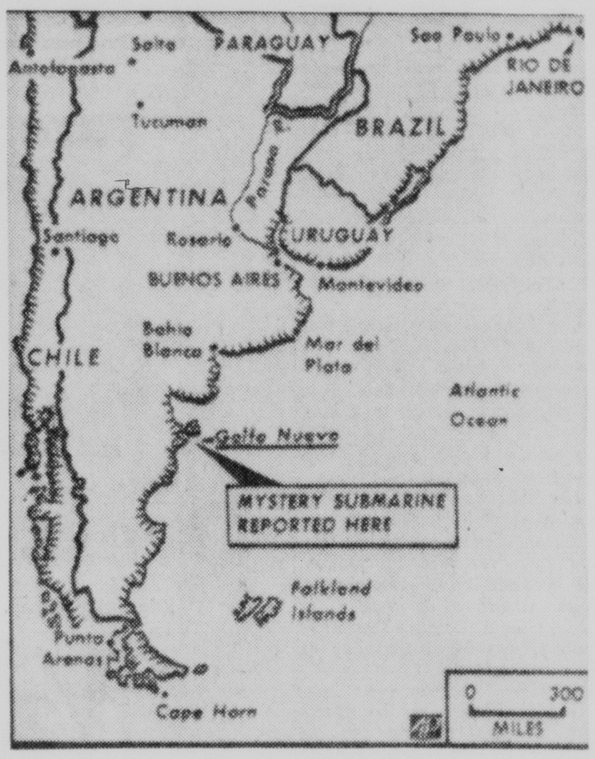

The newspaper Democracia gave a different version. It said the submarine tried to run the blockade across the mouth of the gulf Wednesday night but was driven back by depth charges. Ships, Corsair fighters, a flying boat and helicopters participated in the action, the paper said.

Third Such Contact

This is the third unidentified submarine the navy claims to have discovered in Argentine territorial waters during the past two years. In 1958, the navy said a sub was detected in Golfo Nuevo but escaped. Last year, it reported finding another submarine in coastal waters, but said it headed into the open sea before ships could open fire.

In neither case was the nationality of the craft established. The navy says it also has no clues to the identity of the present submarine. Both Britain and the United States have denied they have anything to do with it.

But the Soviet Union is known to have submarines capable of the speedy underwater maneuvers reported by the navy, and the Russians have said nothing.

Where Attack Reported

Box locates Golfo Nuevo, a gulf on the southern Argentine coast, where unconfirmed press reports said a mystery submarine surfaced yesterday and was attacked by air and sea forces. The Argentine Navy said only that its forces were continuing the 10-day pursuit of the submarine believed trapped in the 20-by-40-mile gulf. (AP Photofax)

Soviets Cool To New U.S. A-Test Plan

Eisenhower Would Ban All But Limited Underground Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States urged the Soviet Union Thursday to accept a new nuclear weapons test ban which would allow limited underground blasts but prohibit atomic-hydrogen explosions in the air and sea.

President Eisenhower, in announcing the four-stage proposal at his news conference, said it would be a quick way to allay worldwide concern over possible increases in deadly radioactivity.

In Geneva, the Soviet chief disarmament negotiator, Semyon K. Tsarapkin, rejected the proposal as a backward step.

"I have not seen this plan yet," he said. "But, of course, I am against a limited nuclear test ban. It would just be a step backward."

Not Final Rejection

Top administration officials refused to view Tsarapkin's quick comment as a final rejection. But they clearly were not optimistic that the Kremlin would accept the plan.

The Eisenhower proposal would abandon, at least temporarily, the East-West search for an all-embracing agreement to stop all nuclear weapons tests. These talks have deadlocked at Geneva after 170 separate meetings stretching over a 15-month period.

During this time the United States, Soviet Union and Britain, the world's three atomic powers, have voluntarily halted tests while their experts sought a disarmament formula.

Disagree On Detection

The new U.S. plan would allow underground shots to be resumed if explosions registered no higher than a figure of 4.75 on detection devices—a blast American scientists say is roughly the size of the first atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

Soviet experts disagree and claim such a reading would measure a blast about eight times smaller than that.

Eisenhower said it was partly because of this disagreement between scientists of the two sides that he decided it was useless at this time to continue efforts to agree on a more sweeping, global plan.

The Soviets have demanded the existing ban on tests continue. They contend each side's detection devices are sensitive enough to determine if anyone cheated.

Tabs Remark Communism Best "Crazy"

President Scores Headline-Hunting In Defense Row

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's news conference spun through the fields of space and atoms Thursday to produce a gibe that a Khrushchev remark was crazy and to unveil a new proposal for banning most nuclear weapons tests.

The conference also brought forth a presidential slap at headline-hunting in the controversy over the status of national defense and the missile program.

Eisenhower reacted unhesitatingly though in subdued tones, to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's contention that the Soviet flag now is flying on the moon and this proves "the superiority of communism over capitalism."

The President was told Khrushchev was quoted as saying that to President Giovanni Gronchi of Italy while the latter was visitng the Soviet Union. The questioner asked: "What do you think of such remarks?"

"I think it's crazy," Eisenhower shot back.

"It's" Or "He's"

His voice was so low that stenographers differed as to whether the President said "it's" or "he's." Playback of a recorded tape showed it was the former.

In any event, once the laughter subsided, Eisenhower went on to say that of course the Soviet Union can come up with spectacular achievements if it wants to put all its strength in a particular field.

"But my contention," he said, "is we should not be hysterical when dictatorships do these things. Now, all of these things are possible, but they are not things that we should, in what we believe is a broader and better type of civilization, let — well, let it dismay us."

Eisenhower had something fresh with which to start off the news conference.

He walked in briskly with a cheery "good morning," said he had a statement, pulled out his gold-rimmed spectacles, and read.

A-Test Curb Plan Unveiled

The statement said the United States was presenting in Geneva Thursday a proposal to end a deadlock with the Soviet Union forbidding all tests but low-power underground nuclear weapons shots. The ban thus would apply to all tests in the atmosphere, oceans, controllable areas of space, and to larger underground explosions capable of certain detection.

The statement out of the way, the conference swung into the subject that has been getting more attention lately than any other at Eisenhower's sessions with reporters—the arguments in Congress and the Pentagon over defense and the missile program.

What Eisenhower had to say distilled down to something like this: It's fair to say the Pentagon people are experts in this field — which left the implication that congressmen aren't so expert. But the Pentagon people have different ideas about particular weapons or weapons systems and exploit and publicize them.

Retired Soldier Ends His Life In Bizarre Hanging

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 64-year-old guest at a South Baltimore hotel tied a rope around his neck Thursday, attached the other end to a sink and then jumped from his third floor window.

The body jerked to a stop several feet off the ground, about 40 feet below the window, and in full view of passersby.

Police identified the victim of the bizarre hanging as John Lipa, a retired Army soldier who has been rooming at the hotel for a week.

Officers said the man had been a patient at the Soldiers Home in Washington, and they quoted hotel guests as saying he had been under a local doctor's care.

Mystery Satellite Probably Is Casing Of U.S. Discoverer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The mystery satellite on the earth's polar orbit probably is a casing of an early U.S. Discoverer, Secretary of the Air Force Dudley C. Sharp told newsmen at a press conference Thursday.

Sharp said he based his estimate of the polar satellite's identity on the close comparison between the size of the casing of the Discoverer series satellites and the dark object which emits no radio waves.

Sharp said the casing of the Discoverer — the most successful of all U.S. missiles in the field — measures 19.2 feet in length. Radio telescope observers have estimated the length of the mystery satellite at 19 feet. This close comparision, Secretary Sharp said would indicate that the dark missile is of U.S. origin.

Sharp told newsmen he had no information that the Soviet Union has launched a recent missile and he added, most Soviet missiles have been larger than the object now in the polar orbit.

Unemployment Shows Normal Seasonal Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The job boom that followed the end of the steel strike last November ran out of gas in January. Employment fell by 1,900,000 and unemployment rose as normal winter trends took over, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

Employment at 64,020,000 stood at the highest level of any January a million above a year ago; and hard goods factories continued to expand their payrolls.

Unemployment climbed by 572,000 over the month as stores laid off Christmas holiday help and the weather closed in on farming, building and other outdoor work.

The shifts were about normal for the season. They marked the end of the extraordinary gains following the 116-day steel strike, which sent employment up in December and unemployment down —a sharp reversal of the usual trend.

The rate of joblessness in January was 5.2 per cent, unchanged from December after allowing for seasonal factors.

This was well below the 6 per cent of a year ago, but a little higher than the jobless rate last spring before the strike began.

Gradual gains in the coming months were forecast by Seymour Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor. He told reporters the spring movement probably would be "a little better than seasonal."

Joblessness may be reduced to about 3½ million, he said, before students flock into the job market in June.

Poles Buy U.S. Wheat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Poland signed a trade agreement Thursday under which Poland will buy 22 million bushels of surplus American wheat.

Probers Call CIA Director

WASHINGTON (AP) — Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, was summoned Thursday to appear before a Senate inquiry into effectiveness of U.S. policy-making machinery in the national security field.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D - Wash.), chairman of a five-member Government Operations subcommittee conducting the study, said Dulles' closed - door testimony next Wednesday is expected to concentrate on "the scope, nature and future course of the overall Soviet-Sino threat."

"Mr. Dulles' testimony will set the stage for comprehensive hearings designed to bring the best minds of our country to bear upon the most important national problem — how to organize our government for survival in freedom," Jackson said in a statement.

Army Missile Intercepts, Kills Another On First Try

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army—in a pointed boost for its hard-pressed Nike-Zeus anti-missile project—claimed Thursday a faster - than - sound antiaircraft rocket intercepted and killed another supersonic missile on the first try.

In claiming the first such known kill, the Army showed newsmen a motion picture of the test Jan. 29 over White Sands, N.M.

The hunter-killer was a Hawk antiaircraft missile and its prey a short-range bombardment rocket called Honest John. The Hawk carried a conventional high explosive warhead.

When the two missiles collided, their combined impact speed was an estimated 2,000 miles an hour, the Army reported.

Although the demonstration was intended to show a high-speed missile intercept is possible, the problems of knocking down intercontinental ballistic missiles are infinitely more complex and difficult.

And knocking down ICBMs would be the mission of the Nike-Zeus.

President Eisenhower has withheld 137 million dollars in production money pending more tests of the Nike-Zeus in the Pacific this year. The Army would like to pry that money loose.

To be successful, the Nike-Zeus would have to be able to seek out and destroy ICBMs streaking along at about 16,000 miles an hour. The hit would have to be scored more than 100 miles up.

French Police Battle Farmers

The violence left 122 persons injured, including Police Chief M. Carpentier and 52 of his officers. Twelve policemen were hospitalized. Carpentier was hit by a hurled rock.

Angry farmers swarming into the twisting streets of Amiens from the countryside set off the trouble. Anti - Gaullists, shouting "Algeria is French," opportunely seized on the chaos and joined the battles.

In an accident related indirectly to the bloody demonstrations, seven persons were killed and 40 were injured in the collision of a bus and truck near Amiens. The bus was filled with farmers returning home from the demonstrations.

A communique from the Interior Ministry said from 25,000 to 30,000 persons were involved in the riots that swirled through this city 70 miles north of Paris.

The farmers poured into the city throughout the day from over northern France. The ministry communique said many of those who took part appeared to have no connection with the farm demonstration.

Puerto Rican Stop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced Thursday that President Eisenhower will confer with Puerto Rican officials at the San Juan Airport on his way to South America Feb. 22.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, in releasing initial details of the President's 17,000 - mile South American tour, said Eisenhower probably will make an informal talk during the hour-long San Juan stopover.

Highway Crews Battle To Reach Isolated Towns

By The Associated Press

Midwest road crews, working in ear-tingling cold, tackled one of their biggest snow removal jobs in years Thursday in a race with a growing milk shortage in some isolated areas.

Dozens of small towns still were isolated and eyeing dwindling food supplies in northwestern Illinois, 24 hours after the worst snowstorm in a quarter century plastered the area with road-blocking drifts.

The storm dumped a heavy blanket of snow from the Great Plains to Michigan. Temperatures in the snow belt plummeted to near zero Thursday as arctic air flowed into the region.

The sharp temperature drop converted towering drifts of wet snow into ice-hardened obstacles that added to the problems of road cleanup crews.

Traffic on a number of highways in southeastern Wisconsin was blocked by snow and stalled cars. Travel on a few major highways in northwestern Illinois was limited to single-lane movement in spots.

But the mercury soared to a record 66 degrees in Newark, N. J., bettering by nine degrees the old record for the date set in 1955. Windsor Locks, Conn., recorded a record 57.

High winds, rain and melting snow caused minor flooding in New York State. Several schools were forced to close and a few roads and basements were flooded. Wind gusts up to 60 m.p.h. lashed New York City.

9 Feared Dead In Plane Crash

OAK HARBOR, Wash. (UPI)—A routine flying mission ended in tragedy Thursday when a Navy patrol plane with nine men aboard crashed into the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Four bodies were recovered. A search by planes and ships failed to turn up any trace of the other five crewmen aboard and they were presumed killed.

The P5-M-2, a two-engine plane, had left the Whidbey Island Naval Air Station on a routine flight but slightly less than two hours later its wreckage was sighted by another patrol plane.

Planes flying over the scene could spot only scattered debris and one large wing section.

Elvis Gets Sarge's Pay

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Elvis Presley got his sergeant's pay Thursday. The rock 'n' roll singer, now serving as a reconnaissance scout leader with an armored division in Bavaria, was made acting sergeant just before his unit went on maneuvers last month. That gave him the stripes, but not the pay. His promotion boosts his pay $22.94 a month to $180.24.

Paar, Angry Over Cutoff, Quits Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Jack Paar, feuding angrily with NBC because he was briefly cut off the air Wednesday night while relating an anecdote, quit his show in a huff Thursday night.

He had shown up as usual for taping of the program, for later broadcast, and had gone through the first 20 minutes of the show when he abruptly walked away from the television cameras and announced he was leaving.

The audience was thrown into commotion by the comedian's sudden outburst.

Stranded for the moment in the confusion were three well known guest stars — Genevieve, the French singer and actress; Orson Bean, actor and comedian, and comedian Shelley Berman.

An NBC spokesman subsequently announced that the show, exactly as taped including Paar's sudden departure, would be broadcast at its usual hour starting at 11:15 (EST).

A spokesman for the National Broadcasting Co. said Paar's story was "not in good taste." Paar declared that it was "very innocent" and added: "Whoever cut it—and I don't care who he was—was an idiot."

The program had been recorded in advance on video tape two hours before it was aired over the NBC network Wednesday night, starting at 11:15. When the portion with the anecdote was reached, a news summary was substituted. This lasted nearly five minutes.

The censored anecdote concerned the letters "W.C.," widely used in Europe as an abbreviation for water closet, and the confusion which ensued when someone took them to mean wayside chapel.

Still Loves Carole, Finch Says In Ending Testimony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dr. R. Bernard Finch Thursday ended eight days of dramatic testimony he hopes will save his life and made this vow: He still loves his pretty mistress and would marry her if he could.

The prosecutor asked the handsome society surgeon, on trial charged with murdering his wife, if he would now marry Carole Tregoff if he were free to do so.

"Yes," said Dr. Finch, "if Carole will have me."

Miss Tregoff, on trial with him, watched with tears in her eyes.

Another dramatic highlight came when the prosecutor asked if Dr. Finch didn't make up "this whole touching death scene" about Mrs. Finch's last moments "in order to avoid the implication you left the dying woman on the lawn."

"No, sir," the doctor snapped, "that is not true at all. It is absolutely false, every single word of it."

The doctor's story was that he shot his wife accidentally in a struggle for a gun and after she fell dying she gasped: "I'm sorry . . . Take care of the kids."

The wealthy 42-year-old physician and Miss Tregoff, 23, his one-time receptionist, are accused of coldly planning and carrying out the slaying of Dr. Finch's estranged wife, Barbara, 36.

The prosecution says he beat her and shot her at the Finch estate in suburban West Covina the night of last July 18 after a scheme to kill her and make it look accidental went awry. The alleged motive: to prevent Mrs. Finch from getting much of the doctor's wealth via divorce.

Khrush Tells India Arms Ban Is Up To West

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Following in President Eisenhower's footsteps, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev swung into his South Asian tour here Thursday with a call for world disarmament. He said disarmament is now strictly up to the West.

Welcomed in relatively low-keyed fashion by New Delhi street crowds, Khrushchev—whom President Rajendra Prasad has termed "the second messenger of peace"—said it is pointless to argue whether modern war would mean greater losses for one side or another.

At airport welcoming ceremonies, before India's Parliament, and at a banquet given in his honor by Prasad, Khrushchev held that war must be abandoned as madness.

Looking weary and in a somber mood, the 65-year-old Soviet leader told India's Parliament: "It is our firm conviction that the principles of peaceful coexistence should be the basis for settling all disputed international issues. This means that the way to solve them should be through negotiations on an equal footing rather than through pressure and dictation tactics."

Speaking of the 10-nation, East-West disarmament conference to open in Geneva March 15, Khrushchev said: "Let me assure you the Soviet Union will do everything in its power to assure that these talks result in a treaty of general and complete disarmament. The solution of these problems now depends on the Western side."

Gronchi Returns

ROME (AP) — President Giovanni Gronchi returned Thursday night from what he called interesting and useful talks with Soviet leaders.

The Italian President, Foreign Minister Giuseppe Pella and the other members of the party flew home after five days of discussions and sightseeing in the Soviet Union.

Flu, Pneumonia Deaths Mount

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deaths from influenza and pneumonia in 108 large cities have been running 20 per cent higher than they were two years ago during the 1957-58 Asian flu epidemic.

Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney of the Public Health Service, announcing this Thursday, said an increasing number of such deaths are being reported.

The 108 cities reported 4,033 deaths from influenza and pneumonia during the first five weeks of 1960. That was 44 per cent more than the 2,798 reported for the same 1959 period and compared with 3,357 in the first five weeks of 1958.

Crack Train Derailed; No Passengers Hurt

PEWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) —The Milwaukee Road's Hiawatha passenger train, running at only half-speed because of a snow storm, went off the tracks at a city crossing Thursday.

The 13 cars of the train and the "second wheels" on the third unit of the diesel engine slipped off the tracks, but remained upright. None of the 150 passengers bound for Minneapolis-St. Paul, was hurt, although some were shaken up.

Unemployment Shows Normal Seasonal Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The job boom that followed the end of the steel strike last November ran out of gas in January. Employment fell by 1,900,000 and unemployment rose as normal winter trends took over, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

Employment at 64,020,000 stood at the highest level of any January a million above a year ago; and hard goods factories continued to expand their payrolls.

Unemployment climbed by 572,000 over the month as stores laid off Christmas holiday help and the weather closed in on farming, building and other outdoor work.

The shifts were about normal for the season. They marked the end of the extraordinary gains following the 116-day steel strike, which sent employment up in December and unemployment down—a sharp reversal of the usual trend.

The rate of joblessness in January was 5.2 per cent, unchanged from December after allowing for seasonal factors.

This was well below the 6 per cent of a year ago, but a little higher than the jobless rate last spring before the strike began.

Gradual gains in the coming months were forecast by Seymour Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor. He told reporters the spring movement probably would be "a little better than seasonal."

Joblessness may be reduced to about 3½ million, he said, before students flock into the job market in June.

Soviets Cool To New U.S. A-Test Plan

Eisenhower Would Ban All But Limited Underground Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States urged the Soviet Union Thursday to accept a new nuclear weapons test ban which would allow limited underground blasts but prohibit atomic-hydrogen explosions in the air and sea.

President Eisenhower, in announcing the four-stage proposal at his news conference, said it would be a quick way to allay worldwide concern over possible increases in deadly radioactivity.

In Geneva, the Soviet chief disarmament negotiator, Semyon K. Tsarapkin, rejected the proposal as a backward step.

"I have not seen this plan yet," he said. "But, of course, I am against a limited nuclear test ban. It would just be a step backward."

Not Final Rejection

Top administration officials refused to view Tsarapkin's quick comment as a final rejection. But they clearly were not optimistic that the Kremlin would accept the plan.

The Eisenhower proposal would abandon, at least temporarily, the East-West search for an all-embracing agreement to stop all nuclear weapons tests. These talks have deadlocked at Geneva after 170 separate meetings stretching over a 15-month period.

During this time the United States, Soviet Union and Britain, the world's three atomic powers, have voluntarily halted tests while their experts sought a disarmament formula.

Disagree On Detection

The new U.S. plan would allow underground shots to be resumed if explosions registered no higher than a figure of 4.75 on detection devices—a blast American scientists say is roughly the size of the first atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

Soviet experts disagree and claim such a reading would measure a blast about eight times smaller than that.

Eisenhower said it was partly because of this disagreement between scientists of the two sides that he decided it was useless at this time to continue efforts to agree on a more sweeping, global plan.

The Soviets have demanded the existing ban on tests continue. They contend each side's detection devices are sensitive enough to determine if anyone cheated.

French Police Battle Farmers

The violence left 122 persons injured, including Police Chief M. Carpentier and 52 of his officers. Twelve policemen were hospitalized. Carpentier was hit by a hurled rock.

In an accident related indirectly to the bloody demonstrations, seven persons were killed and 40 were injured in the collision of a bus and truck near Amiens. The bus was filled with farmers returning home from the demonstrations.

A communique from the Interior Ministry said from 25,000 to 30,000 persons were involved in the riots that swirled through this city 70 miles north of Paris.

The farmers poured into the city throughout the day from over northern France. The ministry communique said many of those who took part appeared to have no connection with the farm demonstration.

Puerto Rican Stop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced Thursday that President Eisenhower will confer with Puerto Rican officials at the San Juan Airport on his way to South America Feb. 22.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, in releasing initial details of the President's 17,000 - mile South American tour, said Eisenhower probably will make an informal talk during the hour-long San Juan stopover.

Highway Crews Battle To Reach Isolated Towns

By The Associated Press

Midwest road crews, working in ear-tingling cold, tackled one of their biggest snow removal jobs in years Thursday in a race with a growing milk shortage in some isolated areas.

Dozens of small towns still were isolated and eyeing dwindling food supplies in northwestern Illinois, 24 hours after the worst snowstorm in a quarter century plastered the area with road-blocking drifts.

The storm dumped a heavy blanket of snow from the Great Plains to Michigan. Temperatures in the snow belt plummeted to near zero Thursday as arctic air flowed into the region.

The sharp temperature drop converted towering drifts of wet snow into ice-hardened obstacles that added to the problems of road cleanup crews.

Traffic on a number of highways in southeastern Wisconsin was blocked by snow and stalled cars. Travel on a few major highways in northwestern Illinois was limited to single-lane movement in spots.

But the mercury soared to a record 66 degrees in Newark, N. J., bettering by nine degrees the old record for the date set in 1955. Windsor Locks, Conn., recorded a record 57.

High winds, rain and melting snow caused minor flooding in New York State. Several schools were forced to close and a few roads and basements were flooded. Wind gusts up to 60 m.p.h. lashed New York City.

9 Feared Dead In Plane Crash

OAK HARBOR, Wash. (UPI)—A routine flying mission ended in tragedy Thursday when a Navy patrol plane with nine men aboard crashed into the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Four bodies were recovered. A search by planes and ships failed to turn up any trace of the other five crewmen aboard and they were presumed killed.

The P5-M-2, a two-engine plane, had left the Whidbey Island Naval Air Station on a routine flight but slightly less than two hours later its wreckage was sighted by another patrol plane.

Planes flying over the scene could spot only scattered debris and one large wing section.

Elvis Gets Sarge's Pay

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Elvis Presley got his sergeant's pay Thursday. The rock 'n' roll singer, now serving as a reconnaissance scout leader with an armored division in Bavaria, was made acting sergeant just before his unit went on maneuvers last month. That gave him the stripes, but not the pay. His promotion boosts his pay $22.94 a month to $180.24.

Paar, Angry Over Cutoff, Quits Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Jack Paar, feuding angrily with NBC because he was briefly cut off the air Wednesday night while relating an anecdote, quit his show in a huff Thursday night.

He had shown up as usual for taping of the program, for later broadcast, and had gone through the first 20 minutes of the show when he abruptly walked away from the television cameras and announced he was leaving.

The audience was thrown into commotion by the comedian's sudden outburst.

Stranded for the moment in the confusion were three well known guest stars — Genevieve, the French singer and actress; Orson Bean, actor and comedian, and comedian Shelley Berman.

An NBC spokesman subsequently announced that the show, exactly as taped including Paar's sudden departure, would be broadcast at its usual hour starting at 11:15 (EST).

A spokesman for the National Broadcasting Co. said Paar's story was "not in good taste." Paar declared that it was "very innocent" and added: "Whoever cut it—and I don't care who he was—was an idiot."

The program had been recorded in advance on video tape two hours before it was aired over the NBC network Wednesday night, starting at 11:15. When the portion with the anecdote was reached, a news summary was substituted. This lasted nearly five minutes.

The censored anecdote concerned the letters "W.C.," widely used in Europe as an abbreviation for water closet, and the confusion which ensued when someone took them to mean wayside chapel.

Khrush Tells India Arms Ban Is Up To West

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Following in President Eisenhower's footsteps, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev swung into his South Asian tour here Thursday with a call for world disarmament. He said disarmament is now strictly up to the West.

Welcomed in relatively low-keyed fashion by New Delhi street crowds, Khrushchev—whom President Rajendra Prasad has termed "the second messenger of peace"—said it is pointless to argue whether modern war would mean greater losses for one side or another.

At airport welcoming ceremonies, before India's Parliament, and at a banquet given in his honor by Prasad, Khrushchev held that war must be abandoned as madness.

Looking weary and in a somber mood, the 65-year-old Soviet leader told India's Parliament: "It is our firm conviction that the principles of peaceful coexistence should be the basis for settling all disputed international issues. This means that the way to solve them should be through negotiations on an equal footing rather than through pressure and dictation tactics."

Speaking of the 10-nation, East-West disarmament conference to open in Geneva March 15, Khrushchev said: "Let me assure you the Soviet Union will do everything in its power to assure that these talks result in a treaty of general and complete disarmament. The solution of these problems now depends on the Western side."

Gronchi Returns

ROME (AP) — President Giovanni Gronchi returned Thursday night from what he called interesting and useful talks with Soviet leaders.

The Italian President, Foreign Minister Giuseppe Pella and the other members of the party flew home after five days of discussions and sightseeing in the Soviet Union.

Still Loves Carole, Finch Says In Ending Testimony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dr. R. Bernard Finch Thursday ended eight days of dramatic testimony he hopes will save his life and made this vow: He still loves his pretty mistress and would marry her if he could.

The prosecutor asked the handsome society surgeon, on trial charged with murdering his wife, if he would now marry Carole Tregoff if he were free to do so.

"Yes," said Dr. Finch, "if Carole will have me."

Miss Tregoff, on trial with him, watched with tears in her eyes.

Another dramatic highlight came when the prosecutor asked if Dr. Finch didn't make up "this whole touching death scene" about Mrs. Finch's last moments "in order to avoid the implication you left the dying woman on the lawn."

"No, sir," the doctor snapped, "that is not true at all. It is absolutely false, every single word of it."

The doctor's story was that he shot his wife accidentally in a struggle for a gun and after she fell dying she gasped: "I'm sorry . . . Take care of the kids."

The wealthy 42-year-old physician and Miss Tregoff, 23, his one-time receptionist, are accused of coldly planning and carrying out the slaying of Dr. Finch's estranged wife, Barbara, 36.

The prosecution says he beat her and shot her at the Finch estate in suburban West Covina the night of last July 18 after a scheme to kill her and make it look accidental went awry. The alleged motive: to prevent Mrs. Finch from getting much of the doctor's wealth via divorce.

Tabs Remark Communism Best "Crazy"

President Scores Headline-Hunting In Defense Row

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's news conference spun through the fields of space and atoms Thursday to produce a gibe that a Khrushchev remark was crazy and to unveil a new proposal for banning most nuclear weapons tests.

The conference also brought forth a presidential slap at headline-hunting in the controversy over the status of national defense and the missile program.

Eisenhower reacted unhesitatingly though in subdued tones, to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's contention that the Soviet flag now is flying on the moon and this proves "the superiority of communism over capitalism."

The President was told Khrushchev was quoted as saying that to President Giovanni Gronchi of Italy while the latter was visitng the Soviet Union. The questioner asked: "What do you think of such remarks?"

"I think it's crazy," Eisenhower shot back.

"It's" Or "He's"

His voice was so low that stenographers differed as to whether the President said "it's" or "he's." Playback of a recorded tape showed it was the former.

In any event, once the laughter subsided, Eisenhower went on to say that of course the Soviet Union can come up with spectacular achievements if it wants to put all its strength in a particular field.

"But my contention," he said, "is we should not be hysterical when dictatorships do these things. Now, all of these things are possible, but they are not things that we should, in what we believe is a broader and better type of civilization, let — well, let it dismay us."

Eisenhower had something fresh with which to start off the news conference.

He walked in briskly with a cheery "good morning," said he had a statement, pulled out his gold-rimmed spectacles, and read.

A-Test Curb Plan Unveiled

The statement said the United States was presenting in Geneva Thursday a proposal to end a deadlock with the Soviet Union forbidding all tests but low-power underground nuclear weapons shots. The ban thus would apply to all tests in the atmosphere, oceans, controllable areas of space, and to larger underground explosions capable of certain detection.

The statement out of the way, the conference swung into the subject that has been getting more attention lately than any other at Eisenhower's sessions with reporters—the arguments in Congress and the Pentagon over defense and the missile program.

What Eisenhower had to say distilled down to something like this: It's fair to say the Pentagon people are experts in this field — which left the implication that congressmen aren't so expert. But the Pentagon people have different ideas about particular weapons or weapons systems and exploit and publicize them.

Flu, Pneumonia Deaths Mount

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deaths from influenza and pneumonia in 108 large cities have been running 20 per cent higher than they were two years ago during the 1957-58 Asian flu epidemic.

Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney of the Public Health Service, announcing this Thursday, said an increasing number of such deaths are being reported.

The 108 cities reported 4,033 deaths from influenza and pneumonia during the first five weeks of 1960. That was 44 per cent more than the 2,798 reported for the same 1959 period and compared with 3,357 in the first five weeks of 1958.

Crack Train Derailed; No Passengers Hurt

PEWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) —The Milwaukee Road's Hiawatha passenger train, running at only half-speed because of a snow storm, went off the tracks at a city crossing Thursday.

The 13 cars of the train and the "second wheels" on the third unit of the diesel engine slipped off the tracks, but remained upright. None of the 150 passengers bound for Minneapolis-St. Paul, was hurt, although some were shaken up.

AFL-CIO Unity Menaced By Inter-Union Flareup

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A new flareup between rival AFL-CIO unions Thursday threatened to disrupt unity in the merged labor movement.

Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers Union, reportedly told a closed session of fellow executive council members that unless long-standing rivalries between AFL-CIO unions are soon solved the five-year-old merged organization is headed for a breakup.

Reuther particularly attacked a new construction industry labor-management plan to take over maintenance and repair work in the nation's factories on a bargain basis from members of factory production unions.

Peter T. Schoemann, plumbers union president and a spokesman for former AFL craft unions, was ejected from a meeting Wednesday night of former CIO leaders of the federation's industrial union department. Schoemann was reported threatening to quit as a department vice president.

The renewed controversy came at a time when federation leaders were hoping that an end to perennial union squabbling was in sight. They recently adopted the arbitration method to settle such problems but are still trying to work out machinery to implement that plan.

Genovese Surrenders To Begin Prison Term

NEW YORK (UPI)—Vito Genovese, 62, described as one of the top Mafia chieftains in the nation, surrendered Thursday to federal authorities to begin serving a 15-year prison term for narcotics violations.

Genovese and 14 others were convicted last April of conspiracy to violate the narcotics law. It was the first time Genovese had been convicted of a crime in 40 years of brushes with the law.

FCC Proposes Stiff Penalties To Deter Payola

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stiff fines and prison terms were recommended by the Federal Communications Commission Thursday as a deterrent to payola and fixed quiz shows.

The commission proposed that Congress provide for fines of up to $5,000 and imprisonment for up to one year for deceptions in broadcasting.

It said in a statement that this would enable it to punish any guilty networks, advertisers, show producers and disc jockeys. All of these, it said, are now beyond its reach.

The commission contended its present authority extends only to individual radio and TV stations.

Most members of the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee, which is investigating payola or the practice of making concealed payments for plugging records on the air, withheld comment on the commission's proposal.

The subcommittee has recessed its inquiry until next Monday because of Lincoln's Bithday.

Baltimore Cops Win "Rebellion"

BALTIMORE (AP)—City policemen put the pinch on the flower fund Thursday—rebelling at the custom of giving retiring high brass a $1,000 gift.

Police Commissioner James M. Hepbron announced the five-year old practice would be discontinued.

It wasn't anything personal against Inspector William E. Taylor, for whom police officials planned a retirement gift. But many patrolmen asked why they should be contributing from their $5,000 a year salary to an inspector retiring on $6,500 a year.

Clerks, who also were expected to kick in, make only $3,300.

Policemen contribute 60 cents each payday to their flower fund for sick fellow workers and their families. The money also goes to help defray hospital costs.

The rumblings started when the chief inspector's office sent notices to nine police districts and three specialized divisions asking each to raise $80 for a gift for Inspector Taylor.

Taylor, 65, retired Thursday. Hearing about the dispute, he said he only wanted the "good will of the men" to take into retirement.

General Manager Of ANPA To Retire

NEW YORK (AP) — Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishing Assn., will retire July 31. He will be succeeded by Stanford Smith, assistant to the general manager.

Williams, general manager since 1939, has agreed to continue as a consultant to the new general manager and ANPA officers for two years. He will move in August, however, to his Lynchburg, Va., home.

AFTER ORDEAL — Nine-year-old Virgil Swartwood, of Erie, Pa., smiles from his hospital bed. He is recovering from a harrowing journey through an underground sewage tunnel. Boy Survives Journey Through Sewage Tunnel

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—"I hollered all the way. A couple of times my head went under. I tried to stop myself by hanging onto the sides but I couldn't stay there."

So related plucky 9-year-old Virgil Swartwood from a bed at Hamot Hospital Thursday in reliving his harrowing journey through an underground sewage tunnel.

Virgil fell into Mill Creek here Wednesday and ended up in Lake Erie's Presque Isle Bay 2½ miles away. The sewage tunnel passes through the center of the city and carries the creek's waters into the bay.

John Groschulski, 50, a city employe, saw the semiconscious boy clinging to a branch near the shore and dove into the icy water, holding Virgil's head up until a small boat came to their rescue.

Virgil, a third-grade pupil at Washington School, said he was swept into the sewer when he went to retrieve a glove for a friend.

"Then I fell down and I couldn't get up again. I tried to stop myself by hanging onto the sides but I couldn't stay there," he said.

His frantic efforts to grip the sides of the tube left Virgil's hands battered and bruised. He was otherwise unhurt. Virgil said the tube was shallower than his own 4-foot-plus height.

The Coast Guard said that half an hour in the 34-degree temperature of the water would normally prove fatal. Virgil spent about 40 minutes in the water.

Virgil probably will remain in the hospital until Monday.

Break In Coors Case Expected

GOLDEN, Colo. (UPI)—Sheriff Art Wermuth said Thursday night he was searching for three suspects in the probable kidnaping of millionaire brewer Adolph Coors III.

One, he said, was believed to be in Denver metropolitan area and the other two "are southeast of here."

Wermuth said the three were the occupants of an automobile seen three times last week in the vicinity of the Coors' sprawling ranch home in the foothills near Morrison, Colo., about 12 miles south of here.

Wermuth also said he expected the Coors case would "break" before Saturday noon.

Coors, 44, has been missing and presumed kidnaped since his bloodstained "carryall" truck was found abandoned on a winding road about two miles north of his home Tuesday.

Whereas he has been criticized on grounds he is skimping on defense to balance the budget, he said he never puts a budget together "on the basis of just achieving a balanced budget."

Eisenhower dismissed a question whether publication of missile figures has damaged national security and whether he expects to do anything about it. "I don't think the figures mean a lot," he said.

"I think we should be big enough not to seek headlines," he said at another point. "I think we should be big enough to put our heads together and see if we can get a real solution."

Van Rie Jury Visits Bleak "Death" Island

BOSTON (AP) — Wilhelm Van Rie's murder trial jury braved wind and rain Thursday to visit bleak Spectacle Island, a Boston Harbor spit where pretty Lynn Kauffman's body washed ashore last summer.

"What you see will be evidence," Superior Court Judge Frank J. Murray told the 12 jurors and two alternates—all men. "This will be the first evidence in this case."

The handsome 31-year-old Van Rie, Dutch radio operator on the Netherlands freighter Utrecht, did not accompany the jury as it retraced the route his vessel took when she left Boston, Sept. 18 in the setting sun.

Meanwhile, the district attorney's staff was ready with its opening courtroom statement, outlining its charge that Van Rie is guilty of first-degree murder in the strange death of the 23-year-old Miss Kauffman. The charge carries the death penalty on conviction.

Storm flags snapped in the wind as the jury made the three-hour trip down the harbor and back. They first viewed Commonwealth Pier where the Utrecht was tied up. Then they saw Spectacle Island through rain so thick visibility was restricted to about 100 yards.

Van Rie, a slender, erect, seafarer, with sandy, wavy hair, is accused of beating Miss Kauffman in her stateroom Sept. 18 in a quarrelsome climax to a shipboard romance that blossomed during the Utrecht's 44-day voyage from Singapore to Boston.

Her body was consigned to the sea as Utrecht sailed for New York on the last leg of her trip, the state contends. Immobilized by her injuries, the state says, Miss Kauffman drowned. Her body, clad in Bermuda shorts and loafers, was found next day on Spectacle Island.

Town Sealed Off As Body Of Stepinac Lies In State

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — The tiny Croatian village of Krasic, where Alojzije Cardinal Stepinac's body lies in state, remained sealed off Thursday to visitors from the outside.

Reverent villagers silently filed past the cardinal's bier in the 400-year-old parish church, while bells tolled and black flags hung in the frosty air.

Communist authorities maintained a tight cordon around the small, wine-growing village where the 61-year-old cardinal had been confined for the past nine years until his death Wednesday.

The Yugoslav government refused permission for the funeral to be held at Zagreb, seat of his archdiocese. But Yugoslavia's 22 Roman Catholic bishops, the cardinal's family and other people of Zagreb will be permitted to attend Requiem Mass and burial services in Krasic at 9 a.m. Saturday.

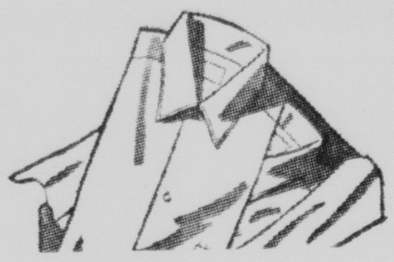

Newsmen were told the village is too small to accommodate visitors.

A medical bulletin issued by the cardinal's personal physician, Dr. Branislav Bogicevic, said an autopsy established a blood clot blocking the lung artery as the cause of death.

The handsome 31-year-old Van Rie, Dutch radio operator on the Netherlands freighter Utrecht, did not accompany the jury as it retraced the route his vessel took when she left Boston, Sept. 18 in the setting sun.

Meanwhile, the district attorney's staff was ready with its opening courtroom statement, outlining its charge that Van Rie is guilty of first-degree murder in the strange death of the 23-year-old Miss Kauffman. The charge carries the death penalty on conviction.

Storm flags snapped in the wind as the jury made the three-hour trip down the harbor and back. They first viewed Commonwealth Pier where the Utrecht was tied up. Then they saw Spectacle Island through rain so thick visibility was restricted to about 100 yards.

Van Rie, a slender, erect, seafarer, with sandy, wavy hair, is accused of beating Miss Kauffman in her stateroom Sept. 18 in a quarrelsome climax to a shipboard romance that blossomed during the Utrecht's 44-day voyage from Singapore to Boston.

Her body was consigned to the sea as Utrecht sailed for New York on the last leg of her trip, the state contends. Immobilized by her injuries, the state says, Miss Kauffman drowned. Her body, clad in Bermuda shorts and loafers, was found next day on Spectacle Island.

Town Sealed Off As Body Of Stepinac Lies In State

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — The tiny Croatian village of Krasic, where Alojzije Cardinal Stepinac's body lies in state, remained sealed off Thursday to visitors from the outside.

Reverent villagers silently filed past the cardinal's bier in the 400-year-old parish church, while bells tolled and black flags hung in the frosty air.

Communist authorities maintained a tight cordon around the small, wine-growing village where the 61-year-old cardinal had been confined for the past nine years until his death Wednesday.

The Yugoslav government refused permission for the funeral to be held at Zagreb, seat of his archdiocese. But Yugoslavia's 22 Roman Catholic bishops, the cardinal's family and other people of Zagreb will be permitted to attend Requiem Mass and burial services in Krasic at 9 a.m. Saturday.

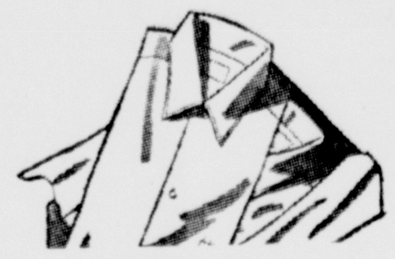

Newsmen were told the village is too small to accommodate visitors.

Poltergeist Puzzle Still Wispy Affair

By JOY MILLER
Associated Press Writer

If your house has to be haunted, and you have any choice of ghosts, by all means pick a poltergeist.

This prankish ghost is the extrovert of the spirit world. It may toss your furniture around, keep your nerves on edge waiting for the next cup to float through the air, drop lighted matches from your ceiling.

But it won't stay long—a couple of months at most—and it won't hurt you, except maybe for a playful pinch.

In Baltimore a three-generation family, including a teen - age grandson, reported flying sugar bowls, falling glassware and exploding bottles.

An elderly couple, with a visiting 16-year-old grandson, said objects flew across rooms, a davenport and refrigerator overturned and tumblers jumped off shelves at their farm home near Guttenberg, Iowa.

Maybe, though, the fun of all the entertaining will make up for the extra work. There's no doubt you'll have company.

Firemen, police, utility men, plumbers, homebuilders, men with all kinds of detecting apparatus, reporters, photographers, spiritualistic mediums, college professors, strangers with surefire remedies remembered from the old country, people who offer to exorcise the spirit for a small fee, both real and would-be authorities on poltergeists and the just plain curious all will come trooping to your door.

In fact, if you charged admission you could probably replace all the dishes and bric a brac likely to get broken, either by the ghost or the guests.

"You really get worn out, with people constantly coming and going, and with all the phone calls," recalls Mrs. James M. Herrmann of Seaford, Long Island, N. Y.

In February, two years ago, the Herrmann family, which included Jimmy, 12, and Lucille, 14, was bedevilled by popping bottles and flying objects in one of the most publicized poltergeist cases in recent years.

The Herrmanns received letters from all over the world offering theories that ranged from spacemen to the devil at work, a restless spirit, and psychokinesis—movement of an object by mental rather than physical, means. Mr. Herrmann favored electro-magnetic forces.

His wife says now: "I don't think there is any definte solution. It was just one of those things, with no rhyme or reason to it. But there was a definite physical force behind it. You should have seen the dent in the secretary where the figurine flew through the air and hit it. And the figurine exploded into a million splinters. Nobody was in the room when it happened. But I don't believe it was a poltergeist. I still say: 'If it's a poltergeist, you'll have to show it to me.'"

One of the scientific investigators in the Herrmann case was Dr. Nandor Fodor, a New York psychoanalyst and a pioneer in taking poltergeist phenomena out of the spirit world and into the psychological field. For nearly 40 years he has been interested in psychical research, and his latest book on the subject, "The Haunted Mind," has just been published by Helix Press.

Dr. Fodor explains this viewpoint: "the belief is that, in order to make contact with objects, such as dishes or knickknacks, and project its 'spirit' energies, the entity must work through a living person—a medium. Since many of these cases (although not all) have centered about young boys and girls, it has been suggested that adolescents are in a particularly vulnerable or 'sensitive' state."

The parapsychologists theorized in the Herrmann case that the source of the invisible power which moved objects about the house was psychic, unconsciously operating through the boy.

Dr. Fodor says: "since poltergeist phenomena are usually associated with a boy or girl at the pubertal age, it is widely assumed that a side-tracking of the sexual energies in a maturing body may be responsible for the explosive manifestation. The why and how of this psycho-biological disorder is as yet unknown."

He has evolved a "poltergeist psychosis" which he calls "an episodic mental disturbance of schizophrenic character." This means that while the person is in this state, one part of his mind or personality dissociates, and he carries out destructive acts that represent his repressed desires or frustrations. Later, he doesn't remember anything about it.

"On the other hand," muses Dr. Fodor, "my experiences have shown that there are many events —usually at the beginning of the outbreaks—which are extremely hard to explain by completely normal physical laws."

Dr. Fodor hopes we'll get it all figured out someday. So until then hold up all invitations to ghosts, spirits and their ghoulish friends.

Strike Closes All Stores Of Six Biggest Grocery Chains In Washington Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—All stores of the six biggest grocery chains, supplying 75 per cent of the food sold at retail in the Washington area, were closed Thursday because of a meat cutters strike.

The walkout, over a pay dispute, started Wednesday morning at five of the chains but most of the stores remained open even though union grocery clerks refused to cross picket lines.

The Giant chain, with 42 stores, was not directly hit. That concern, however, joined in Wednesday night when the operators of A&P, Safeway, Acme, Grand Union and Food Lane outlets decided against opening Thursday. Giant management said it took the action "to protect the integrity of our bargaining unit." Giant employes said they would treat that chain's shutdown as a lockout and demand pay.

The six chains are members of the Food Employers Labor Relations Assn., formed for bargaining with the employes. Joseph B. Danzansky, attorney for the association, said the closure was caused by the refusal of the 5,000 members of the retail clerks union to cross the picket lines of the 1,400 members of the meat cutters and butcher workmen union.

The strike was called after the meat cutters membership rejected, on a 528-224 vote, a wage agreement worked out with management by a negotiating team.

The contract would have run for 28 months with a wage increase immediately from $92 to $97 a week for journeymen workers, and a raise to $103 on April 1, 1961.

The workers originally sought 30 cents an hour immediately in a one-year contract. Principal objections voiced at the membership meeting were against the length of the tentative pact.

The grocery clerks union also is in pay negotiations. A total of more than 260 stores is affected.

CANDIDATE — Edward J. Klima (above) of Glen Burnie, an Anne Arundel County commissioner, has filed for the Democratic nomination to Congress from Maryland's 5th Congressional district. The seat is now held by Rep. Richard E. Landford (D-Md.), who also has filed for the May 17 primary.

Two Brothers Held In Fatal Shooting

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—Two brothers were held Thursday for a preliminary hearing on charges of the fatal shooting of their 55-year-old stepfather.

Sheriff Calvert Creighton said James Gilbert Murray, 37, and Vernon Gilbert Murray, 20, were arrested by State Police about six miles south of Easton shortly after George W. Lee was shot to death.

Police said Lee was shot twice in the head at the home where he and the two brothers lived at Airey.

All are Negroes.

Loan Company Curbs Sought

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Del. Tydings (R-Harford) introduced Thursday a bill aimed at tightening state control of savings and loan associations operating in Maryland.

The bill would require a minimum five-year residency of incorporators of such associations, restrict the types of loans they make, prohibit the use of a second party to "front" as an officer of an association and require a financial statement to be made available to depositors within 30 days after each annual audit.

A Baltimore City delegate proposed that acts similar to the recent wave of swastika smearing of synagogues be made punishable by stiff fines and imprisonment.

Del. Welcome (D-Balto 4th) introduced legislation defining such an act as a misdemeanor and providing a maximum penalty of a $500 fine and one year in prison.

Her bill would apply to the defacing or damaging of any house of worship, parsonage or cemetery.

The latest victims were Roy E. Kelley, 30, of Anderson, S.C.; Warren G. ay, 69, of Camp Springs, and Curtis Glenn Vickers, 3, of Galestown.

Kelley was killed when his car hit a tractor-trailer on U.S. 15 just north of Frederick Thursday. State Police said the truck driven by Thomas E. Goode, 23, Negro, of Richmond, Va. was backing across the road trying to pull another tractor-trailer from a ditch when the car rammed into the truck.

Day was hit by a car Wednesday night while walking across Maryland 5 at Camp Springs.

The Vickers boy ran from his front yard on to the main street in Galestown near the Delaware line and was hit by a car Wednesday. The driver was unable to swerve in time to avoid missing him because of other children playing on the opposite side of the street, police said.

A report on the Women's Forum in Washington last month was given by Mrs. Rosalie Everstine, who attended with Mrs. Reynolds. She also told of the World War I luncheon meeting at the Hamilton Hotel when Mrs. Brith Wilson, original president of Region 4, complimented the auxiliaries on their work for membership and hospitals.

Mrs. Emily Miller was elected a three-year trustee. Plans were completed for a joint installation March 19 at the VFW home. Mrs. Myrtle Brode is chairman of arrangements. Her committee includes Mrs. Margaret Baker, Mrs. Josephine Shanski, Mrs. Betty Knipple, Mrs. Amanda Robinette, Mrs. Dianna Fuler; Mrs. Catherine Wilson for table decorations; Mrs. Helene Bujac, programs and Mrs. Clara Manthely, serving.

A surprise party was given in compliment to Mrs. Reynolds, retiring president. On behalf of the auxiliary, Mrs. Smith presented an evening sweater and brunch coat to her. She also received a heart shaped cake, and personal gift from Mrs. Fuller. Mrs. Reynolds read a poem, "Worthy Secretary," dedicated to Mrs. Everstine, secretary-treasurer. Prizes were won by Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Koegel and Mrs. Rose Robinson. Candles and red and white hearts decorated the table in the Valentine motif. "Happy Birthday" was sung by the barracks and auxiliary for Mrs. Shay. The committee for the evening consisted of Mrs. Everstine, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Daisy Buskey, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Shanski, Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Blanch Festerman.

Abe Lincoln, 100 Years Ago, Acted Like Today's Presidential Hopefuls

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—One hundred years ago presidential hopefuls acted coy, wistful and—behind scenes—eager, just as they do today.

That was true even when the presidential candidate was Abraham Lincoln.

The Lincoln Sesquicentennial Commission is putting out a three-volume chronology, "Lincoln Day by Day." The first two books were released Wednesday, taking Lincoln from birth to just before he entered the White House.

The last entry in Vol. 2 is for Dec. 31, 1860. Lincoln is in Springfield, Ill., struggling over his choices for Cabinet posts.

But at this season, when presidential candidates bud everywhere, let's look at A. Lincoln, hopeful.

Specifically, 100 years ago Lincoln was writing a county treasurer about an embarrasing omission. He had forgotten to pay some taxes.

But, generally, Lincoln was keeping his eye on the main chance. On Feb. 23 he was to leave for New York and one of those nonpolitical political trips.

As he left for his big speech in New York's Cooper Union, the Illinois State Register commented: "Subject, not known. Consideration, $200 and expenses. Object, presidential capital. Effect, disappointment."

The Register editorial writer guessed wrong. Lincoln's speech was well-received, and so were those he made in New England.

Many scholars think this trip put him in the White House, but at the time things didn't look rosy to Lincoln.

Well, as you know, he got the job.

And Vol. 3 will no doubt support the theory he did pretty well in it.

Business Good But Falls Short Of Predictions

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Business isn't as peppy as economists predicted early last month, but administration officials show no visible concern. Some even say it might be a good thing.

Actually, business is quite good. It only looks a little weak in contrast to January's rosy forecasts. Economists predicted then the economy would steam ahead full throttle once the steel dispute was settled.

Now it appears the pickup will be more moderate. If so, it would mean the impact of any recession later this year would be less sharp.

Walter Reuther, AFL-CIO vice president, and even some members of the business community have predicted a moderate recession in the latter half of 1960. Some government economists challenge the forecast.

The biggest economic disappointments of the year so far have been in new car sales and the inventories held by many firms. Further evidence of the slower pace of the economy has been the downward trend of interest rates since Christmas.

Auto sales increased in January but failed to show the big gain hoped for by the industry. Officials blamed the steel strike. They said would-be buyers believed cars were not generally available and that dealers were charging top prices for those they had.

As for inventories, firms restocked more in December than had been expected. This was especially true of steel - using industries. Durable goods producers built up their inventories almost to the high levels of last summer. Now they are buying stock at a slower pace.

However, the current inventory picture could mean that demand will be spread out more evenly over the year.

Briton Sails 32-Foot Chinese Junk To U.S.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A young British yachtsman sailed his 32-foot Chinese junk, High Tea, into San Francisco Bay Wednesday, completing a 7,500-mile voyage from Hong Kong.

"It has been an interesting experience," remarked Brian Platt, 29, a former British colonial service agent. "But I do not regard small-boat cruising as a way of life. Now I'm going to get cleaned up and enjoy myself. I'm going to see the bright lights of San Francisco for at least a week."

He hopes to sell the junk for $12,000 and enter business in Vancouver, B. C.

Platt left Hong Kong May 7.

NEW YORK (AP) — Financial analysts appear to be losing some of their apprehension about the effects of slower than expected automobile sales, a factor that has been taking part of the blame for the stock market's weakness.

Because new car buying hasn't been going at the very high rate forecast at the start of the year, some observers took it as an indication that business in general was drying up.

Looking at sales reports for January, the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. said: "The disappointment in January may mean a somewhat slower pace of assemblies for the first quarter than had previously been planned, with possible overtime reductions in the industry.

"But it does not mean that the automobile market has suddenly turned soft. It is better than it was in December and it is better than it was a year ago."

Hemphill, Noyes & Co. says some observers wonder whether the automobile industry may not have reverted to the seasonal selling pace that until a few years ago was considered the normal pattern.

"If this occurs and there are signs of a spring upturn," the firm added, "it could be the stimulant needed for the stock market to regain confidence."

The financial analyst of the publishing firm of Prentice-Hall, Inc., comments that if the December exuberance about 1960 business prospects was overdone, so, too, is the current anxiety.

"Our year - end projections for U.S. business, pointing to 1960 as ou best year yet, remain unshaken," he says.

"New business soberness will actually be beneficial to the extent it helps prevent sloppy cost control, on the one side, and excesses in inventory accumulation, in capital outlay and in the stock market, on the other.

"Such excesses would inevitably lead to sharper subsequent corrections than would a steady, more gradual buildup in these areas."

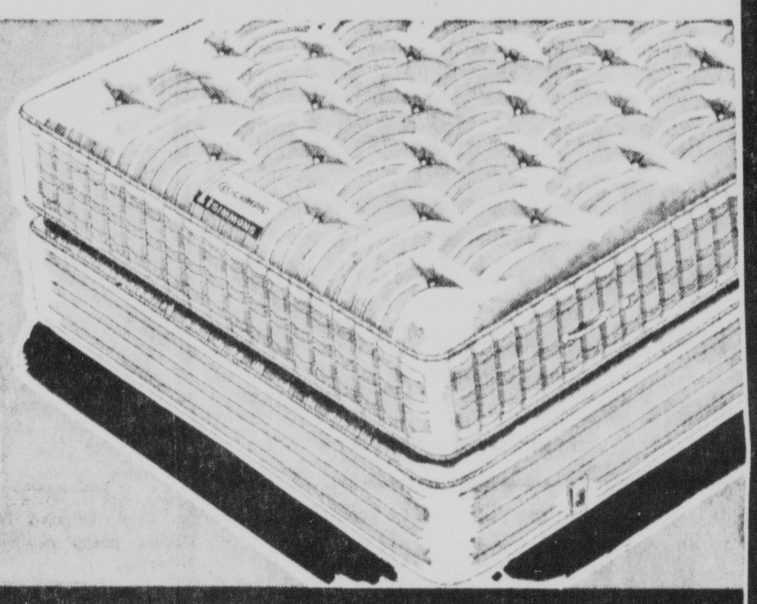

Gliding was primarily developed in Germany.

Sisters, Always Close, Die At Same Time

HONESDALE, Pa. (UPI)—The Schoonover girls were born what seems a long, long time ago in the Lake Como area north of here.

Charlotte was born 80 years ago—her sister Rachel a year later.

They grew up tied closely by sisterly relations—even after they married and Charlotte became Mrs. Ellison and Rachel became Mrs. Stermer.

Rachel was stricken ill at her home at Port Jervis, N.Y., 52 miles from the birthplace, last November. Charlotte visited her.

Charlotte suffered a stroke on Christmas Day.

Then Wednesday—the two died, at exactly the same time, 6:10 a.m. Charlotte at Tyler Hill, Rachel at her Port Jervis home.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stanley and Janice Berenstain, mated in marriage and cartooning, spoof the child-raising experts in a new book: "...And Beat Him When He Sneezes."

"It covers," said Mrs. Berenstain in an interview, "infancy from minus-nine to plus - forty months.

"Everyone knows that the average baby is never going to do what the experts say the average baby does. Our book tells what really happens."

The Berenstains, married for 13 years, raise children and create rib-ticklers in their home in Elkins Park, a suburb of Philadelphia.

They began their cartooning studies at the Museum School of Industrial Art in Philadelphia. They continue their studies—every time they see children and parents locked in battle.

"We have done books based largely on our personal experience in the child-raising arena before," she said, "but this one was done with a certain detachment.

"Our boys Mike and Leo have reached the ages — 12 and 8 — where you might say we've been through the worst of the war. The humor in child-raising is more apparent now than it was when we were involved with — say diapers and bottles."

The title for their newest book is drawn from what the Berenstains describe as a "note of discipline" written by Lewis Carroll in "Alice in Wonderland."

Carroll wrote: "Speak roughly to your little boy, and beat him when he sneezes; he only does it to annoy, because he knows it teases."

The book begins with a humorous interpretation of expectant parenthood, including things funny about maternity clothes. The cartoonists also poke fun at grandmothers, nurses, obstetricians, and psychological testing.

The child's view of grandmother: Two giant out-stretched hands, framing a dime-sized smiling face.

Obstetricians come in four types. "Old Doc Beamish" — the family doctor—delivered the patient many years ago. He recalls —"You were . . . bald as an egg, red as an apple, and wrinkled as a prune."

The VIP (very important physician) delivers the international set. To be on his list is a distinction. But when your time comes, his crew-cut, bobby-soxed assistant shows up. The "task-master" treats his patients like plebes at West Point; the "lady doctor" is pregnant.

Ship Insurance Firms Hit Hard

LONDON (UPI)—That "ole debil sea," slapped insurance companies last year for their biggest losses in a dozen years, underwriters said Wednesday.

However, unforeseen hazards in navigating the St. Lawrence Seaway in Canada were a big part of the losses that reduced marine insurance income to a "slender margin," according to the annual report of the Liverpool Underwriters Assn.

One hundred ships aggregating 338,000 tons were lost at sea in 1959, the largest number since 1947. Fifteen ships were sunk in collisions. The association blamed failure to use radar correctly for the big collision loss. There were 428 losses by fire and explosions; three-quarters of these occurred in ports.

As for the St. Lawrence, the association said losses were caused by congestion at the locks, inadequate dredging and poor loading facilities. The report blamed some shipping lines for rushing ships up the St. Lawrence riding high in the water without cargo or adequate ballast.

These ships thus were exposed to high winds in shallow waters and narrow channels with which their officers and crews were unfamiliar and much damage resulted.

Capt. Edward Teach was the real name of Blackbeard the pirate.

Both the Pacific and Atlantic oceans can be seen from the peak of Mt. Irazu, Costa Rica.

Sisters, Always Close, Die At Same Time

HONESDALE, Pa. (UPI)—The Schoonover girls were born what seems a long, long time ago in the Lake Como area north of here.

Charlotte was born 80 years ago—her sister Rachel a year later.

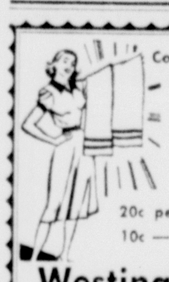

They grew up tied closely by sisterly relations—even after they married and Charlotte became Mrs. Ellison and Rachel became Mrs. Stermer.

Rachel was stricken ill at her home at Port Jervis, N.Y., 52 miles from the birthplace, last November. Charlotte visited her.

Charlotte suffered a stroke on Christmas Day.

Then Wednesday—the two died, at exactly the same time, 6:10 a.m. Charlotte at Tyler Hill, Rachel at her Port Jervis home.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stanley and Janice Berenstain, mated in marriage and cartooning, spoof the child-raising experts in a new book: "...And Beat Him When He Sneezes."

"It covers," said Mrs. Berenstain in an interview, "infancy from minus-nine to plus - forty months.

"Everyone knows that the average baby is never going to do what the experts say the average baby does. Our book tells what really happens."

The Berenstains, married for 13 years, raise children and create rib-ticklers in their home in Elkins Park, a suburb of Philadelphia.

They began their cartooning studies at the Museum School of Industrial Art in Philadelphia. They continue their studies—every time they see children and parents locked in battle.

"We have done books based largely on our personal experience in the child-raising arena before," she said, "but this one was done with a certain detachment.

"Our boys Mike and Leo have reached the ages — 12 and 8 — where you might say we've been through the worst of the war. The humor in child-raising is more apparent now than it was when we were involved with — say diapers and bottles."

The title for their newest book is drawn from what the Berenstains describe as a "note of discipline" written by Lewis Carroll in "Alice in Wonderland."

Carroll wrote: "Speak roughly to your little boy, and beat him when he sneezes; he only does it to annoy, because he knows it teases."

The book begins with a humorous interpretation of expectant parenthood, including things funny about maternity clothes. The cartoonists also poke fun at grandmothers, nurses, obstetricians, and psychological testing.

The child's view of grandmother: Two giant out-stretched hands, framing a dime-sized smiling face.

Obstetricians come in four types. "Old Doc Beamish" — the family doctor—delivered the patient many years ago. He recalls —"You were . . . bald as an egg, red as an apple, and wrinkled as a prune."

The VIP (very important physician) delivers the international set. To be on his list is a distinction. But when your time comes, his crew-cut, bobby-soxed assistant shows up. The "task-master" treats his patients like plebes at West Point; the "lady doctor" is pregnant.

Ship Insurance Firms Hit Hard

LONDON (UPI)—That "ole debil sea," slapped insurance companies last year for their biggest losses in a dozen years, underwriters said Wednesday.

However, unforeseen hazards in navigating the St. Lawrence Seaway in Canada were a big part of the losses that reduced marine insurance income to a "slender margin," according to the annual report of the Liverpool Underwriters Assn.

One hundred ships aggregating 338,000 tons were lost at sea in 1959, the largest number since 1947. Fifteen ships were sunk in collisions. The association blamed failure to use radar correctly for the big collision loss. There were 428 losses by fire and explosions; three-quarters of these occurred in ports.

As for the St. Lawrence, the association said losses were caused by congestion at the locks, inadequate dredging and poor loading facilities. The report blamed some shipping lines for rushing ships up the St. Lawrence riding high in the water without cargo or adequate ballast.

These ships thus were exposed to high winds in shallow waters and narrow channels with which their officers and crews were unfamiliar and much damage resulted.

Capt. Edward Teach was the real name of Blackbeard the pirate.

Both the Pacific and Atlantic oceans can be seen from the peak of Mt. Irazu, Costa Rica.

Authorities Asked To Fill In Grand Jury

State's Attorney James S. Getty at a meeting with heads of the law enforcement departments of Allegany County communities and the State Police detachment here yesterday outlined some matters which should be looked into.

Getty said that in view of the lack of a January term of the grand jury there is a six-month gap during which officers are not brought before these juries and the meeting will help fill this gap.

Getty commented at length to the officers on the sale of obscene literature and movies which are shown and contain scenes of nudity. He cited the attorney general's ruling on the movies.

He said the recent decision by the Cumberland Times-News papers in rejecting any advertising of movies in which photographs of lewd or suggestive nature has been of great help in the campaign against such films.

Getty said that he has no intention of setting up his office as a "board of censorship" in connection with the sale of magazines and books which may be obscene.

He said that each officer at the meeting was given copies of the statutes pertaining to the sale of obscene literature and when they find any such material for sale on the bookstands they should bring the matter to the attention of his office.

When this is done the person involved will be prosecuted under the prescribed statute and basis of the evidence contained in this literature.

Getty also gave the officers a briefing on the liquor laws and regulations and the names of three establishments which allegedly have been selling intoxicants without a license.

In connection with the $250 federal stamp which is affixed to pinball machines which may be used for gambling or payoffs, Getty said he has compiled a list of the holders of these federal stamps and the officers were instructed to investigate if these devices were being used for gambling or payoffs.

ALBERT A. HELMICK

A. A. Helmick Treasurer For Heart Drive

Albert A. Helmick, assistant cashier of the First National Bank and Trust Company, has accepted the position as treasurer of the 1960 Heart Fund campaign, which is being conducted throughout the month of February in Allegany and Garrett counties.

His appointment was announced yesterday by George R. Hughes Jr., general chairman of the fund-raising program designed to raise $20,205 to fight heart diseases, the nation's number one killer.

Helmick's chief duties will be to set up an organization of bank employes to accept the Heart Sunday collections on Sunday, February 28, in the Times-News Building. Heart Sunday is the date on which the door-to-door solicitation will be conducted between 1 and 4 p. m.

A native of Fort Ashby and a graduate of the high school there, Helmick also attended Catherman's Business School. He has lived in Potomac Park since 1946, when he began his employment with First National.

The campaign treasurer has been attending a two-week course at the Rutgers University School of Banking, New Brunswick, N. J., each summer for three years. He will complete the program this year.

This is the first time he has helped in the Heart Fund campaign and expressed pleasure in having the opportunity of lending his assistance to collect the funds necessary to carry on the research, education and community service programs of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association.

The largest brass cannon ever cast was made in India in 1548 and weighed approximately 80 tons.

Teacher Pay Request Gets Some Comment

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday did not openly endorse the request of the County Teachers Association for a $200 across-the-board salary increase for all teachers.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said he had not read the newspaper account which appeared in The Cumberland News yesterday but feels that something will have to be done about the poorly-paid county employes before any action on a teacher salary raise Commissioner William A. Wilson and Commissioner John T. Mason said they were waiting to see what action is taken on the state level and possibly on a federal program on teachers salaries.

CARRIERS OF GOOD HEALTH

ST. ALBANS, Vt. (UPI) — Physical fitness expert Bonnie Pruden says that "newspaper boys are among the toughest, best conditioned youths in our nation today." She pointed out that "they have to walk and lift the weight of 50 to 100 papers and toughen themselves by doing it come rain, sleet or snow."

Mt. Savage Resident Sues Prison

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—An inmate at the Maryland House of Correction has filed a $40,000 damage suit against the warden and a guard who allegedly slammed a cell door on him.

The suit was filed in Anne Arundel Circuit Court by Elmer J. Carder 41, of Mt. Savage, serving a four-year term.

Carder claims permanent deafness as a result of guard Donald Hayward's "maliciously, willfully, negligently and without due care" slamming the cell door on him. The suit holds Warden William F. Steiner responsible for Hayward's conduct. Carder said the incident occurred Feb. 6, 1959.

Circuit Court Judge Benjamin Michaelson says he can recall no comparable case during his 11 years on the bench.

Deputy Warden Joseph B. Deutsch said Carder's tentative release date is March 10 but he is wanted by Pennsylvania authorities for burglary.

Pork Chop Tradition

Here's an offering that has a habit of wending its way into the traditional meals that will be highly regarded in your home.

It's called Pork Chops—Mincemeat Stuffing. Featured in the recipe are pork rib chops, bread crumbs, mincemeat and chopped onion.

Aside from the stuffing mixture, the chops are prepared in the same manner as braised pork chops. After stuffing simply brown the chops on both sides in lard or drippings, pour off drippings, season, cover tightly and simmer 45 minutes to 1 hour.

The chops used are rib chops and you'll want to make sure the pocket is cut into the chop along the bone.

Pork Chops—Mincemeat Stuffing

6 rib pork chops, cut 1 inch thick
1 cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup mincemeat
3 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon lard or drippings
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Make pocket in each chop by cutting into the chop along the bone. (Chops cut from this side hold the stuffing better.) Combine crumbs, mincemeat and onion and stuff each chop with this mixture. Brown chops on both sides in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season. Cover tightly and simmer 45 minutes to 1 hour or until done.

Try this dessert idea some cold wintry night. Melt mint apple jelly to spoon over canned pears. It's delicious — and all from your pantry shelf.

Porklets—New Idea

What homemaker isn't interested in new meat cuts and new recipes? New recipes are always available to the homemaker through various outlets but it's the woman of the household that must ask questions and perhaps get her meat retailer to merchandise a certain cut of meat.

Within the past year, a new pork cut has come on to the market. . . the meat industry is putting forth effort to interest retailers from coast to coast in merchandising the cut.

It's called a porklet. Have you had the opportunity to try it yet? It is becoming an all time favorite in the home as well as in public eating places.

The porklet will remind you of a "Cubed" steak. It's processed in a mechanical device and weighs about 4 ounces uncooked. Of course depending on preference, it may also weigh more.

Since the porklet is actually a tender cut of meat to begin with, the mechanical treatment is simply in the interest of shortening the cooking time.

Being pork, it should be cooked to the well done stage. This cut may be panbroiled, griddle-broiled or fried. A small amount of fat may be added if necessary. No water is added. The meat is turned occasionally and the fat poured off as it accumulates.

Porklets

4 porklets (approximately one pound)
2 tablespoons lard
Salt
Pepper

Cook meat in lard until browned, about 15 minutes, turning occasionally. Pour off drippings if desired. Season with salt and pepper. Yield: 4 servings.

A dessert elegant but simple is prunes plumped in sherry and served with a plop of sweet whipped cream.

Turnovers, Hot Coffee Add Sparkle To Lunch Box

A lunch box wouldn't be complete without a sandwich and a generous jug of hot coffee. Nor would it be any fun if there weren't a special treat tucked away in a corner.

For those of us who pack a lunch every morning for a hungry man or an active teen-ager, here's a marvelous suggestion on how to add a bit of sparkle to its contents. On your next baking day, make a batch of these luscious Apple-Walnut Turnovers. They're just the right size for a lunch basket and they keep wonderfully fresh when they're wrapped in foil. Unlike most desserts, they're easy to eat in the hand and, best of all, they provide a happy surprise every time they're "discovered."

The ingredients for the turnovers make them special from the start. In addition to the tart apples, they call for raisins, walnuts, grated lemon peel and even a bit of cheese. They're so special, in fact, it's a good idea to include some extras—right along with plenty of fragrant hot coffee. Coffee is far and away the best accompaniment!

APPLE-WALNUT TURNOVERS

2 tart apples, cored, pared and chopped
⅓ cup golden seedless raisins
1 lemon, juice and grated peel
¾ cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
½ cup chopped walnuts
2 packages pie crust mix
4 slices processed American cheese

Combine first 5 ingredients, bring to boiling and lower heat. Simmer 15 minutes. Cool. Add walnuts. Prepare the pie crust mix. Roll out, ¼ at a time, to ⅛-inch thickness. Cut in 4-inch squares. Place 1 tablespoon apple mixture in each square. Place ½ slice cheese, cut on the diagonal, on top. Fold to form triangles. Press edges together with floured tines of fork. Bake in hot oven, 425°, about 20 minutes, or until golden brown. Yield: 8 turnovers.

New Fiber Plant

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. and Aku United Rayon Manufacturing Co., a large Dutch textile firm, announced plans to build a glass textile fiber plant in Europe. The venture will be PPG's first into overseas manufacturing and Aku's first into glass fiber making.

Develops New Tape

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co. has developed a new elcetronic system that records as many as 20 separate radio or telephone communications simultaneously on one inch magnetic tape. The new system is now in production and delivery of the first unit is scheduled in March.

For a delightful first course to a birthday dinner, lightly brown ¼ cup sliced mushrooms in butter. Add 1 can condensed consomme, 1 soup can water and ¼ cup sliced ripe olives. Heat; then for a "party touch" serve with a dash of sherry.

Pork Chop Tradition

Here's an offering that has a habit of wending its way into the traditional meals that will be highly regarded in your home.

It's called Pork Chops—Mincemeat Stuffing. Featured in the recipe are pork rib chops, bread crumbs, mincemeat and chopped onion.

Aside from the stuffing mixture, the chops are prepared in the same manner as braised pork chops. After stuffing, simply brown the chops on both sides in lard or drippings, pour off drippings, season, cover tightly and simmer 45 minutes to 1 hour.

The chops used are rib chops and you'll want to make sure the pocket is cut into the chop along the bone.

Pork Chops—Mincemeat Stuffing

6 rib pork chops, cut 1 inch thick
1 cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup mincemeat
3 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon lard or drippings
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Make pocket in each chop by cutting into the chop along the bone. (Chops cut from this side hold the stuffing better.) Combine crumbs, mincemeat and onion and stuff each chop with this mixture. Brown chops on both sides in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season. Cover tightly and simmer 45 minutes to 1 hour or until done.

Try this dessert idea some cold wintry night. Melt mint apple jelly to spoon over canned pears. It's delicious — and all from your pantry shelf.

Naturalist Charles Darwin wrote a book on orchids in which he theorized that some gigantic moth must aid in the pollination of a certain Madagascar species whose nectar-laden flowers have spurs one foot long or more. Years later scientists identified the pollinating moth, Xanthopan morgani. It has an eight-inch proboscis.

Their mushroom-domed monastery 45 miles from Moscow was once one of the richest and most important shrines of the Orthodox Church. A home economist well versed in the field of meat cookery and recipe testing offers this recipe—Ham and Broccoli Bake—as a way of sprucing up those leftovers.

You'll see when you read the recipe that it's one you'll want to try—if not today, maybe tomorrow.

Slices of cooked ham, broccoli spears, mushrooms and a paprika flavored white sauce combine in a casserole dish. Before baking, the casserole is sprinkled with corn flake crumbs. Serve it to the family . . . serve it for company. This dish wins friends with just the first taste.

Ham and Broccoli Bake

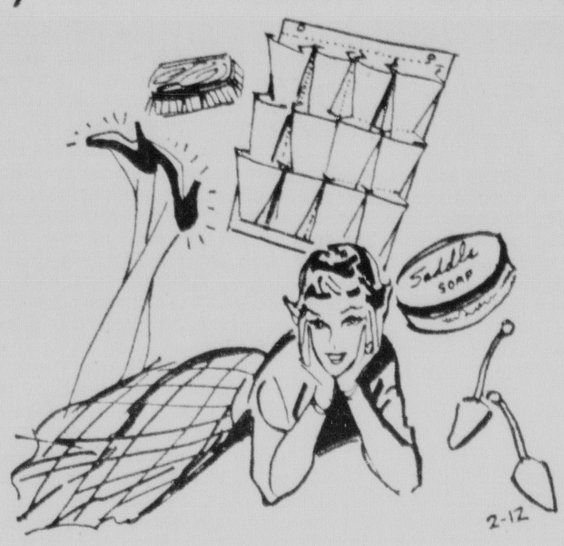

- 5 slices cooked ham, cut ¼ inch thick
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 1 can (2½ ounces) chopped or sliced mushrooms
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ½ teaspoon paprika
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1½ cups milk
- 2 packages (10½ ounces each) frozen broccoli spears, cooked
- 3 tablespoons corn flake crumbs

Cook onion and mushrooms in butter or margarine for about 5 minutes. Stir in flour, paprika and pepper. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Arrange broccoli spears in a greased 1½-quart shallow baking dish. Place ham slices on broccoli. Pour sauce over ham and broccoli. Sprinkle with corn flake crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Yield: 5 servings.

Frozen condensed green pea with ham soup served with a broiled whipped cream topping makes any day a holiday. Try this: Heat soup, then pour into heat-proof soup bowls; top each with a dollop of whipped cream and a dash of Parmesan cheese. Place under the broiler for a few minutes until cream starts to brown a little. Serve immediately.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Daily shoe care can save you many hours.

Put Your Best Foot Forward

All men, and women, too, agree that perfect grooming is the prime prerequisite to charm and glamour. And, starting from the bottom up, let's take a look at the shoe grooming situation.

For example, your leather shoes will keep that right out-of-the-store look for months if you give them a good shine the moment you get them home. And, your foot gear will greatly enhance your groomed appearance if you give your shoes a good brushing immediately after each wearing.

Now, just how does this chore that has to be done daily save you time? Well, it eliminates the otherwise frequent scrubbings and cleanings that take the real time. You can save the complete overhauling of your shoes for your leisure and yet always be confident that your well-shod foot is open to inspection.

Besides poised, good looks, there is also the virtue of economy in shoe care. They'll keep their shape for years if you put shoe trees in them as soon as you take them off. The variety of tree that's best is the kind that fits the toe of the shoe. A shoe tree that strains or stretches the leather only works against your purpose. A shoe that is in good shape will go a long way toward keeping your foot in a pretty-feminine shape!

The Powers Girls think that their shoes are such an important part of their wardrobes that they deserve a wardrobe of their own: Bags, for storing them away from dust and scratches; saddle soap for cleaning, lanolin-base polish for shine; toe rubbers for rain; heel guards for driving the car; a purse-size brush for long days; and a regular appointment with their doctor—your shoemaker!

Grooming is accumulative. If you perform the necessary amount of it today, your hair, skin, hands, and clothes will require a little less tomorrow. Soon your daily chores will reach a basic minimum and you'll look your best all of the time!

Easy way to give a plain cake a festive party air: Simply add chopped prunes and nuts to the cake batter. Then bake and when the cake is cooled give it a thick luscious orange frosting.

When it's your time to entertain, plan a buffet supper around a tureen of soup. Here's a popular combination. Mix a can of frozen condensed oyster stew and a can of frozen cream of potato soup plus 1½ soup cans water. Add ½ cup diced cooked ham and heat slowly. Serve with an array of crisp crackers and chips.

Record Steel Output

LONDON (UPI)—Steel output in Britain started 1960 with a record for January an average weekly rate of 471,400 tons. Output for the month was one third higher than one year ago, the iron and steel board announced today.

Naturalist Charles Darwin wrote a book on orchids in which he theorized that some gigantic moth must aid in the pollination of a certain Madagascar species whose nectar-laden flowers have spurs one foot long or more. Years later scientists identified the pollinating moth, Xanthopan morgani. It has an eight-inch proboscis.

The monks of Trinity monastery of St. Sergius maintain one of the few seminaries in the Soviet Union. Their mushroom-domed monastery 45 miles from Moscow was once one of the richest and most important shrines of the Orthodox Church. At the peak of its pre-revolutionary grandeur, St. Sergius owned 120,000 serfs and reckoned its treasure at 650,000,000 rubles.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Tired of green beans? Try serving them with pickle relish. Drain one-fourth cup of relish, add two tablespoons melted butter and blend with beans over low heat until hot.

As Bright As Sunlight

An attractive golden omelet is a favorite dish at this time of year—bright as sunlight, hot, hearty, and nourishing, just the thing for main dish or dessert when it's bleak, dreary weather.

Here's how to begin. For each serving, take one, two, or three eggs. Add a tablespoon of liquid for each egg. Salt and pepper to taste. Sugar if desired. And you're on your way.

PLAIN OMELETS are prepared exactly like scrambled eggs . . . but are not "scrambled" in cooking. Combine all ingredients in a bowl, mix until light yellow in color, and then pour into a frying pan containing melted butter. Always cook over low heat. Another name for a Plain Omelet is a Flat Omelet, or French Omelet. Plain or flat omelets are tenderly compact in texture, moist, and have a delicately browned bottom side. Serve them "as is", topped with cheese, a sauce, or filled.

FLUFFY OMELETS need two bowls for the mixing stage. Beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry in the first bowl. Whip the yolks and seasoning to a light yellow in the second bowl and then fold into the egg whites. Pour the mixture into a frying pan or baking dish containing melted butter and cook or bake until lightly browned and the top surface "springs back" when lightly touched. Fluffy—or puffy, as they are sometimes called—omelets are often served as a dessert.

For the liquid to use in your omelet, you may select from whole milk, cream, half and half, evaporated milk, nonfat dry milk, water, mushroom liquid, tomato juice, or fruit juices.

Most chefs and homemakers like to reserve one frying pan, skillet, or baking pan just for the baking of omelets. The reason is that an omelet pan should never be washed with detergent or scouring powder, which tend to "take-away" the seasoning quality that melted fat and low temperatures impart. The surface of the cooking utensil should remain scratch free. To keep it clean and sweet smelling, wipe free excess cooking fat with paper towels, immerse the pan in warm water, and wipe with paper towels until clean and dry.

Flavoring is important in omelet making. The addition of any condiment, spice, or vegetable should be only "subtle," so the full-flavor of the egg-mixture is accented, not overshadowed. For a sauce to serve atop the omelet, use chopped fish, seafood, poultry, meat, vegetables or fruit.

Entree garnishes may be chopped parsley, pimento, green pepper, or mushrooms. Dessert garnishes may be chopped dried fruit, maraschino cherries, jellies, jams, preserves, grated lemon, lime or orange rind, and powdered sugar.

Dessert omelets are generally variations of the fluffy omelet. As soon as cooked, slide the omelet onto a warmed serving plate, spread with jelly, preserves, or jam, and fold in half. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve immediately. Dessert omelets may be served cut into wedges or slices.

When making Whipped Cream Omelets, use whipped cream for the liquid in the puffy omelet—about one pint for every six eggs is a good ratio. Prepare as for fluffy omelets and serve with parmesan cheese topping for an entree, or with a rich fruit sauce for dessert.

America's unformed police system was started in 1850 in New York.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am new in this country (three years) and I see it is a popular American custom to write personal opinions, complaints and observations to your corner.

Perhaps you can tell me why your country, which considers itself superior in every way, has such poor cultural standards.

I am offended at the junk which hangs in American theater lobbies, nightclubs and cocktail lounges. The frames are far more valuable than the prints and oils.

Perhaps this is why America is developing a generation of sterile, insensitive, rock-and-roll maniacs. You are surrounded by mediocrity and fourth-rate influences. This goes for your popular literature, too. The people who read your column are no doubt the lower level or average mentalities, so perhaps I have come to the wrong place for an answer. — GENTLEMAN OBSERVER

DEAR GENTLEMAN OBSERVER: Thank you for honoring our little old average mentalities by tossing a few pearls our way. Most people who write to this column say they read it because they enjoy it. What's YOUR excuse?

Strange that a gentleman who is simply crawling with culture should be looking for the better things in theater lobbies, night clubs and cocktail lounges. Ever hear of an art gallery or a museum?

I, for one, am bored with the attacks and subtle needling of newcomers who came to our country to escape tyranny and persecution. They avail themselves of the multiplicity of opportunities this young country offers. Then they criticize us because we are "uncultured barbarians." Trains, planes and ships leave every day.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 17-year-old son lied to us. We let him have the car every Friday or Saturday night and he tells us in advance where he's going.

Saturday night he said he and a buddy were double-dating and going to a movie, then to a snack bar where the kids hang out. The following morning I checked the mileage on the car. It showed they had traveled 88 miles.

I used to pull this same stuff when I was a kid, till my old man got wise. What should we do?—DAD

DEAR DAD: It takes one to catch one, eh? Well — tell your son you know he lied. Deprive him of the car for two weeks. Make it plain that in the future you want the straight goods. Don't tell him how you learned the truth. Let him sweat. Macy's doesn't tell Gimbel's.

DEAR ANN: We've been married four months and already we're having trouble.

My wife and I both work in the same nightclub. I'm a chef and she's a receptionist. She loves to dance and is good at it. They have a great swing band at the club and my wife spends half her time in the arms of traveling salesmen. You'd think she was a 10c a dance girl.

The owner says it's good for business but I don't like the idea. She was hired to seat customers, not dance with the men. We can't make it on just my check as we have new furniture and a car to pay out. What's your advice? — AMBY

DEAR AMBY: Your wife should quit this job and find employment which involves less intimate contact with male customers.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Soup Macedoine - - Hearty Cream Of Vegetable Soup

Brisk days call for hot lunches and there is nothing more nourishing and tasty than piping hot cream of vegetable soup straight from the soup kettle. Pieces of tavorful vegetables and savory ham highlighted in a well flavored cream sauce which has just a tang of cheese.

Cream soups are ideal both for "at home" lunches served with toasted herbed bread sprinkled with Parmesan or Romano cheese, crisp lettuce wedges, tapioca pudding and milk. For those who pack their lunch a thermos of steaming soup with egg salad sandwiches, carrot and celery sticks, crisp butter cookies and milk make an ideal nourishing lunch.

Soup Macedoine

2 tablespoons butter
½ cup finely chopped onion
2 cups small potato cubes
1 cup thinly sliced carrots
2 cups sliced green beans, asparagus, diced cauliflower or turnip
1 cup boiling water
2 cups diced cooked ham
1 quart milk
Salt and pepper to taste
Finely minced parsley

Melt butter in a heavy saucepan or kettle, add onion and cook until transparent, but not brown. Add potato, carrot, green beans (or asparagus, cauliflower or turnip) and water. Bring to a boil, cover and cook until vegetables are tender, about 25 to 30 minutes. Add a little more water, if necessary. Mash vegetables, leaving some small pieces for texture; add ham and milk and heat to serving temperature. Serve at once with a topping of finely minced parsley. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

A prune or two as an in-between meal snack gives energy for a quick pick-up, assuages hunger pangs, satisfies the craving for sweets . . . all with relatively few calories. So prunes are a real boon to those on a diet, as well as being a treat—and a healthful one—for the plain garden variety of between-meal nibbler.

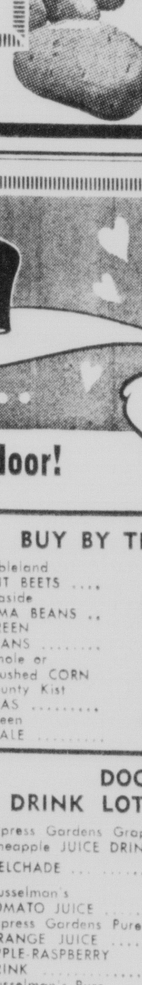

Hot appetizing soup is a perfect dinner starter. Have you tried buttered chicken soup? It's delicious! Simply combine 1 can condensed cream of chicken soup with 1 soup can water. Heat, stirring now and then. Pour into cups or mugs. Top each serving with a pat of butter.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Tired of green beans? Try serving them with pickle relish. Drain one-fourth cup of relish, add two tablespoons melted butter and blend with beans over low heat until hot.

As Bright As Sunlight

An attractive golden omelet is a favorite dish at this time of year—bright as sunlight, hot, hearty, and nourishing, just the thing for main dish or dessert when it's bleak, dreary weather.

Here's how to begin. For each serving, take one, two, or three eggs. Add a tablespoon of liquid for each egg. Salt and pepper to taste. Sugar if desired. And you're on your way.

PLAIN OMELETS are prepared exactly like scrambled eggs . . . but are not "scrambled" in cooking. Combine all ingredients in a bowl, mix until light yellow in color, and then pour into a frying pan containing melted butter. Always cook over low heat. Another name for a Plain Omelet is a Flat Omelet, or French Omelet. Plain or flat omelets are tenderly compact in texture, moist, and have a delicately browned bottom side. Serve them "as is", topped with cheese, a sauce, or filled.

FLUFFY OMELETS need two bowls for the mixing stage. Beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry in the first bowl. Whip the yolks and seasoning to a light yellow in the second bowl and then fold into the egg whites. Pour the mixture into a frying pan or baking dish containing melted butter and cook or bake until lightly browned and the top surface "springs back" when lightly touched. Fluffy—or puffy, as they are sometimes called—omelets are often served as a dessert.

For the liquid to use in your omelet, you may select from whole milk, cream, half and half, evaporated milk, nonfat dry milk, water, mushroom liquid, tomato juice, or fruit juices.

Most chefs and homemakers like to reserve one frying pan, skillet, or baking pan just for the baking of omelets. The reason is that an omelet pan should never be washed with detergent or scouring powder, which tend to "take-away" the seasoning quality that melted fat and low temperatures impart. The surface of the cooking utensil should remain scratch free. To keep it clean and sweet smelling, wipe free excess cooking fat with paper towels, immerse the pan in warm water, and wipe with paper towels until clean and dry.

Flavoring is important in omelet making. The addition of any condiment, spice, or vegetable should be only "subtle," so the full-flavor of the egg-mixture is accented, not overshadowed. For a sauce to serve atop the omelet, use chopped fish, seafood, poultry, meat, vegetables or fruit.

Entree garnishes may be chopped parsley, pimento, green pepper, or mushrooms. Dessert garnishes may be chopped dried fruit, maraschino cherries, jellies, jams, preserves, grated lemon, lime or orange rind, and powdered sugar.

Dessert omelets are generally variations of the fluffy omelet. As soon as cooked, slide the omelet onto a warmed serving plate, spread with jelly, preserves, or jam, and fold in half. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve immediately. Dessert omelets may be served cut into wedges or slices.

When making Whipped Cream Omelets, use whipped cream for the liquid in the puffy omelet—about one pint for every six eggs is a good ratio. Prepare as for fluffy omelets and serve with parmesan cheese topping for an entree, or with a rich fruit sauce for dessert.

America's unformed police system was started in 1850 in New York.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am new in this country (three years) and I see it is a popular American custom to write personal opinions, complaints and observations to your corner.

Perhaps you can tell me why your country, which considers itself superior in every way, has such poor cultural standards.

I am offended at the junk which hangs in American theater lobbies, nightclubs and cocktail lounges. The frames are far more valuable than the prints and oils.

Perhaps this is why America is developing a generation of sterile, insensitive, rock-and-roll maniacs. You are surrounded by mediocrity and fourth-rate influences. This goes for your popular literature, too. The people who read your column are no doubt the lower level or average mentalities, so perhaps I have come to the wrong place for an answer. — GENTLEMAN OBSERVER

DEAR GENTLEMAN OBSERVER: Thank you for honoring our little old average mentalities by tossing a few pearls our way. Most people who write to this column say they read it because they enjoy it. What's YOUR excuse?

Strange that a gentleman who is simply crawling with culture should be looking for the better things in theater lobbies, night clubs and cocktail lounges. Ever hear of an art gallery or a museum?

I, for one, am bored with the attacks and subtle needling of newcomers who came to our country to escape tyranny and persecution. They avail themselves of the multiplicity of opportunities this young country offers. Then they criticize us because we are "uncultured barbarians." Trains, planes and ships leave every day.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 17-year-old son lied to us. We let him have the car every Friday or Saturday night and he tells us in advance where he's going.

Saturday night he said he and a buddy were double-dating and going to a movie, then to a snack bar where the kids hang out. The following morning I checked the mileage on the car. It showed they had traveled 88 miles.

I used to pull this same stuff when I was a kid, till my old man got wise. What should we do?—DAD

DEAR DAD: It takes one to catch one, eh? Well — tell your son you know he lied. Deprive him of the car for two weeks. Make it plain that in the future you want the straight goods. Don't tell him how you learned the truth. Let him sweat. Macy's doesn't tell Gimbel's.

DEAR ANN: We've been married four months and already we're having trouble.

My wife and I both work in the same nightclub. I'm a chef and she's a receptionist. She loves to dance and is good at it. They have a great swing band at the club and my wife spends half her time in the arms of traveling salesmen. You'd think she was a 10c a dance girl.

The owner says it's good for business but I don't like the idea. She was hired to seat customers, not dance with the men. We can't make it on just my check as we have new furniture and a car to pay out. What's your advice? — AMBY

DEAR AMBY: Your wife should quit this job and find employment which involves less intimate contact with male customers.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Soup Macedoine - - Hearty Cream Of Vegetable Soup

Brisk days call for hot lunches and there is nothing more nourishing and tasty than piping hot cream of vegetable soup straight from the soup kettle. Pieces of tavorful vegetables and savory ham highlighted in a well flavored cream sauce which has just a tang of cheese.

Cream soups are ideal both for "at home" lunches served with toasted herbed bread sprinkled with Parmesan or Romano cheese, crisp lettuce wedges, tapioca pudding and milk. For those who pack their lunch a thermos of steaming soup with egg salad sandwiches, carrot and celery sticks, crisp butter cookies and milk make an ideal nourishing lunch.

Soup Macedoine

2 tablespoons butter
½ cup finely chopped onion
2 cups small potato cubes
1 cup thinly sliced carrots
2 cups sliced green beans, asparagus, diced cauliflower or turnip
1 cup boiling water
2 cups diced cooked ham
1 quart milk
Salt and pepper to taste
Finely minced parsley

Melt butter in a heavy saucepan or kettle, add onion and cook until transparent, but not brown. Add potato, carrot, green beans (or asparagus, cauliflower or turnip) and water. Bring to a boil, cover and cook until vegetables are tender, about 25 to 30 minutes. Add a little more water, if necessary. Mash vegetables, leaving some small pieces for texture; add ham and milk and heat to serving temperature. Serve at once with a topping of finely minced parsley. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

A prune or two as an in-between meal snack gives energy for a quick pick-up, assuages hunger pangs, satisfies the craving for sweets . . . all with relatively few calories. So prunes are a real boon to those on a diet, as well as being a treat—and a healthful one—for the plain garden variety of between-meal nibbler.

Hot appetizing soup is a perfect dinner starter. Have you tried buttered chicken soup? It's delicious! Simply combine 1 can condensed cream of chicken soup with 1 soup can water. Heat, stirring now and then. Pour into cups or mugs. Top each serving with a pat of butter.

Pastor Logan Begins Duties Here Monday

Rev. Robert B. Logan will assume his duties as minister of christian education at St. John's Lutheran Church on Monday, according to Rev. Russell E. Fink, pastor. He will come here from Philadelphia, where he has been engaged in graduate theological study.

Legal Defense Of Disorderly Thought

Judge James Demopolos of Oklahoma City may have achieved immortality in legal history with his ruling that moving one's lips—without uttering a sound — cannot be considered disorderly, regardless of the meaning of the lip movement. He so ruled in a case of disorderly conduct brought before him by a policeman who testified a motorist stopped for excessive speeding "moved his lips in a profane manner."

In throwing out the charge, Judge Demopolos has informed those under his jurisdiction that an insult does not become legally abusive until it is spoken. The policeman was not compelled to read the irate motorist's lips.

If jurists elsewhere take note, this ruling could have decided effect upon public tensions. It no longer would be necessary to restrain oneself when the neighbors begin infringing upon one's good nature. Imagine the steam which could be loosed by a half-hour tirade on the shortcomings of the world in general every morning before breakfast. And no one would be inconvenienced by having to listen to it.

Back in Oklahoma City, the policeman might consider appealing the judgment. If he should be fortunate enough to reach the Supreme Court, it is entirely possible the ruling would be reversed with the observation that even the thoughts in a man's mind could be disorderly—if one can prove their existence.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Where Are The Great?

It is not unusual these days for table chit-chat to wander to the illusive question of "Why do we not have great men, anymore?" And that leads to an argument over what is meant by "great"—an argument that often leads to a vast difference of opinion but it can be brought to a head by the one word, Lincoln.

Of course, when Lincoln was a candidate for President, he bore the brunt of attack, of personal defamation, even of references to his father, Thomas, who was not much to tell about, and his mother, Nancy Hanks, who was less than she should have been. He suffered calumny during the whole of his first year in the Presidency and was assassinated after his re-election.

But these are the crosses men bear and Abraham Lincoln bore his nobly and without malice or hatred. His was a period of bitterness, of distress, of vile antagonisms. Lincoln was neither a Southerner nor a Northerner. His family was of border stock, but basically Southern. He matured in Illinois. His cultural background was plebeian; he came of the drifters of those days, the ne'er-do-wells.

His education was of his own making. No university can claim him. No collegiate degree appended his name. His language came from the Bible and Shakespeare which he read by candle-light in a drab house in New Salem, Illinois. His religion was the mercy of God.

In an emergency, this tall, homely, simple man possessed the courage, selflessness and intellectual fortitude to save his country. But there were other men in his day who might have saved the country, and they were on both sides. Horace Greeley, William H. Seward, Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee—these were not pigmies, but Lincoln towers above all of his generation.

Lincoln's conduct in office is probably no different than dozens of men who have held or might have held that high post. But his words bespeak nobility of soul. And we know that they are his words. The testimony as to who wrote "The Gettysburg Address" is beyond doubt. Lincoln wrote it.

He had no ghost-writer. The language was his; the ideas were his. He required no word-slinger, no copy-writer, no punctuation-marker to aid him.

Abraham Lincoln lived in an age when one who could write, prided himself on his ability. In his Proclamation of March 30, 1863, Abraham Lincoln wrote:

"Whereas it is the duty of nations as well as of men to own their dependence upon the overruling power of God, to confess their sins and transgressions in humble sorrow, yet with assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon, and to recognize the sublime truth, announced in the Holy Scriptures and proven by all history, that those nations only are blessed whose God is the Lord;

"And, inso much as we know that by His divine law nations, like individuals, are subjected to punishments and chastisements in this world, may we not justly fear that the awful calamity of civil war which now desolates the land may be but a punishment inflicted upon us for our presumptuous sins, to the needful end of our national reformation as a whole people? . . ."

In the year, 1960, this could have been said by someone in a high position, for the situation is identical. Again on July 15, 1863, Lincoln wrote:

". . . But these victories have been accorded not without sacrifices of life, limb, health, and liberty, incurred by brave, loyal, and patriotic citizens. Domestic affliction in every part of the country follows in the train of these fearful bereavements . . ."

It is in his Fourth Message on the State of the Union that Lincoln states his philosophy in a passing phrase:

"The most reliable indication of public purpose in this country is derived through our popular elections. Judging by the recent canvass and its result, the purpose of the people within the loyal States to maintain the integrity of the Union was never more firm nor more nearly unanimous than now. . . . There have been much impugning of motives and much heated controversy as to the proper means and best mode of advancing the Union cause, but on the distinct issue of Union or no Union the politicians have shown their instinctive knowledge that there is no diversity among the people . . ."

Radford's 'Consultant' Fees Closely Resemble A Disc Jockey's 'Payola'

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—In these days when Congress is digging into so-called "payola" collected by disc jockeys, it's interesting to dig further into the payments made to retired admirals and generals who receive both retirement pay from Uncle Sam and pay from big defense contractors who do business with Uncle Sam. Many o. them as hired as "consultants." The disc jockeys also claim they were "consultants."

The Hebert subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee dug into this last summer but let one admiral get away without filing his income. He is Adm. Arthur Radford, former chairman of the Joint Chief of Staff and perhaps the most powerful and glamorized officer to hold sway in the Pentagon in recent years. Gen. Omar Bradley publicly put hi min the category of a "fancy Dan" admiral.

Because Admiral Radford was the only officer requested by the Hebert committee to file his income who did not do so, this writer did a little digging into his fees to see who paid them and whether they were payola—which according to the general definition is unearned income usually paid for influence.

Radford, I found, receives a pension from Uncle Sam of $1,072.18 a month, plus $25,000 a year from the Bankers Trust Company, plus $12,000 annually from Philco, another $12,000 from Molybdenum Corporation, plus around $15,000 from Champion Paper, and approximately $15,000 from Worthington Pump.

To see what his duties were as a banker, I called William H. Moore, chairman of the board of Bankers Trust, and expressed my curiosity as to how a seadog in Washington could earn the fat annual salary of $25,000 working for a bank in New York.

Seagoing Banker

"We are expanding our international operations," explained Mr. Moore, "and to do that you have to know a lot of people. The admiral knows people in many countries and he's introduced us to these people."

"Doesn't the New York bank examiner question such a large salary paid to a man who has never been in the banking business?" I asked.

"We've had several examinations by the examiner since we made the arrangement with Radford, and it has not been questioned," said the Bankers Trust chairman.

One of the first jobs Radford took when he retired as No. 1 military man in the Pentagon was with Champion Paper. Reuben Robertson, former Deputy Secretary of Defense, is head of Champion, while Karl Bendetsen, former Undersecretary of the Army, is a vice president.

Several calls to Robertson met with the reply that he was out of the country, so I talked with Bendetsen.

"Where is Robertson?" I asked.

"I don't know," replied the ex-Undersecretary of the Army.

"You're vice president of the company and you don't know where the president is?"

"No."

"How much are you paying Admiral Radford?"

"I don't know," said Bendetsen. "You had a lot to do with hiring him, yet you don't know?"

Bendetsen denied this.

"What are his duties?"

Friend Of Chiang Kai-shek

When I was in Formosa last December, Radford was en route to the island. One of the very successful industrial projects put across by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government is the Shing Ying paper plant, owned by the government, which makes bagasse paper out of sugar cane pulp. Admiral Radford is a great friend of Chiang Kai-shek and originally sold Eisenhower on the idea of "unleashing" Chiang for an attack on the Chinese mainland. Radford has made two trips to Formosa since retirement, and it was reported he had been hired by Champion largely to try to buy the Shing Ying paper plant.

When I asked Bendetsen about this he said: "It's outside my bailiwick."

Champion Paper maintains an office at 1000 Connecticut Avenue, which Admiral Radford occasionally occupies when he's in Washington. Champion also keeps a Cadillac in the Statler garage, used almost exclusively by the admiral.

Recently Boston disc jockey David Maynard has been investigated by the Harris subcommittee for accepting payments on a 1959 Buick and various payments from four record companies totaling $6,817. Maynard claimed that he accepted the money as a consultant on teen-age "hops."

Admiral Radford received a total of around $90,000 from five corporations for serving as a consultant on international relations. This does not include his $12,000 pension from Uncle Sam.

So you can understand why some disc jockeys claim that their "consultant" unearned income is legitimate, too.

Note—The other day, retired Vice Adm. Oswald Colclough, president of George Washington University, was talking with retired Rear Adm. Lewis Strauss and kindly Bob Fleming of the Riggs Bank about the sad financial plight of Admiral Radford. "We've got to do something," said the two admirals, "to help Raddy."

Polaris Project Shows What U.S. Could Do

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Go to the old Navy Department, to hear the story of the great Polaris submarine-and-missile project. It is an inspiring experience. It is also a deeply reassuring experience — until you begin to think about it.

Here are just about the most technically advanced weapons man has ever devised, considerably more complex, over all, than our Atlas ICBM for instance. Here is a weapon system requiring many tens of thousands of human and mechanical components, ranging from men for the missile-crews to air-cleaners for the submarines, to fabulously accurate gyros for the missiles themselves. Here is a project demanding continuous, coordinated forward movement on countless different fronts.

This marvelous movement began, almost from scratch, in 1956. Less than four years ago, the Polaris project was set up on the lines of a smaller Manhattan District, under the brilliant and hard driving Adm. W. F. Raborn Jr. Yet today, all the fantastically complex parts are nearly ready to be fitted together in the first operational Polaris. Before the year is out, the George Washington will be at sea with sixteen missiles aboard, any one of which will be able to kill a medium-sized city.

The Polaris project is inspiring because it shows what we in America can do if we put our minds to it, and it is reassuring because it promises important reinforcements for the American deterrent. But this project is also the very opposite of reassuring, if you just crank the Polaris experience into the current great debate about national defense.

At bottom, the defense debate concerns only one question. The question is whether the Soviets now have or will soon have the small number of intercontinental ballistic missiles needed "to wipe out" the American deterrent, which is now totally vulnerable. The number needed at this time is only 150 Soviet ICBMs. The National Intelligence Estimates say that the Soviets do not now have 150 ICBMs, and further say they will not have the still small but gradually increasing numbers of ICBMs they will need later. The President has therefore neglected to budget the relatively modest sums of money that are needed to make the American deterrent less vulnerable, by maintaining an airborne alert and in other ways. Yet merely by its brilliant success, the Polaris project raises at least two kinds of grave doubts about the dependability of the National Intelligence Estimates on which so much dependence has been placed.

On the one hand, it raises technical doubts. For example, the able director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Allen W. Dulles, has testified that there are good reasons to believe the Soviets do not have weapons crews for a decisive number of ICBMs. These reasons are fairly persuasive if the Soviets are assumed to need the same large numbers of men included in the American ICBM squadrons. But these reasons are less persuasive when you note that thirty-three men on the George Washington will service and if necessary fire a total of sixteen Polaris missiles.

Suppose it is certain that the Soviet ICBM is liquid-fuelled, rather than solid-fuelled like the Polaris and the prospective American Minuteman missile. Suppose that a Soviet ICBM weapons crew has to be proportionally four times larger than a Polaris weapons crew, because of the greater difficulty of servicing liquid-fuelled missiles. But suppose also that the Soviet ICBMs are as fully automated as Polaris, and that the Soviet ICBM crews are as economically organized as Adm. Raborn's Polaris crews.

You then get a figure of only about 1,300 men in specially trained weapons crews to fire 150 Soviet ICBMs. And how on earth can anyone but the all-seeing Almighty be sure that a mere 1,300 men have not been specially trained somewhere in the vast reaches of the Soviet land mass.

In the same way, the Polaris project also raises what may be called grave organizational doubts about the National Intelligence Estimates. To be specific, former Assistant Secretary of the Air Force Trevor Gardner, who was eventaully fired for being too right about the missile gap, wisely fought for a Manhattan District type organization of our ICBM program. Gardner was defeated in this fight, however. Under Gen. Benjamin Schriever, great things have nonetheless been accomplished with our ICBM program. But because Gardner was defeated, Gen. Schriever has always had to work through channels, and mostly through half-clogged channels. Hence Schriever has lacked the immense organizational advantages of Adm. Raborn in the Polaris project, and of Gen. Groves in the Manhattan District.

Meanwhile, under the prevailing estimating system, our own ICBM performance is our yardstick for Soviet ICBM performance. The Soviet program began years before ours did. Only suppose that the boss of the Soviet program has enjoyed the same organizational advantages as Adm. Raborn. Then there is no reason why all the needful components — missiles, weapons crews, launchers, and so on — may not suddenly be brought together into a complete, decisively powerful Soviet ICBM system in the near future, just as all the Polaris components will be brought together in the near future in the George Washington.

These doubts about the national estimates do not reflect on the C. I. A., which only claims to produce informed estimates, not gospel truth. These doubts reflect, rather, on the use the Administration is making of the estimates.

Just this is the crucial point. The National Intelligence Estimates may be correct to the last decimal. Pray God they are. But they may also be wrong by a considerable margin. If the estimates of Soviet ICBMs are wrong, even by a very narrow margin, the error can be fatal. Basically therefore, it is not merely foolish, it is really criminal, to use the National Estimates as precision instruments which show how little we need to do. Common prudence demands insurance against error in the ICBM estimate. The national interest demand's measures, such as the airborne alert, to end the total vulnerability of the American deterrent. And sound practice demands that the use of mere estimates as precision instruments be abandoned and condemned, as wholly pernicious and improper.

NEW BUDGET — It is arithmetic that causes Democrats to charge that the President's new budget is "unreal," and makes some Republicans express doubts that it can be achieved.

Senator Harry F. Byrd (D), Virginia, for instance, doubts that there will be any surplus at all. Byrd is the Senate's outstanding advocate of government economy. He makes a continuing study of government spending and revenues.

The President's advisers contend, however, that the budget is the President's program, and that it is unreal only to the extent that its recommendations are not followed.

High Budget bureau officials contend that it is imperative to achieve a sizable surplus in these times of prosperity, not only in order to reduce the national debt, but to provide an anti-inflationary factor in the economy. Economists agree that the theory is correct, but they doubt whether it can be carried out in practice.

Meanwhile, the political potential in the battle of the budget looms as a principal factor in this session of Congress. Last year the President won this fight hands down. Democrats gave up the fight in mid-session and from then on concentrated on passing appropriations bills and spending authorizations which they deemed to be "veto proof."

This is not apt to be repeated in this election year in Congress, with its handful of Democratic presidential aspirants debating and voting on the Senate floor.

Yesterday a young lady said: "My mother is about your age. What was it like in those days?" My pet, those days are still going on. I strum the ukulele, humming "Who's sorry now?". Some of my arthritic girl friends do the Charleston when the weather is right. John Dundas stirs the gin in the dish pan.

What was it like? I'll tell you. Skirts were worn above the knees; stockings were rolled below. There were two kinds of men: finale hoppers and sharpies. The finale hoppers wore trousers with 23-inch bottoms and heavy brogans; the sharpies wore pinch-waisted jackets and trousers skin tight at the knees, flaring into bell-bottoms.

Everybody chewed gum and the rich kids had cars with rumble seats. Some of the things going on in the rumble seats caused deep rumbles at home. Lee Tracy was on Broadway in a show called "Broadway;" his understudy was an unknown named J. Cagney. Alexander Woollcott and Percy Hammond were the premier critics, and gangsters named Legs Diamond, Dutch Schultz, Alphonse Capone and Dion O'Banion ran the social life of America from behind machine guns.

Gene Tunney, an ex-Marine, was guaranteed a million dollars to fight Jack Dempsey for the second titme. The Happiness Boys and the Cliquot Club Eskimos were the big stars on radio. The top movie stars were John Gilbert, Ramon Navarro, Carmel Myers, Renee Adoree and Greta Garbo. She starred in "The Flesh and the Devil," which will give you some idea of the temper of the times, child.

All of this centered in the year 1927, when Charles A. Lindbergh flew from New York to Paris in 33½ hours. The man who wrote "The Improper Bohemians," Allen Churchill, has written a book about it called "The Year The World Went Mad," but mad isn't the word, my shy young friend. Wild would be a better one. Everything in the gin and sin era had to be bigger, better and dizzier than ever before.

It was the year Babe Ruth hit 60 home runs. Robert Tyre Jones was master of the world of golf; Big Bill Tilden dominated tennis; Helen Fills ran the sneakers off Suzanne Lenglen at the net; Tommy Hitchcock knew more about polo than the Prince of Wales, and Johnny Weismuller swam like a frightened barracuda.

Reggie McNamara, the iron man, starred in six-day bicycle races and twin girls, 13, swam from Albany to New York. Dempsey had already fought Georges Carpentier at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City and flattened him in four rounds. Lou Gehrig played first base for the Yankees and second fiddle for Babe Ruth.

The leader of the Night Club world was Miss Texas Guinan. "Rio Rita" was the big musical and people paid to see the most beautiful girl in the world: Gladys Glad. Calvin Coolidge was President. He had a face like a pilgrim and a mind to match. Rev. John Roach Straton tried to reform the sinful nation. He called us a "God-defying, woman-despising, lawbreaking, gluttonous monster."

Maybe. Even our sins were bigger than they are now. At the El Fey Club, a man who wanted the band to play "Always" was expected to hand a $100 bill to the leader. If he offered less than $10 to the headwaiter, and less than $5 to the captain on entering the club, the money was often returned to the sport.

Drinking was against the law, so everyone drank. Most people drank to excess. Even women were found stupefied in alleys and along curbsides. Night club gin sold for $20 a fifth. Ginger ale cost $2 a glass.

There were personalities too. People like Peaches Browning and Colleen Moore and Clara Bow and Jimmy Durante and Vincent Coll and Fifi D'Orsay and Larry Fay and Sime Silverman and Harry Richman and Ben Burnie and Morton Downey and Rudy Vallee and Helen Kane and Ruth Etting and Ted Lewis and Will Oakland and Al Smith and Andy Mellon and Nicholas Murray Butler and Samuel Rothafel and Erno Rapee and Billy Rose and Ruth Elder and Admiral Byrd and Elinor Smith and Bert Acosta and Georgie Jessel. Come to think of it, there was always a Georgie Jessel.

The lyrics of one song went: "Was I drunk? Was he handsome? And did my mother give me hell."

This will give you an idea, my little friend. It was a wild era—crazier than it is now—and lots of our young Scott Fitzgeralds and Clara Bows were burned out or dead before the age of 30.

I tell all of this to you, young lady, not to give you any erroneous ideas about us and our time, but so that, when you come to our house to call on Gayle, your eyes won't pop out when you see this gray-haired guy strumming a uke, and so that you will understand mother a little better when she is so strict about you. . .

Abdominal Wounds Nasty, But Can Be Fixed

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

President McKinley was shot in the abdomen and died within nine days. Today a wound of this type is not considered serious because the modern physician has the drugs and the know-how to handle the problem.

The abdomen is filled with slithering intestines, the stomach, liver, kidneys, and other organs. A bullet or knife cannot pass through the area without perforating or nicking something. A hole in the intestine allows the contents to escape into the abdominal cavity, producing the same old peritonitis that occurs when the appendix ruptures. An opening the stomach is more painful, especially when the acid escapes and begins to eat away the highly sensitive inner lining of the abdominal cavity.

An internal hemorrhage occurs when the liver or spleen is injured or a large blood vessel is severed. Interference with the circulation to an organ may cause gangrene and an opening into the bladder allows urine to escape. For these reasons, an immediate operation is recommended whenever a penetrating wound occurs in the abdomen.

Every organ and loop of bowel must be examined systematically to determine whether it has been damaged. Holes in the intestine are sewed up and the bleeding vessels tied off. A bleeding liver is one of the most difficult to correct. Blood transfusions and an antibiotic are given to combat shock and peritonitis.

Surgery was done on William McKinley shortly after the shooting occurred. The bullet had gone through the stomach, producing a hole in the front and back walls of the structure. These lesions were sewed up immediately because the surgeons wanted to avoid peritonitis.

The President rallied but on the seventh day had a relapse and died on the ninth. He had developed gangrene of the stomach wall because the bullet had torn away the blood supply to that area. Nowadays a second operation would have been possible through the use of blood transfusions and antibiotics. The involved part of the stomach would have been removed and in three weeks the President would have been back in his office.

TOMORROW: Nail changes.

Try And Stop Me

Mox Lindquist in "My Manasota Pals" cites the case of a tough old lumberjack cutting a few capers on the fourteenth floor of a Minneapolis hotel. He lost his balance leaning out of a window, and fell all the way to the ground. Miraculously enough, he wasn't killed. In fact, he arose gingerly and rubbed his head.

A passerby gasped, "What happened?"

The lumberjack said, "Ay don't know. Ay just got here myself!"

Lindquist ran smack into a 350-pound lady in northern Minnesota who, quite literally, bowled him off his feet. "Were you always so fat?" inquired the startled Mox. "Oh, ya," she assured him. "Ay ban purty fat as girl in Sweden. My grandmothers were fat on both sides."

Legal Defense Of Disorderly Thought

Judge James Demopolos of Oklahoma City may have achieved immortality in legal history with his ruling that moving one's lips—without uttering a sound—cannot be considered disorderly, regardless of the meaning of the lip movement. He so ruled in a case of disorderly conduct brought before him by a policeman who testified a motorist stopped for excessive speeding "moved his lips in a profane manner."

In throwing out the charge, Judge Demopolos has informed those under his jurisdiction that an insult does not become legally abusive until it is spoken. The policeman was not compelled to read the irate motorist's lips.

If jurists elsewhere take note, this ruling could have decided effect upon public tensions. It no longer would be necessary to restrain oneself when the neighbors begin infringing upon one's good nature. Imagine the steam which could be loosed by a half-hour tirade on the shortcomings of the world in general every morning before breakfast. And no one would be inconvenienced by having to listen to it.

Back in Oklahoma City, the policeman might consider appealing the judgment. If he should be fortunate enough to reach the Supreme Court, it is entirely possible the ruling would be reversed with the observation that even the thoughts in a man's mind could be disorderly—if one can prove their existence.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Where Are The Great?

It is not unusual these days for table chit-chat to wander to the illusive question of "Why do we not have great men, anymore?" And that leads to an argument over what is meant by "great"—an argument that often leads to a vast difference of opinion but it can be brought to a head by the one word, Lincoln.

Of course, when Lincoln was a candidate for President, he bore the brunt of attack, of personal defamation, even of references to his father, Thomas, who was not much to tell about, and his mother, Nancy Hanks, who was less than she should have been. He suffered calumny during the whole of his first year in the Presidency and was assassinated after his re-election.

But these are the crosses men bear and Abraham Lincoln bore his nobly and without malice or hatred. His was a period of bitterness, of distress, of vile antagonisms. Lincoln was neither a Southerner nor a Northerner. His family was of border stock, but basically Southern. He matured in Illinois. His cultural background was plebeian; he came of the drifters of those days, the ne'er-do-wells.

His education was of his own making. No university can claim him. No collegiate degree appended his name. His language came from the Bible and Shakespeare which he read by candle-light in a drab house in New Salem, Illinois. His religion was the mercy of God.

In an emergency, this tall, homely, simple man possessed the courage, selflessness and intellectual fortitude to save his country. But there were other men in his day who might have saved the country, and they were on both sides. Horace Greeley, William H. Seward, Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee—these were not pigmies, but Lincoln towers above all of his generation.

Lincoln's conduct in office is probably no different than dozens of men who have held or might have held that high post. But his words bespeak nobility of soul. And we know that they are his words. The testimony as to who wrote "The Gettysburg Address" is beyond doubt. Lincoln wrote it.

He had no ghost-writer. The language was his; the ideas were his. He required no word-slinger, no copy-writer, no punctuation-marker to aid him.

Abraham Lincoln lived in an age when one who could write, prided himself on his ability. In his Proclamation of March 30, 1863, Abraham Lincoln wrote:

"Whereas it is the duty of nations as well as of men to own their dependence upon the overruling power of God, to confess their sins and transgressions in humble sorrow, yet with assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon, and to recognize the sublime truth, announced in the Holy Scriptures and proven by all history, that those nations only are blessed whose God is the Lord;

"And, inso much as we know that by His divine law nations, like individuals, are subjected to punishments and chastisements in this world, may we not justly fear that the awful calamity of civil war which now desolates the land may be but a punishment inflicted upon us for our presumptuous sins, to the needful end of our national reformation as a whole people? . . ."

In the year, 1960, this could have been said by someone in a high position, for the situation is identical. Again on July 15, 1863, Lincoln wrote:

". . . But these victories have been accorded not without sacrifices of life, limb, health, and liberty, incurred by brave, loyal, and patriotic citizens. Domestic affliction in every part of the country follows in the train of these fearful bereavements . . ."

It is in his Fourth Message on the State of the Union that Lincoln states his philosophy in a passing phrase:

"The most reliable indication of public purpose in this country is derived through our popular elections. Judging by the recent canvass and its result, the purpose of the people within the loyal States to maintain the integrity of the Union was never more firm nor more nearly unanimous than now. . . . There have been much impugning of motives and much heated controversy as to the proper means and best mode of advancing the Union cause, but on the distinct issue of Union or no Union the politicians have shown their instinctive knowledge that there is no diversity among the people . . ."

Radford's 'Consultant' Fees Closely Resemble A Disc Jockey's 'Payola'

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—In these days when Congress is digging into so-called "payola" collected by disc jockeys, it's interesting to dig further into the payments made to retired admirals and generals who receive both retirement pay from Uncle Sam and pay from big defense contractors who do business with Uncle Sam. Many o. them as hired as "consultants." The disc jockeys also claim they were "consultants."

The Hebert subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee dug into this last summer but let one admiral get away without filing his income. He is Adm. Arthur Radford, former chairman of the Joint Chief of Staff and perhaps the most powerful and glamorized officer to hold sway in the Pentagon in recent years. Gen. Omar Bradley publicly put hi min the category of a "fancy Dan" admiral.

Because Admiral Radford was the only officer requested by the Hebert committee to file his income who did not do so, this writer did a little digging into his fees to see who paid them and whether they were payola—which according to the general definition is unearned income usually paid for influence.

Radford, I found, receives a pension from Uncle Sam of $1,072.18 a month, plus $25,000 a year from the Bankers Trust Company, plus $12,000 annually from Philco, another $12,000 from Molybdenum Corporation, plus around $15,000 from Champion Paper, and approximately $15,000 from Worthington Pump.

To see what his duties were as a banker, I called William H. Moore, chairman of the board of Bankers Trust, and expressed my curiosity as to how a seadog in Washington could earn the fat annual salary of $25,000 working for a bank in New York.

Seagoing Banker

"We are expanding our international operations," explained Mr. Moore, "and to do that you have to know a lot of people. The admiral knows people in many countries and he's introduced us to these people."

"Doesn't the New York bank examiner question such a large salary paid to a man who has never been in the banking business?" I asked.

"We've had several examinations by the examiner since we made the arrangement with Radford, and it has not been questioned," said the Bankers Trust chairman.

One of the first jobs Radford took when he retired as No. 1 military man in the Pentagon was with Champion Paper. Reuben Robertson, former Deputy Secretary of Defense, is head of Champion, while Karl Bendetsen, former Undersecretary of the Army, is a vice president.

Several calls to Robertson met with the reply that he was out of the country, so I talked with Bendetsen.

"Where is Robertson?" I asked.

"I don't know," replied the ex-Undersecretary of the Army.

"No."

"How much are you paying Admiral Radford?"

"I don't know," said Bendetsen.

"You had a lot to do with hiring him, yet you don't know?"

Bendetsen denied this.

"What are his duties?"

Friend Of Chiang Kai-shek

When I was in Formosa last December, Radford was en route to the island. One of the very successful industrial projects put across by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalis' government is the Shing Ying paper plant, owned by the government, which makes bagasse paper out of sugar cane pulp. Admiral Radford is a great friend of Chiang Kai-shek and originally sold Eisenhower on the idea of "unleashing" Chiang for an attack on the Chinese mainland. Radford has made two trips to Formosa since retirement, and it was reported he had been hired by Champion largely to try to buy the Shing Ying paper plant.

When I asked Bendetsen about this he said: "It's outside my bailiwick."

Champion Paper maintains an office at 1000 Connecticut Avenue, which Admiral Radford occasionally occupies when he's in Washington. Champion also keeps a Cadillac in the Statler garage, used almost exclusively by the admiral.

Recently Boston disc jockey David Maynard has been investigated by the Harris subcommittee for accepting payments on a 1959 Buick and various payments from four record companies totaling $6,817. Maynard claimed that he accepted the money as a consultant on teen-age "hops."

Admiral Radford received a total of around $90,000 from five corporations for serving as a consultant on international relations. This does not include his $12,000 pension from Uncle Sam.

So you can understand why some disc jockeys claim that their "consultant" unearned income is legitimate, too.

Note—The other day, retired Vice Adm. Oswald Colclough, president of George Washington University, was talking with retired Rear Adm. Lewis Strauss and kindly Bob Fleming of the Riggs Bank about the sad financial plight of Admiral Radford. "We've got to do something," said the two admirals, "to help Raddy."

Polaris Project Shows What U.S. Could Do

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Go to the old Navy Department, to hear the story of the great Polaris submarine-and-missile project. It is an inspiring experience. It is also a deeply reassuring experience — until you begin to think about it.

Here are just about the most technically advanced weapons man has ever devised, considerably more complex, over all, than our Atlas ICBM for instance. Here is a weapon system requiring many tens of thousands of human and mechanical components, ranging from men for the missile-crews to air-cleaners for the submarines, to fabulously accurate gyros for the missiles themselves. Here is a project demanding continuous, coordinated forward movement on countless different fronts.

This marvelous movement began, almost from scratch, in 1956. Less than four years ago, the Polaris project was set up on the lines of a smaller Manhattan District, under the brilliant and hard driving Adm. W. F. Raborn Jr. Yet today, all the fantastically complex parts are nearly ready to be fitted together in the first operational Polaris. Before the year is out, the George Washington will be at sea with sixteen missiles aboard, any one of which will be able to kill a medium-sized city.

The Polaris project is inspiring because it shows what we in America can do if we put our minds to it, and it is reassuring because it promises important reinforcements for the American deterrent. But this project is also the very opposite of reassuring, if you just crank the Polaris experience into the current great debate about national defense.

At bottom, the defense debate concerns only one question. The question is whether the Soviets now have or will soon have the small number of intercontinental ballistic missiles needed "to wipe out" the American deterrent, which is now totally vulnerable. The number needed at this time is only 150 Soviet ICBMs. The National Intelligence Estimates say that the Soviets do not now have 150 ICBMs, and further say they will not have the still small but gradually increasing numbers of ICBMs they will need later. The President has therefore neglected to budget the relatively modest sums of money that are needed to make the American deterrent less vulnerable, by maintaining an airborne alert and in other ways. Yet merely by its brilliant success, the Polaris project raises at least two kinds of grave doubts about the dependability of the National Intelligence Estimates on which so much dependence has been placed.

On the one hand, it raises technical doubts. For example, the able director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Allen W. Dulles, has testified that there are good reasons to believe the Soviets do not have weapons crews for a decisive number of ICBMs. These reasons are fairly persuasive if the Soviets are assumed to need the same large numbers of men included in the American ICBM squadrons. But these reasons are less persuasive when you note that thirty-three men on the George Washington will service and if necessary fire a total of sixteen Polaris missiles.

Suppose it is certain that the Soviet ICBM is liquid-fuelled, rather than solid-fuelled like the Polaris and the prospective American Minuteman missile. Suppose that a Soviet ICBM weapons crew has to be proportionally four times larger than a Polaris weapons crew, because of the greater difficulty of servicing liquid-fuelled missiles. But suppose also that the Soviet ICBMs are as fully automated as Polaris, and that the Soviet ICBM crews are as economically organized as Adm. Raborn's Polaris crews.

You then get a figure of only about 1,300 men in specially trained weapons crews to fire 150 Soviet ICBMs. And how on earth can anyone but the all-seeing Almighty be sure that a mere 1,300 men have not been specially trained somewhere in the vast reaches of the Soviet land mass.

In the same way, the Polaris project also raises what may be called grave organizational doubts about the National Intelligence Estimates. To be specific, former Assistant Secretary of the Air Force Trevor Gardner, who was eventaully fired for being too right about the missile gap, wisely fought for a Manhattan District type organization of our ICBM program. Gardner was defeated in this fight, however. Under Gen. Benjamin Schriever, great things have nonetheless been accomplished with our ICBM program. But because Gardner was defeated, Gen. Schriever has always had to work through channels, and mostly through half-clogged channels. Hence Schriever has lacked the immense organizational advantages of Adm. Meanwhile, under the prevailing estimating system, our own ICBM performance is our yardstick for Soviet ICBM performance. The Soviet program began years before ours did. Only suppose that the boss of the Soviet program has enjoyed the same organizational advantages as Adm. Raborn. Then there is no reason why all the needful components — missiles, weapons crews, launchers, and so on — may not suddenly be brought together into a complete, decisively powerful Soviet ICBM system in the near future, just as all the Polaris components will be brought together in the near future in the George Washington.

These doubts about the national estimates do not reflect on the C. I. A., which only claims to produce informed estimates, not gospel truth. These doubts reflect, rather, on the use the Administration is making of the estimates.

Just this is the crucial point. The National Intelligence Estimates may be correct to the last decimal. Pray God they are. But they may also be wrong by a considerable margin. If the estimates of Soviet ICBMs are wrong, even by a very narrow margin, the error can be fatal. Basically therefore, it is not merely foolish, it is really criminal, to use the National Estimates as precision instruments which show how little we need to do. Common prudence demands insurance against error in the ICBM estimate. The national interest demand's measures, such as the airborne alert, to end the total vulnerability of the American deterrent. And sound practice demands that the use of mere estimates as precision instruments be abandoned and condemned, as wholly pernicious and improper.

Maybe. Even our sins were bigger than they are now. At the El Fey Club, a man who wanted the band to play "Always" was expected to hand a $100 bill to the leader. If he offered less than $10 to the headwaiter, and less than $5 to the captain on entering the club, the money was often returned to the sport.

Drinking was against the law, so everyone drank. Most people drank to excess. Even women were found stupefied in alleys and along curbsides. Night club gin sold for $20 a fifth. Ginger ale cost $2 a glass.

There were personalities too. People like Peaches Browning and Colleen Moore and Clara Bow and Jimmy Durante and Vincent Coll and Fifi D'Orsay and Larry Fay and Sime Silverman and Harry Richman and Ben Burnie and Morton Downey and Rudy Vallee and Helen Kane and Ruth Etting and Ted Lewis and Will Oakland and Al Smith and Andy Mellon and Nicholas Murray Butler and Samuel Rothafel and Erno Rapee and Billy Rose and Ruth Elder and Admiral Byrd and Elinor Smith and Bert Acosta and Georgie Jessel. Come to think of it, there was always a Georgie Jessel.

The lyrics of one song went: "Was I drunk? Was he handsome? And did my mother give me hell."

This will give you an idea, my little friend. It was a wild era—crazier than it is now—and lots of our young Scott Fitzgeralds and Clara Bows were burned out or dead before the age of 30.

I tell all of this to you, young lady, not to give you any erroneous ideas about us and our time, but so that, when you come to our house to call on Gayle, your eyes won't pop out when you see this gray-haired guy strumming a uke, and so that you will understand mother a little better when she is so strict about you. . .

Abdominal Wounds Nasty, But Can Be Fixed

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

President McKinley was shot in the abdomen and died within nine days. Today a wound of this type is not considered serious because the modern physician has the drugs and the know-how to handle the problem.

The abdomen is filled with slithering intestines, the stomach, liver, kidneys, and other organs. A bullet or knife cannot pass through the area without perforating or nicking something. A hole in the intestine allows the contents to escape into the abdominal cavity, producing the same old peritonitis that occurs when the appendix ruptures. An opening the stomach is more painful, especially when the acid escapes and begins to eat away the highly sensitive inner lining of the abdominal cavity.

An internal hemorrhage occurs when the liver or spleen is injured or a large blood vessel is severed. Interference with the circulation to an organ may cause gangrene and an opening into the bladder allows urine to escape. For these reasons, an immediate operation is recommended whenever a penetrating wound occurs in the abdomen.

Every organ and loop of bowel must be examined systematically to determine whether it has been damaged. Holes in the intestine are sewed up and the bleeding vessels tied off. A bleeding liver is one of the most difficult to correct. Blood transfusions and an antibiotic are given to combat shock and peritonitis.

Surgery was done on William McKinley shortly after the shooting occurred. The bullet had gone through the stomach, producing a hole in the front and back walls of the structure. These lesions were sewed up immediately because the surgeons wanted to avoid peritonitis.

The President rallied but on the seventh day had a relapse and died on the ninth. He had developed gangrene of the stomach wall because the bullet had torn away the blood supply to that area. Nowadays a second operation would have been possible through the use of blood transfusions and antibiotics. The involved part of the stomach would have been removed and in three weeks the President would have been back in his office.

TOMORROW: Nail changes.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Mox Lindquist in "My Manasota Pals" cites the case of a tough old lumberjack cutting a few capers on the fourteenth floor of a Minneapolis hotel. He lost his balance leaning out of a window, and fell all the way to the ground. Miraculously enough, he wasn't killed. In fact, he arose gingerly and rubbed his head.

The lumberjack said, "Ay don't know. Ay just got here myself!"

Lindquist ran smack into a 350-pound lady in northern Minnesota who, quite literally, bowled him off his feet. "Were you always so fat?" inquired the startled Mox. "Oh, ya," she assured him. "Ay ban purty fat as girl in Sweden. My grandmothers were fat on both sides."

Record Budget Passed By W.Va. Legislators

End 30-Day Session Ahead Of Deadline

By BILL BARRETT
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—1960-61 operating budget of $113,703,380 — almost $1,000,000 above the previous record high of a year ago — was enacted by the West Virginia Legislature Thursday just before it adjourned.

In addition, the lawmakers provided $4,350,000 to extend some measure of temporary aid to the state's approximately 50,000 unemployed. Most of this will be used to create jobs in a public works program to improve tourist attractions in parks and forests.

The total of all funds appropriated for the year beginning July 1 for state government operations, unemployment relief, etc., came to slightly over $118,500,000.

The legislators, who finished the 30-day "budget" session within sight of the midnight deadline, also created a West Virginia Crime Study Commission. But this most controversial subject of the Legislature's final week continued to boil up tempers.

As usual, state school aid accounted for the biggest chunk of budget appropriations, totaling some $55,000,000.

The budget contains a salary increase of about 10 per cent for faculty members at West Virginia University and state colleges. To do this, the legislative finance committee did some slicing in other sections of the proposed budget.

The University receives $8,357,662, about $1,200,000 above the present fiscal year. This is far higher than any other institution's appropriation.

The House - Senate budget conferees had reached agreement on their own before noon on a compromise spending document, but a snag developed when the Board of Public Works (BPW) insisted that $325,000 in cuts made by the finance committees be restored.

The House went along but the Senate refused for a while. At length, the Senate acceded after the BPW raised its revenue estimates to take care of the amount.

Of the $325,000, Gov. Cecil H. Underwood's maintained that $50,000 which had been trimmed from the governor's contingent fund should be restored because of the expenses of advertising constitutional amendments to be voted on next November and for inaugurating a new governor in January, 1961.

The unemployment relief program was set up to start before the new fiscal year begins. Of the $4,350,000 total, $500,000 would come from a hike effective March 31 in liquor prices at state stores.

Just when the public works program might get under way, however, was undetermined.

The Crime Commission resolution was passed 17-13 by the Senate after being approved 72-26 following a heated debate in the House. The debate crossed party lines throughout and the fact that this was the final day of the session didn't mellow some.

Del. Dan Dahill (D-Logan) said he felt the whole thing as "pure politics and a desperate political maneuver." Speaker Harry Pauley, a primary candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination took this as a slap at him.

Pauley said such remarks were offensive to him, especially from "people whose company I am dubious of."

Both chambers also finally agreed on and passed a bill to allow imposition of tolls on Ohio River bridges at Parkersburg and Huntington, but only when and after other bridges are erected and opened in the areas.

A final - day amendment also prohibits the Road Commission from buying any bridges on the Ohio River whether or not they have bonded indebtedness.

Other bills enacted before closing time:

—Authorized a study of state mental health needs under the direction of a legislative interim committee.

—Required the Road Commission to hire from county jobless people roles for non - technical highway work in each county.

—Designated the DPA, through its county councils, as the agency for screening unemployed for jobs under the public works program.

Underwood Objects To New Liquor Tax

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—A price increase at State liquor stores in the absence of recommended tax relief on food "adds yet another unfavorable competitive factor to border county business," Gov. Underwood said Thursday.

He explained in a message to the Senate that he reluctantly permitted an act providing for such an increase to become law without his signature "because West Virginia sorely needs the revenue."

Crater - shaped buffalo wallows still scar the plains and prairies of the American west. Formed when 60 million bison roamed the continent, the wallows provided the animals with dust baths in dry weather and mud baths when it rained. Some wallows grew to miles in length.

Frostburg's Mayor Seeks Re-Election

FROSTBURG — Mayor Joseph James has filed for re-election in the April 5 municipal election, according to City Clerk William Vogtman. The first candidate to file, he is seeking his third term as mayor.

James pointed out that before the last election no other candidates had filed for mayor as of March 1. At that time he was also undecided, but sought re-election and won the post.

The reason for seeking his third term, he said, is that the present council has many projects under way or anticipated for the near future.

"I know," he stated, "there are many people qualified to do the job but I would like to finish the ones we have started: The hospital being turned over to the city and county, the Frostburg housing project, the UHF television project and a better street lighting program."

JOSEPH JAMES

James was first elected to his present position in 1956, succeeding Perry W. Myers who was not a candidate for re-election. He is married to the former Miss Virginia Anderson. They have three children, Joseph A., 14; Susan, 10 and Diane, 5.

The son of Mrs. Marie James and the late Joseph A. James, Bowery Street, he is a graduate of Beall High School and served four years in the armed forces during World War II. He is employed at Allegany Ballistic Laboratory in a supervisory position.

James is a member of First Methodist Church; Mountain Lodge 99, AF and AM, and Frostburg Lodge 470, BPO Elks.

Keyser Kiwanians Hear Talk On Medical Center

KEYSER—Dr. Kenneth Penrod, head of the Medical School of West Virginia University, was speaker at the Keyser Kiwanis Club dinner meeting Wednesday evening. He was introduced by Prof. James Handlin, of Potomac State College faculty.

Dr. Penrod said the Medical Center at the university is the outstanding faculty of Morgantown. "This school contains Dental, Pharmacy, and Nursing schools and is used for both the public and students of the university. The medical center is chiefly financed by a West Virginia tax on soft drinks and this bill specified that the funds are to construct, operate and maintain a medical center.

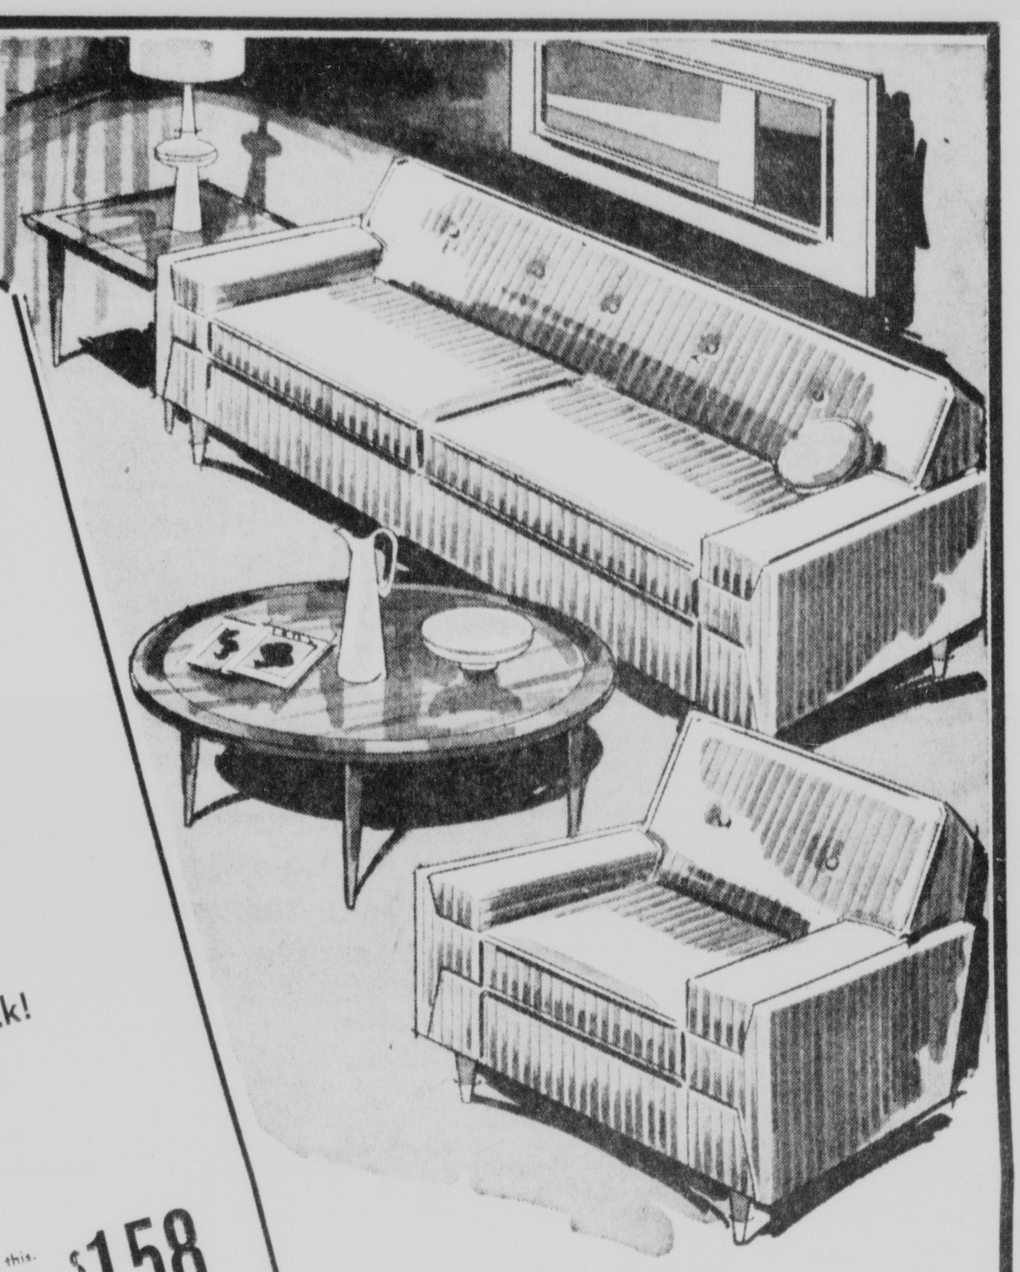

The Dental School will graduate the first class in June 1961. The Nursing School will enroll its first class in September and will have a first class of graduates in 1965.

The medical center is a segment of the University of W. Va. and will coordinate work with the Schools of Law, Sociology and Psychology and with Electronic Engineers in developing the needed tools and technique for health center training," he explained.

Other guests introduced by Charles Rennix, president of the club were: Dean K. S. McKee of Potomac State College; Donald Hott, prosecuting attorney; and Kenneth Holland of the Keyser Lions Club.

Announcement was made of the Blood Bank sponsorship contemplated by the organization and the annual ham sale.

The unemployment relief program was set up to start before the new fiscal year begins. Of the $4,350,000 total, $500,000 would come from a hike effective March 31 in liquor prices at state stores.

Just when the public works program might get under way, however, was undetermined.

The Crime Commission resolution was passed 17-13 by the Senate after being approved 72-26 following a heated debate in the House. The debate crossed party lines throughout and the fact that this was the final day of the session didn't mellow some.

Del. Dan Dahill (D-Logan) said he felt the whole thing as "pure politics and a desperate political maneuver." Speaker Harry Pauley, a primary candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination took this as a slap at him.

Pauley said such remarks were offensive to him, especially from "people whose company I am dubious of."

Both chambers also finally agreed on and passed a bill to allow imposition of tolls on Ohio River bridges at Parkersburg and Huntington, but only when and after other bridges are erected and opened in the areas.

A final - day amendment also prohibits the Road Commission from buying any bridges on the Ohio River whether or not they have bonded indebtedness.

Other bills enacted before closing time:

—Authorized a study of state mental health needs under the direction of a legislative interim committee.

—Required the Road Commission to hire from county jobless people roles for non - technical highway work in each county.

—Designated the DPA, through its county councils, as the agency for screening unemployed for jobs under the public works program.

Cold No Excuse

VIENNA (AP) — The Sofia newspaper Narodna Mladesch—in editions reaching here—tells young Bulgarian Reds that the present cold wave is no excuse for shirking their spare-time ditch-digging duties. The paper complained that pioneer projects had been neglected for weeks in villages and lesser towns.

Underwood Objects To New Liquor Tax

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)— A price increase at State liquor stores in the absence of recommended tax relief on food "adds yet another unfavorable competitive factor to border county business," Gov. Underwood said Thursday.

He explained in a message to the Senate that he reluctantly permitted an act providing for such an increase to become law without his signature "because West Virginia sorely needs the revenue."

Crater - shaped buffalo wallows still scar the plains and prairies of the American west. Formed when 60 million bison roamed the continent, the wallows provided the animals with dust baths in dry weather and mud baths when it rained. Some wallows grew to miles in length.

Frostburg's Mayor Seeks Re-Election

FROSTBURG — Mayor Joseph James has filed for re-election in the April 5 municipal election, according to City Clerk William Vogtman. The first candidate to file, he is seeking his third term as mayor.

James pointed out that before the last election no other candidates had filed for mayor as of March 1. At that time he was also undecided, but sought re-election and won the post.

The reason for seeking his third term, he said, is that the present council has many projects under way or anticipated for the near future.

"I know," he stated, "there are many people qualified to do the job but I would like to finish the ones we have started: The hospital being turned over to the city and county, the Frostburg housing project, the UHF television project and a better street lighting program."

JOSEPH JAMES

James was first elected to his present position in 1956, succeeding Perry W. Myers who was not a candidate for re-election. He is married to the former Miss Virginia Anderson. They have three children, Joseph A., 14; Susan, 10 and Diane, 5.

The son of Mrs. Marie James and the late Joseph A. James, Bowery Street, he is a graduate of Beall High School and served four years in the armed forces during World War II. He is employed at Allegany Ballistic Laboratory in a supervisory position.

James is a member of First Methodist Church; Mountain Lodge 99, AF and AM, and Frostburg Lodge 470, BPO Elks.

Keyser Kiwanians Hear Talk On Medical Center

KEYSER—Dr. Kenneth Penrod, head of the Medical School of West Virginia University, was speaker at the Keyser Kiwanis Club dinner meeting Wednesday evening. He was introduced by Prof. James Handlin, of Potomac State College faculty.

Dr. Penrod said the Medical Center at the university is the outstanding faculty of Morgantown. "This school contains Dental, Pharmacy, and Nursing schools and is used for both the public and students of the university. The medical center is chiefly financed by a West Virginia tax on soft drinks and this bill specified that the funds are to construct, operate and maintain a medical center.

The Dental School will graduate the first class in June 1961. The Nursing School will enroll its first class in September and will have a first class of graduates in 1965.

The medical center is a segment of the University of W. Va. and will coordinate work with the Schools of Law, Sociology and Psychology and with Electronic Engineers in developing the needed tools and technique for health center training," he explained.

Other guests introduced by Charles Rennix, president of the club were: Dean K. S. McKee of Potomac State College; Donald Hott, prosecuting attorney; and Kenneth Holland of the Keyser Lions Club.

William Preston Seeking Re-Election To Council

Frostburg Street Commissioner Files

WILLIAM PRESTON

FROSTBURG — William Preston, street commissioner, filed yesterday for re-election to the Frostburg City Council. Preston is the first person to announce candidacy for a councilman's post.

Mr. Preston was an unsuccessful candidate for councilman in the 1956 election. Before the term expired, Preston was appointed to fill the vacancy in the water department when G. Franklin Martens resigned. In the 1958 election he was high man on the ballot and took the position of street commissioner. In filing for re-election he stated that this is the position he is again seeking in the April 5 election.

Preston attended Beall High School, served in World War II and the Korean Conflict. He is presently employed as a salesman for the Snap-On Tool Company.

He is a member of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion; past commander of the former John R. Fairgrieve Post Veterans of Foreign Wars; has served on the board of directors of the Allegany Garrett County heart association; and is also a member of the Young Men's Republican Club and the Frostburg Fire Department.

In reviewing his work with the street department, Preston states that he has been active in improving the swimming pool area with tables, fireplaces, general clean-up and has placed the swimming pool in shape for the 1960 season by repairing walls and bottom.

Under his leadership, he said, his department inaugurated a street repair program and regraded and resurfaced 1500 feet of Frost Avenue extended, Federal and Park streets; 1400 feet of Mt. Pleasant Street extended; resurfaced Park Lane and two small streets from Main to Centennial Street; re-vamped the city-wide garbage and trash collections; was instrumental in the purchasing of a street sweeper and setting up a regular schedule for operation, and has divided the street crew into day and night shifts during the period from November 1 to April 1 to take care of sudden snow or sleet storms that create hazardous driving conditions. The night crew uses the street sweeper or washes streets as weather permits.

Prtson is married to the former Miss Betty James. They have a daughter Gail, age 5 and the entire family are members of the Shaft Methodist Church.

Tree Nursery Plans Reviewed

PT. PLEASANT, W. Va. (UPI) —State Conservation Commissioner Warden M. Lane has given Mason County residents some hope that a state tree nursery may eventually be started in the county.

Lane, at a public meeting here Wednesday night, said the commission was considering the possibility of such a nursery at Lakin. It would be located on the grounds of the now defunct state Negro boys reformatory.

Earlier this year, Lane had turned thumbs down on a proposal to start a tree nursery at the McClintic Wildlife Station near here. He said the land was unsuitable.

However, Lane emphasized that any nursery to be built at Lakin would depend on the availability of laborers willing to work for 90 cents an hour, a good water supply, suitable soil, and an altitude much the same as that where seedling trees would be transplanted.

The Eiffel Tower in Paris contains permanent machinery to correct any sinking condition. Hydraulic presses, one in each of the four foundation piers of each "leg," do the trick.

Frostburg Street Commissioner Files

WILLIAM PRESTON

FROSTBURG — William Preston, street commissioner, filed yesterday for re-election to the Frostburg City Council. Preston is the first person to announce candidacy for a councilman's post.

Mr. Preston was an unsuccessful candidate for councilman in the 1956 election. Before the term expired, Preston was appointed to fill the vacancy in the water department when G. Franklin Martens resigned. In the 1958 election he was high man on the ballot and took the position of street commissioner. In filing for re-election he stated that this is the position he is again seeking in the April 5 election.

Preston attended Beall High School, served in World War II and the Korean Conflict. He is presently employed as a salesman for the Snap-On Tool Company.

He is a member of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, past commander of the former John R. Fairgrieve Post Veterans of Foreign Wars; has served on the board of directors of the Allegany Garrett County heart association; and is also a member of the Young Men's Republican Club and the Frostburg Fire Department.

In reviewing his work with the street department, Preston states that he has been active in improving the swimming pool area with tables, fireplaces, general clean-up and has placed the swimming pool in shape for the 1960 season by repairing walls and bottom.

Under his leadership, he said, his department inaugurated a street repair program and regraded and resurfaced 1500 feet of Frost Avenue extended, Federal and Park streets; 1400 feet of Mt. Pleasant Street extended; resurfaced Park Lane and two small streets from Main to Centennial Street; re-vamped the city-wide garbage and trash collections; was instrumental in the purchasing of a street sweeper and setting up a regular schedule for operation, and has divided the street crew into day and night shifts during the period from November 1 to April 1 to take care of sudden snow or sleet storms that create hazardous driving conditions. The night crew uses the street sweeper or washes streets as weather permits.

Prtson is married to the former Miss Betty James. They have a daughter Gail, age 5 and the entire family are members of the Shaft Methodist Church.

Tree Nursery Plans Reviewed

PT. PLEASANT, W. Va. (UPI)—State Conservation Commissioner Warden M. Lane has given Mason County residents some hope that a state tree nursery may eventually be started in the county.

Lane, at a public meeting here Wednesday night, said the commission was considering the possibility of such a nursery at Lakin. It would be located on the grounds of the now defunct state Negro boys reformatory.

Earlier this year, Lane had turned thumbs down on a proposal to start a tree nursery at the McClintic Wildlife Station near here. He said the land was unsuitable.

However, Lane emphasized that any nursery to be built at Lakin would depend on the availability of laborers willing to work for 90 cents an hour, a good water supply, suitable soil, and an altitude much the same as that where seedling trees would be transplanted.

The Eiffel Tower in Paris contains permanent machinery to correct any sinking condition. Hydraulic presses, one in each of the four foundation piers of each "leg," do the trick.

Piedmont Plans Bloodmobile Visit

Rev. Levi Ziegler, Westernport, Allegany County RC chapter director, presided. Mrs. Marie Fromhart, health nurse, is also assisting in setting up the program.

A luncheon will be held Tuesday, February 23.

St. John's Defeats West Virginia At Garden, 79-73

Redmen Bag 7th Straight, Hall Is Star

Coach Lapchick's Team Wins 13th; West Scores 32

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Unranked, unsung St. John's University virtually clinched a post-season tournament bid Thursday night by toppling West Virginia's fifth-ranked Mountaineers, 79-73, before 14,964 fans at Madison Square Garden.

The defeat was only the third in 22 games for West Virginia and the victory was St. John's seventh in a row and 13th of the campaign against five losses.

Despite the fact that All-America Jerry West scored 32 points for the Mountaineers, 6-4 Willie Hall emerged as the game's standout by virtue of his brilliant defensive job against the West Virginia ace during the second half. In addition to containing West and limiting him to only 12 points in the second half, Hall contributed 15 points for the Redmen.

West was individual high scorer with his 32 points but 20 of them came during the first half and the underdog New Yorkers survived 11 lead changes to leave the floor with the score tied at 42-42 at intermission.

Joe Lapchick's Redmen actually won the game in the last half of the second half. Tony Jackson tied the score at 58-58 with nine minutes and 23 seconds remaining in the game. St. John's gradually increased its lead and West Virginia never was able to draw abreast again.

Jackson led St. John's with 20 points.

American Division All-Stars Cop SS Benefit, 33 To 28

The American Division All-Stars, coached by Floyd "Pete" Elliott defeated Coach Melvin Boone's National Division All-Stars last night at the YMCA by the score of 33-28 in a Sunday School benefit game staged to raise funds for the annual league dinner.

Steve Kornblatt of the Maccabees led the scorers of the winning team with nine points. Ed Harrison of St. Luke's and Cope registered six tallies each. Miller was high man for the Nationals with 10 points.

In the first game of the twin bill, the Coaches nosed out the Referees, 46-45.

Mangus's 17 points was high for the Coaches. Powell, Mills and Miller garnered 17, 13 and 10 tallies for the Referees.

Longden Is Thrown By Falling Mount

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI)—Jockey John Longden, who as the world's leading rider sets a new record every time he wins a race, was thrown by his falling mount Thursday at Santa Anita but so far as the track hospital could determine suffered no injury.

Although he was picked up apparently unconscious from the track and placed in an ambulance within 15 minutes Longden was on his feet and walked from the hospital under his own power.

Schayes Scores 33

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Dolph Schayes scored 33 points in leading the Syracuse Nationals to a 116-109 victory over the New York Knickerbockers Thursday night in a National Basketball Association game.

It was Schayes' 581st consecutive game, moving him into second place among the NBA's all-time "iron men" ahead of Vern Mikkelsen, former Minneapolis Lakers' star.

Shoot First Round Five-Under-Par 66s

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Jay Hebert and Doug Ford shot five-under-par 66s Thursday to share the first round lead in the $22,500 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

Hebert, who will celebrate his 37th birthday Feb. 14, came in with identical 33s on both nines at the Phoenix Country Club to tie Ford, Crystal River, Fla., who had 32-34. Hebert, Sanford, Fla., missed taking over sole possession of first place when his 12-foot putt on the 18th hole fell inches short of a birdie.

Hebert had six birdies and seven pars in his fine round.

Near Riot Mars Game At Garden

Players Swap Blows In NYU-Jasper Tilt

NEW YORK (UPI) — Players and fans from Manhattan College and New York University staged one of the biggest free-for-alls in the history of Madison Square Garden Thursday night just before the end of the first game of a college basketball doubleheader.

An estimated 60 fans and players from both benches poured onto the floor and broke up into about 10 different fights after Tom Sanders of NYU and Charlie Koenig of Manhattan began the battle. Sanders and Koenig eventually were ejected from the game, won by NY, 75-54.

Police Restore Order

The battling on the floor lasted for about three minutes before the Garden's special police were able to restore order.

The flare-up was touched off with 2:27 left in the game when Koenig bumped Sanders into the scorers' table at mid-court. The two stood for a moment arguing and then Sanders, a 6-foot, 6-inch, 210-pound Negro, cocked his fist. Koenig, who stands 6-3, immediately connected with a right to Sanders' jaw that stretched the NYU captain over the table.

As Koenig leaped over the table to pummel away at Sanders, players from both benches and fans from opposite ends of the court streamed onto the floor and began to throw punches.

Sanders Takes Beating

Sanders, NYU's leading scorer and an All-America candidate, had been taking a severe beating from Manhattan players under the basket during the game. NYU already has accepted a bid to the NCAA tournament but Manhattan, now 8-9 for the season, was playing all out because of the sharp intra-city rivalry between the schools.

A near-capacity crowd of some 15,000 saw the game which preceded a meeting between West Virginia, the nation's fifth-ranked team, and St. John's of New York, the defending NIT champion.

Manhattan Coach Ken Norton, still steaming mad after the game blamed the near-riot completely on Sanders.

Koenig's Tooth Broken

"The whole thing was precipitated by Sanders," Norton snapped. "He was cutting us to pieces with his elbows all night. He broke Koenig's tooth with his elbow in the first half and he kept on using his elbows the rest of the way. I knew it was a matter of time before something started. I even yelled at Sanders once, 'You want to fight or do you want to play ball?'"

Norton said he also held the officials, Ed Murphy and Steve Honzo, partly accountable because of their failure to call the elbowing fouls on the lanky Sanders.

Giving his version of the battle, Koenig said: "He (Sanders) elbowed me and broke my tooth in the first half. I told him if he elbowed me again I would start swinging."

The Cumberland Old Germans continued to set a merry pace in the City Basketball League last night by turning back their arch rivals, Old Exports, 68-57, for the third straight time this season at Fort Hill.

The victory put the Old Gees on top of the league with a 4-0 mark and dealt the Old Exports their first loss in the second half.

Four players shared scoring honors as the Old Germans pushed their current winning streak to 34 straight games including 14 this season. They won the first half race with a 10-0 record.

Jim Ternent dropped in eight field goals and led the scorers with 16 points while Joe Taylor had 15 and Don Moran and Clay Smith each chipped in with 13 tallies.

Bob Pence was top gun for the Exports who trailed 20-12 at the close of the first quarter and 37-30 at halftime, although the losers pulled within three points (33-30) with 40 seconds remaining in the half. However, the Old Germans hit for two quick buckets and maintained a comfortable margin throughout the remainder of the game.

In other league matches the Forty & Eight club turned back Liberty Trust's winless quintet, 72-48, and the Loyal Order of Moose clipped Roseland, 65-56.

Evers Smith pumped in 25 points to lead the Forty & Eight tossers to their second triumph in four starts in the second half race. Terry Weltman had 17 and Ronnie Cage 16 as the winners built up an early lead and maintained it throughout the game.

High men for Liberty Trust were John Price and Harold Barmoy, each with 14 markers.

The Moose five broke a 29-29 deadlock early in the third quarter on Herman Lewis' basket and went on to defeat Roseland. The victors blew a 23-8 first quarter lead when Roseland rallied to knot the count at 27-all at intermission. The Moose went back on top at 50-44 at the close of the third stanza and Roseland never caught up.

Fritz Showers scored 19 points and Donnie Madden 18 for the winners. Best for Roseland was Fuss Warnick with 15 points.

Tom Nugent To Speak At Alco Dinner

Grid Team To Be Honored Feb. 22

Tom Nugent, head football coach at the University of Maryland, will be the principal speaker at a dinner honoring the Allegany High School grid team on February 22.

Rev. Bruce Price, chairman of the group sponsoring the affair, said that Nugent has accepted the invitation to speak at the dinner which will be held in the school cafeteria beginning at 6 p. m.

This will be the first visit to Cumberland for the mentor who succeeded Tommy Mont as Terrapin football coach last year. The Lawrence, Mass. native directed the Terps to a 5-5 mark on the football field following a disastrous start in his first season at the helm.

Nugent came to Maryland from Florida State, bringing with him the radical "I-formation" which he innovated. He also served four years as head coach at Virginia Military Institute.

Wife Charges Dupre Beat Her With Fists

BALTIMORE (AP)—An alimony and injunction suit filed in Circuit Court Thursday accused halfback L. G. Dupre of the Baltimore Colts of beating his wife with his fists and with coat hangers.

Through her attorneys, Mrs. Ada Maxine Dupre, 23, said she and her two children were abandoned last December and that Dupre now is living in his own apartment.

Mrs. Dupre asked the court to award her permanent alimony, custody of the children and costs of her counsel.

Dupre, 27-year-old graduate of Baylor University who has played five years in the National Football League, was given 15 days to answer the suit.

Mrs. Dupre alleged that her husband's income is in excess of $20,000 a year. Dupre sat out most of the past season with an injured leg.

St. John's Defeats West Virginia At Garden, 79-73

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Unranked, unsung St. John's University virtually clinched a post-season tournament bid Thursday night by toppling West Virginia's fifth-ranked Mountaineers, 79-73, before 14,964 fans at Madison Square Garden.

The defeat was only the third in 22 games for West Virginia and the victory was St. John's seventh in a row and 13th of the campaign against five losses.

Despite the fact that All-America Jerry West scored 32 points for the Mountaineers, 6-4 Willie Hall emerged as the game's standout by virtue of his brilliant defensive job against the West Virginia ace during the second half. In addition to containing West and limiting him to only 12 points in the second half, Hall contributed 15 points for the Redmen.

West was individual high scorer with his 32 points but 20 of them came during the first half and the underdog New Yorkers survived 11 lead changes to leave the floor with the score tied at 42-42 at intermission.

Joe Lapchick's Redmen actually won the game in the last half of the second half. Tony Jackson tied the score at 58-58 with nine minutes and 23 seconds remaining in the game. St. John's gradually increased its lead and West Virginia never was able to draw abreast again.

Jackson led St. John's with 20 points.

The American Division All-Stars, coached by Floyd "Pete" Elliott defeated Coach Melvin Boone's National Division All-Stars last night at the YMCA by the score of 33-28 in a Sunday School benefit game staged to raise funds for the annual league dinner.

Steve Kornblatt of the Maccabees led the scorers of the winning team with nine points. Ed Harrison of St. Luke's and Cope registered six tallies each. Miller was high man for the Nationals with 10 points.

In the first game of the twin bill, the Coaches nosed out the Referees, 46-45.

Mangus's 17 points was high for the Coaches. Powell, Mills and Miller garnered 17, 13 and 10 tallies for the Referees.

Longden Is Thrown By Falling Mount

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI)—Jockey John Longden, who as the world's leading rider sets a new record every time he wins a race, was thrown by his falling mount Thursday at Santa Anita but so far as the track hospital could determine suffered no injury.

Although he was picked up apparently unconscious from the track and placed in an ambulance within 15 minutes Longden was on his feet and walked from the hospital under his own power.

Schayes Scores 33

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Dolph Schayes scored 33 points in leading the Syracuse Nationals to a 116-109 victory over the New York Knickerbockers Thursday night in a National Basketball Association game.

It was Schayes' 581st consecutive game, moving him into second place among the NBA's all-time "iron men" ahead of Vern Mikkelsen, former Minneapolis Lakers' star.

Shoot First Round Five-Under-Par 66s

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) —Jay Hebert and Doug Ford shot five-under-par 66s Thursday to share the first round lead in the $22,500 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

Hebert, who will celebrate his 37th birthday Feb. 14, came in with identical 33s on both nines at the Phoenix Country Club to tie Ford, Crystal River, Fla., who had 32-34. Hebert, Sanford, Fla., missed taking over sole possession of first place when his 12-foot putt on the 18th hole fell inches short of a birdie.

Hebert had six birdies and seven pars in his fine round.

Near Riot Mars Game At Garden

Players Swap Blows In NYU-Jasper Tilt

NEW YORK (UPI) — Players and fans from Manhattan College and New York University staged one of the biggest free-for-alls in the history of Madison Square Garden Thursday night just before the end of the first game of a college basketball doubleheader.

An estimated 60 fans and players from both benches poured onto the floor and broke up into about 10 different fights after Tom Sanders of NYU and Charlie Koenig of Manhattan began the battle. Sanders and Koenig eventually were ejected from the game, won by NY, 75-54.

Police Restore Order

The battling on the floor lasted for about three minutes before the Garden's special police were able to restore order.

The flare-up was touched off with 2:27 left in the game when Koenig bumped Sanders into the scorers' table at mid-court. The two stood for a moment arguing and then Sanders, a 6-foot, 6-inch, 210-pound Negro, cocked his fist. Koenig, who stands 6-3, immediately connected with a right to Sanders' jaw that stretched the NYU captain over the table.

As Koenig leaped over the table to pummel away at Sanders, players from both benches and fans from opposite ends of the court streamed onto the floor and began to throw punches.

Sanders Takes Beating

Sanders, NYU's leading scorer and an All-America candidate, had been taking a severe beating from Manhattan players under the basket during the game. NYU already has accepted a bid to the NCAA tournament but Manhattan, now 8-9 for the season, was playing all out because of the sharp intra-city rivalry between the schools.

A near-capacity crowd of some 15,000 saw the game which preceded a meeting between West Virginia, the nation's fifth-ranked team, and St. John's of New York, the defending NIT champion.

Koenig's Tooth Broken

"The whole thing was precipitated by Sanders," Norton snapped. "He was cutting us to pieces with his elbows all night. He broke Koenig's tooth with his elbow in the first half and he kept on using his elbows the rest of the way. I knew it was a matter of time before something started. I even yelled at Sanders once, 'You want to fight or do you want to play ball?'"

Norton said he also held the officials, Ed Murphy and Steve Honzo, partly accountable because of their failure to call the elbowing fouls on the lanky Sanders.

Giving his version of the battle, Koenig said: "He (Sanders) elbowed me and broke my tooth in the first half. I told him if he elbowed me again I would start swinging."

The Cumberland Old Germans continued to set a merry pace in the City Basketball League last night by turning back their arch rivals, Old Exports, 68-57, for the third straight time this season at Fort Hill.

The victory put the Old Gees on top of the league with a 4-0 mark and dealt the Old Exports their first loss in the second half.

Four players shared scoring honors as the Old Germans pushed their current winning streak to 34 straight games including 14 this season. They won the first half race with a 10-0 record.

Jim Ternent dropped in eight field goals and led the scorers with 16 points while Joe Taylor had 15 and Don Moran and Clay Smith each chipped in with 13 tallies.

Bob Pence was top gun for the Exports who trailed 20-12 at the close of the first quarter and 37-30 at halftime, although the losers pulled within three points (33-30) with 46 seconds remaining in the half. However, the Old Germans hit for two quick buckets and maintained a comfortable margin throughout the remainder of the game.

In other league matches the Forty & Eight club turned back Liberty Trust's winless quintet, 72-48, and the Loyal Order of Moose clipped Roseland, 65-56.

Evers Smith pumped in 25 points to lead the Forty & Eight tossers to their second triumph in four starts in the second half race. Terry Weltman had 17 and Ronnie Cage 16 as the winners built up an early lead and maintained it throughout the game.

High men for Liberty Trust were John Price and Harold Barmoy, each with 14 markers.

The Moose five broke a 29-29 deadlock early in the third quarter on Herman Lewis' basket and went on to defeat Roseland. The victors blew a 23-8 first quarter lead when Roseland rallied to knot the count at 27-all at intermission. The Moose went back on top at 50-44 at the close of the third stanza and Roseland never caught up.

Fritz Showers scored 19 points and Donnie Madden 18 for the winners. Best for Roseland was Fuss Warnick with 15 points.

Tom Nugent To Speak At Alco Dinner

Grid Team To Be Honored Feb. 22

Tom Nugent, head football coach at the University of Maryland, will be the principal speaker at a dinner honoring the Allegany High School grid team on February 22.

Rev. Bruce Price, chairman of the group sponsoring the affair, said that Nugent has accepted the invitation to speak at the dinner which will be held in the school cafeteria beginning at 6 p. m.

This will be the first visit to Cumberland for the mentor who succeeded Tommy Mont as Terrapin football coach last year. The Lawrence, Mass. native directed the Terps to a 5-5 mark on the football field following a disastrous start in his first season at the helm.

Nugent came to Maryland from Florida State, bringing with him the radical "I-formation" which he innovated. He also served four years as head coach at Virginia Military Institute.

Wife Charges Dupre Beat Her With Fists

BALTIMORE (AP)—An alimony and injunction suit filed in Circuit Court Thursday accused halfback L. G. Dupre of the Baltimore Colts of beating his wife with his fists and with coat hangers.

Through her attorneys, Mrs. Ada Maxine Dupre, 23, said she and her two children were abandoned last December and that Dupre now is living in his own apartment.

Mrs. Dupre asked the court to award her permanent alimony, custody of the children and costs of her counsel.

Dupre, 27-year-old graduate of Baylor University who has played five years in the National Football League, was given 15 days to answer the suit.

Mrs. Dupre alleged that her husband's income is in excess of $20,000 a year. Dupre sat out most of the past season with an injured leg.

Valley, Bruce And Piedmont Face Crucial Tests Tonight

Knights Host Alco, Lions Visit Oakland

Bruce Can Annex B Title; LaSalle Meets Ridgeley

Allegany High School's newly crowned county Class A champions will put a 7-0 W.M.I. League record on the line tonight when they tackle the Valley Black Knights on the latter's floor in one of the most crucial tests of the campaign for both schools.

Valley is 7-2 at home this season, losing to Piedmont, 44-29, in the opener and bowing to Bruce High in a double overtime "sudden death" battle, 59-57. But the Knights handed LaSalle its first loss of the season there, 73-61, turned back Fort Hill in a 45-44 thriller and tonight they'll go for a sweep over Cumberland teams in dear old Detmold.

Coach John C. Meyers' team is 1-2 in Cumberland this season, having been edged by Allegany, 52-51, and by LaSalle, 56-51, but won at Fort Hill, 83-65.

Do-Or-Die For Valley

Valley and Bruce are tied for second place in the W.M.I. loop with 5-2 records, two games back of Chet Payne's front-running Campers. A loss tonight would knock Valley's 1959 champs out of the running and would boost Allegany's chances of winning the league crown. The Campers' last two games are with Bruce here and Fort Hill away.

Tonight's game will be the 14th in the Allegany-Valley series. The Campers hold a 9-4 edge in wins. The teams have split even (3-3) at Valley but here Allegany holds a 6-1 advantage.

Seek Class B Crown

Coach Leonard Ritchie's Bruce High School floormen can sew up the county Class B title for the first time since 1954 if they whip Mt. Savage tonight in Westernport.

Bruce leads in this triangular series with a 2-0 record, having beaten Mt. Savage, 77-63 and Valley 59-57 in a double overtime "sudden death" affair. Valley, defending county and state Class B champions, are 2-1 in the county race and Mt. Savage is 0-3.

Fort Hill, winless in seven W.M.I. League games, plays Beall High School (3-4) in Frostburg tonight.

Big Battle At Oakland

Sharing interest with the Valley-Allegany game tonight is the battle between Piedmont and Southern's Highlanders at Oakland. This is a game between undefeated Potomac Valley Conference quints and should be a honey. Piedmont is 11-0 in the league and is hopeful of sharing the title with Romney which is undefeated in 14 league outings. Southern is 3-0 in the conference but can't qualify for the title because it plays only six games in the 19-school loop.

The Highlanders (12-2) are undefeated since losing in overtime at Valley (54-52) on December 15 and will put an 11-game victory sing on the line in tonight's game. Piedmont (14-1) must win remaining games with Southern (two) and Petersburg to keep pace with Romney. Southern is slated to play in Piedmont, February 16.

Ridgeley At LaSalle

LaSalle High School's Explorers go after their 17th win of the season tonight when they tackle Ridgeley (5-13) on SS. Peter & Paul court. Coach George Geatz's team will be seeking a sweep of the series, having won the first game, 53-50 in Ridgeley early in the campaign. To date LaSalle has bagged 16 out of 18 games.

Four other games are listed in the P.V.C. in addition to the Piedmont-Southern tilt. Fort Ashby invades Keyser, Wardensville visits Franklin, Bayard is at Petersburg and Capon Bridge will host Mathias.

Mountaineer of Thomas is slated to play at Elk Garden.

Hyndman At Everett

Hyndman is at Everett and Bedford visits Saxton in a pair of Bedford County League games.

Wins On Points

Bowie Meet Opens Today

Abraham Lincoln Stakes Is Feature

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Cold, blustery winds are expected to sweep across the infield at Bowie Friday as it opens the 1960 racing season in the East.

But the 13,000 or so fans who turn out for the nine-race card will be snug and warm behind the glass - enclosed grandstand and clubhouse. Big heater-blowers will keep the temperature inside in the upper 60s.

Ready for the meeting, which runs through March 29, are about 1,500 mounts. Bowie has 850 stabled there, with 400 more at nearby Laurel, 200 at Pimlico and 100 at the half-mile Marlboro track.

The opening day feature, the $10,000 - added Abraham Lincoln Stakes, drew 14 entries. A likely favorite is William W. Carroll's Charlie Boy, up from a campaign in New Orleans where he won four of his five starts.

Saturday's feature, the $15,000 Francis Scott Key, may draw even more entries for the five and a half furlong sprint for three-year-olds.

The big money race of the meeting will be the $100,000-added John B. Campbell Memorial on March 26.

Alvin Dark's 70 Sets Pace

Leads Baseball Players Tourney

MIAMI (UPI)—Philadelphia infielder Alvin Dark recovered from a bad start Thursday to shoot an even-par 70 in the first round of the annual Baseball Players Golf Tournament.

Dark's score gave him a five-stroke lead in his quest of a fourth title in this event. His last victory was in 1957 when the tournament was a match play affair.

The field of some 29 major leaguers, who have been active within the last five years, plus 100 minor leaguers, guests and press representatives, are participating in the 72 holes of medal play. The tournament ends Sunday.

Cincinnati Manager Fred Hutchinson moved into second place at the end of the first round with a 75, one stroke ahead of Johnny Gray of the Phillies.

Al Lopez, Chicago White Sox manager and former winner of the tournament, tied with Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees and Jim Hearn of the Phillies with a 77.

Former Detroit player Roy Cullenbine posted a 72 to lead the inactive major leaguers division by one stroke over Jack Russell of Boston.

George Saab, three-time winner of the minor league bracket, took a long lead in that division with a 73.

Valley, Bruce And Piedmont Face Crucial Tests Tonight

Knights Host Alco, Lions Visit Oakland

Bruce Can Annex B Title; LaSalle Meets Ridgeley

Allegany High School's newly crowned county Class A champions will put a 7-0 W.M.I. League record on the line tonight when they tackle the Valley Black Knights on the latter's floor in one of the most crucial tests of the campaign for both schools.

Valley is 7-2 at home this season, losing to Piedmont, 44-29, in the opener and bowing to Bruce High in a double overtime "sudden death" battle, 59-57. But the Knights handed LaSalle its first loss of the season there, 73-61, turned back Fort Hill in a 45-44 thriller and tonight they'll go for a sweep over Cumberland teams in dear old Detmold.

Coach John C. Meyers' team is 1-2 in Cumberland this season, having been edged by Allegany, 52-51, and by LaSalle, 56-51, but won at Fort Hill, 83-65.

Do-Or-Die For Valley

Valley and Bruce are tied for second place in the W.M.I. loop with 5-2 records, two games back of Chet Payne's front-running Campers. A loss tonight would knock Valley's 1959 champs out of the running and would boost Allegany's chances of winning the league crown. The Campers' last two games are with Bruce here and Fort Hill away.

Tonight's game will be the 14th in the Allegany-Valley series. The Campers hold a 9-4 edge in wins. The teams have split even (3-3) at Valley but here Allegany holds a 6-1 advantage.

Seek Class B Crown

Coach Leonard Ritchie's Bruce High School floormen can sew up the county Class B title for the first time since 1954 if they whip Mt. Savage tonight in Westernport.

Bruce leads in this triangular series with a 2-0 record, having beaten Mt. Savage, 77-63 and Valley 59-57 in a double overtime "sudden death" affair. Valley, defending county and state Class B champions, are 2-1 in the county race and Mt. Savage is 0-3.

Fort Hill, winless in seven W.M.I. League games, plays Beall High School (3-4) in Frostburg tonight.

Big Battle At Oakland

Sharing interest with the Valley-Allegany game tonight is the battle between Piedmont and Southern's Highlanders at Oakland. This is a game between undefeated Potomac Valley Conference quints and should be a honey. Piedmont is 11-0 in the league and is hopeful of sharing the title with Romney which is undefeated in 14 league outings. Southern is 3-0 in the conference but can't qualify for the title because it plays only six games in the 19-school loop.

The Highlanders (12-2) are undefeated since losing in overtime at Valley (54-52) on December 15 and will put an 11-game victory sing on the line in tonight's game. Piedmont (14-1) must win remaining games with Southern (two) and Petersburg to keep pace with Romney. Southern is slated to play in Piedmont, February 16.

Ridgeley At LaSalle

LaSalle High School's Explorers go after their 17th win of the season tonight when they tackle Ridgeley (5-13) on SS. Peter & Paul court. Coach George Geatz's team will be seeking a sweep of the series, having won the first game, 53-50 in Ridgeley early in the campaign. To date LaSalle has bagged 16 out of 18 games.

Four other games are listed in the P.V.C. in addition to the Piedmont-Southern tilt. Fort Ashby invades Keyser, Wardensville visits Franklin, Bayard is at Petersburg and Capon Bridge will host Mathias.

Mountaineer of Thomas is slated to play at Elk Garden.

Hyndman At Everett

Hyndman is at Everett and Bedford visits Saxton in a pair of Bedford County League games.

Wins On Points

Bowie Meet Opens Today

Abraham Lincoln Stakes Is Feature

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Cold, blustery winds are expected to sweep across the infield at Bowie Friday as it opens the 1960 racing season in the East.

But the 13,000 or so fans who turn out for the nine-race card will be snug and warm behind the glass - enclosed grandstand and clubhouse. Big heater-blowers will keep the temperature inside in the upper 60s.

Ready for the meeting, which runs through March 29, are about 1,500 mounts. Bowie has 850 stabled there, with 400 more at nearby Laurel, 200 at Pimlico and 100 at the half-mile Marlboro track.

The opening day feature, the $10,000 - added Abraham Lincoln Stakes, drew 14 entries. A likely favorite is William W. Carroll's Charlie Boy, up from a campaign in New Orleans where he won four of his five starts.

Saturday's feature, the $15,000 Francis Scott Key, may draw even more entries for the five and a half furlong sprint for three-year-olds.

The big money race of the meeting will be the $100,000-added John B. Campbell Memorial on March 26.

Braves, Yanks Are Favorites

Pirates Are 6-1 And Orioles 20-1

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—The New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves are favored to meet in the 1960 World Series in odds posted Thursday by a Las Vegas sports book.

Jackie Gaughn's sports book placed the Los Angeles Dodgers third in his ratings because he felt the team was "getting old." He said he believed the Yankees were the best team last year but lost the pennant to the Chicago White Sox because they had "an off season."

Milwaukee was top-rated because of what Gaughn listed as superior pitching. He said the Detroit Tigers were the best long-shot.

The ratings:

National		American
Milwaukee	7-5	New York	4-5
San Fran	9-5	Chicago	2-1
Los Angeles	2-1	Cleveland	3-1
Pittsburgh	6-1	Detroit	4-1
Cincinnati	6-1	Boston	20-1
St. Louis	20-1	Baltimore	20-1
Chicago	20-1	Kan. City	100-1
Phila.	100-1	Washington	100-1

Demeter Is 25th Dodger To Sign

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Don Demeter, rangy outfielder who helped the Los Angeles Dodgers get off to a flying start last season, Thursday became the 25th member of the club to return a signed 1960 contract to General Manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi.

It was Demeter's booming bat in the early weeks of the 1959 season that helped carry the club in the first division until he received help from other power hitters.

Despite tailing off somewhat in the later stages of the season, Demeter batted in 70 runs and hit 18 homers. He was reported to have been given a salary increase from an estimated $10,000 to around $13,000.

Baltimore Signs Brown And Hoeft

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—The Baltimore Orioles Thursday brought to 25 the number of players under contract for 1960 by announcing receipt of agreements from veteran pitchers Harold (Skinny) Brown and Billy Hoeft and three rookies.

The newcomers were Marv Breeding, 26-year-old second baseman who hit .288 with 27 stolen bases for Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League; and 18-year-old pitchers Arne Thorsland of Teaneck, N.J., and Dean Chance of Wooster, Ohio, who played last year for Bluefield of the Appalachian (Rookie) League.

Brown, 35, had an 11-9 won-lost record last year. Hoeft, 27, who was obtained from the Boston Red Sox last year, had a 2-5 record.

Ortega Fights Emile Griffith

Welters To Tangle In Garden Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Gaspar Ortega, of Mexico, will be back to test another new face Friday night in Madison Square Garden. The newcomer to the bigtime will be Emile Griffith, a New York shipping clerk by way of the Virgin Islands.

On the strength of his experience and proven ability, (No. 8 among the welters in the National Boxing Assn. rating), Ortega is a slight favorite over Griffith, 21.

Like Kid Gavilan of a few years back, Ortega, 29, is a man plagued by split decisions. Gavilan frequently won them, but Ortega often winds up on the short end.

Griffith's record is 15-1 for about 18 months of pro fighting.

The 10-round match will be carried on network (NBC) radio and television, starting at 10 (EST).

Seixas Named Davis Cup Vice Chairman

NEW YORK (AP)—Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, former Wimbledon and U.S. champion and veteran Davis Cup player, Thursday was named vice chairman of the U.S. Davis Cup Committee.

Seixas played in seven Davis Cup challenge rounds before retiring from big time competition in 1958.

Hearing Is Called

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State Athletic Commission Thursday called a hearing for Friday Feb. 19 to consider the application of Feature Sports, Inc., for a license to promote boxing. Roy Cohn's eight man group hopes to promote the return match between heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson and Floyd Patterson in June.

FOLLOWING IN POP'S FOOTSTEPS — Sure thing, for Archie San Romani, Jr. (left), of the University of Wichita, also is a miler, the same as was his dad, Archie San Romani, Sr., some 20 years ago. Young Archie competes in the Baxter mile in New York February 13. Archie, Sr., trimmed the great Glenn Cunningham in the Princeton Invitational in 1937 and in the Kansas Relays in 1938.

Night Thoroughbred Racing Is Proposed For Maryland

Bill At Annapolis Also Has Longer Meets For Majors

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A bill to pave the way for night thoroughbred racing and longer meets at Maryland's major tracks has been drafted for introduction in the Legislature.

Reliable sources said today the measure was drawn at the request of the attorney general's office but no sponsor's name had yet been affixed to the bill.

The proposal would authorize the State Racing Commission to approve schedules totaling 180 days of racing at the three major tracks—Pimlico, Laurel and Bowie—instead of 120. It also would empower the commission to transfer the program of a track to any other track, which it can do now only in emergencies.

However, Joseph S. Kaufman, assistant attorney general, said the provision to increase the number of days was inadvertent. Kaufman said the draft would be changed before introduction to retain the 120-day total.

These provisions follow the pattern indicated in recent statements by Commission Chairman R. Bruce Livie when he proposed the abandonment of racing at Cumberland and Bel Air half-mile tracks.

The commission chairman has also suggested night racing for thoroughbreds as a means of bolstering state revenues from betting. Night racing is now held in Maryland only for harness horses.

There was no immediate indication of when the legislation including Livie's proposals might be introduced. The deadline for introduction of bills during the current 30-day legislative session is Feb. 22.

One Never Knows

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—On Feb. 28, 1958, Brookmeade Stable sent a little 2-year-old colt to the post in a maiden race at Hialeah to make his first start against 13 other non-winners. The youngster was 12 to 1 and ran fourth. In 1959 the colt became the horse of the year. He was Sword Dancer.

Braves, Yanks Are Favorites

Pirates Are 6-1 And Orioles 20-1

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—The New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves are favored to meet in the 1960 World Series in odds posted Thursday by a Las Vegas sports book.

Jackie Gaughn's sports book placed the Los Angeles Dodgers third in his ratings because he felt the team was "getting old." He said he believed the Yankees were the best team last year but lost the pennant to the Chicago White Sox because they had "an off season."

Milwaukee was top-rated because of what Gaughn listed as superior pitching. He said the Detroit Tigers were the best longshot.

The ratings:

National		American
Milwaukee	7-5	New York	4-5
San Fran	9-5	Chicago	2-1
Los Angeles	2-1	Cleveland	3-1
Pittsburgh	6-1	Detroit	4-1
Cincinnati	6-1	Boston	20-1
St. Louis	20-1	Baltimore	20-1
Chicago	20-1	Kan. City	100-1
Phila.	100-1	Washington	100-1

Demeter Is 25th Dodger To Sign

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Don Demeter, rangy outfielder who helped the Los Angeles Dodgers get off to a flying start last season, Thursday became the 25th member of the club to return a signed 1960 contract to General Manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi.

It was Demeter's booming bat in the early weeks of the 1959 season that helped carry the club in the first division until he received help from other power hitters.

Despite tailing off somewhat in the later stages of the season, Demeter batted in 70 runs and hit 18 homers. He was reported to have been given a salary increase from an estimated $10,000 to around $13,000.

Erie Thruway To Open

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—The Pennsylvania State Highways Department hopes to open the 46-mile Erie Thruway to traffic by early summer.

A department spokesman said there was a "good possibility" the 38-million-dollar superhighway connecting New York and Ohio through Erie County would be open by July 1.

The new superhighway, which bypasses Erie to the south, will replace U.S. Route 20, now the key highway between New York and Ohio.

Ironic Note On President Lincoln

points out that the nation's capital city would have been surrounded by the enemy had control of Maryland been seized by the secessionists as an "inside job."

"There was, of course, genuine Southern sympathy in the state and especially in Baltimore. The mayor and chief of police of that city were pro-Confederate and anti-Lincoln. The failure to prevent the murderous and disorderly mob attack upon federal troops as they passed through the city in April of 1861 showed both an inadequacy and a lack of diligence on the part of the city authorities," Randall writes in his book.

Mayor Arrested

Mayor George William Brown of Baltimore was one of a number of prominent Marylanders arrested upon the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus. He was arrested in mid-September 1861, held in various federal forts including Fort Warren at Boston, released for 30 days, recommitted, transferred from the State to the War Department and set free after the Maryland storm subsided.

George P. Kane, the Baltimore police chief, described as "notoriously in deep sympathy with the rebels," was arrested as a measure of military precaution" on June 27, 1861. Four days later other members of the Baltimore board of police commissioners were also arrested on suspicion of disloyalty and collusion with the enemy.

Even more spectacular was the arrest of members of the Maryland legislature. On September 11, 1861, Secretary of War Simon Cameron wrote General Nathaniel P. Banks:

"The passage of any act of secession by the Legislature of Maryland must be prevented. If necessary all or any part of the members must be arrested. Exercise your own judgment as to the time and manner but do the work effectively."

13,500 Arrested

General Banks had nine legislators arrested at Frederick on September 17, 1861, and the chief clerk of the State Senate.

It has been estimated that during the Civil War period, some 13,500 persons were arrested without benefit of habeas corpus proceedings and 400 newspapers were suspended.

One of the important test cases of this suspension of the writ of habeas corpus involved a Marylander, John Merryman, who was arrested by military authority on May 25, 1861, near Cockeysville north of Baltimore. Another odd note is that he was confined at Fort McHenry, where Francis Scott Key wrote the National Anthem in an earlier war.

These acts against prominent Marylanders may partially explain why this state, despite remaining loyal to the Union through the Civil War, was slow to recognize Lincoln as a national idol. It was not until 1947 that the General Assembly got around to declaring Lincoln's birthday a legal holiday. Today's is the 13th such observance since the first in 1948.

Ironic Note On President Lincoln

points out that the nation's capital city would have been surrounded by the enemy had control of Maryland been seized by the secessionists as an "inside job."

"There was, of course, genuine Southern sympathy in the state and especially in Baltimore. The mayor and chief of police of that city were pro-Confederate and anti-Lincoln. The failure to prevent the murderous and disorderly mob attack upon federal troops as they passed through the city in April of 1861 showed both an inadequacy and a lack of diligence on the part of the city authorities," Randall writes in his book.

Mayor Arrested

Mayor George William Brown of Baltimore was one of a number of prominent Marylanders arrested upon the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus. He was arrested in mid-September 1861, held in various federal forts including Fort Warren at Boston, released for 30 days, recommitted, transferred from the State to the War Department and set free after the Maryland storm subsided.

George P. Kane, the Baltimore police chief, described as "notoriously in deep sympathy with the rebels," was arrested as a measure of military precaution" on June 27, 1861. Four days later other members of the Baltimore board of police commissioners were also arrested on suspicion of disloyalty and collusion with the enemy.

Even more spectacular was the arrest of members of the Maryland legislature. On September 11, 1861, Secretary of War Simon Cameron wrote General Nathaniel P. Banks:

"The passage of any act of secession by the Legislature of Maryland must be prevented. If necessary all or any part of the members must be arrested. Exercise your own judgment as to the time and manner but do the work effectively."

13,500 Arrested

General Banks had nine legislators arrested at Frederick on September 17, 1861, and the chief clerk of the State Senate.

It has been estimated that during the Civil War period, some 13,500 persons were arrested without benefit of habeas corpus proceedings and 400 newspapers were suspended.

One of the important test cases of this suspension of the writ of habeas corpus involved a Marylander, John Merryman, who was arrested by military authority on May 25, 1861, near Cockeysville north of Baltimore. Another odd note is that he was confined at Fort McHenry, where Francis Scott Key wrote the National Anthem in an earlier war.

These acts against prominent Marylanders may partially explain why this state, despite remaining loyal to the Union through the Civil War, was slow to recognize Lincoln as a national idol. It was not until 1947 that the General Assembly got around to declaring Lincoln's birthday a legal holiday. Today's is the 13th such observance since the first in 1948.

Kopp Is Named To CS Board

On motion of Commissioner John J. Rowan, the Allegany County Commissioners today appointed Charles L. Kopp, retired superintendent of county schools, as a member of the County Civil Service Board.

Kopp replaces William L. Wilson, local attorney, who resigned to accept an appointment as a member of the Allegany County Board of Education. Kopp is also a member of the committee which made a survey of the three county institutions.

It's A Big Country

I remember how Walter Lippmann once returned from a swing around the country with the primary observation that it was a very big country. Well, it's a cliche but one we're inclined to forget. After a couple of weeks of lecturing through the Southeast, I am struck again not only at how big the country is but at how rich and how increasingly mature.

I can never get over the amount of live theater that seems to be going in every city of any size at all, most of which has sprung up since the war. I'm flabbergasted that a city the size of Fresno, California (91,000 pop.) has its own symphony which happened to be playing the same night I was speaking. (We both drew big crowds. I don't know who stayed home to look at TV.)

I'm impressed by the scope of the winter season of the Sacramento Civic Theater, six plays ranging from "Naughty-Naught" to "Diary of Anne Frank," by its children's theater and the fact that in the summer it goes under canvas for nine or ten musicals. I just wish that every theater in America would stop concentrating on doing "Bus Stop" and try to arouse some interest in doing works by native local writers. There must be some. Young actors and directors, to say nothing of scene designers and electricians, are all encouraged to practice their arts but there is almost no encouragement of young writers. I think all these theaters should be holding an annual contest for new plays by young playwrights. I bet young playwrights would start coming out of the sidewalks. But someone has to give them a little push and a target to aim at. It's depressing to see all that energy devoted to warming over old Broadway hits that are not really worth all that commemoration.

Still the interest in Broadway is sharp and clear and remarkably well informed. In Sacramento, for instance, they are talking of getting together jet flights to New York (from San Francisco) for theater hungry Sacramentans who would pony up $325 for two matinees and five evening performances, the price including the jet seats, theater seats, and I guess meals and hotels, too. I'm astonished at the number of newspapers across the country that print first night notices of the plays — Brooks Atkinson's, Walter Kerr's, or The Associated Press or somebody's. I didn't think people cared.

If you think this means a sharp drop in interest in television, then you're right. At least I think you're right. Whether you're in a cab or a country club, you still hear that old opener: "I never turn it on any more" or, increasingly, "Since the set's been busted, the children don't even seem to miss it."

Actually, I don't believe this. The "I-Never-Turn-It-On-Any-More" gambit is a form of snobbery or at very least a kind of protective coloration to indicate that television is not a fit subject of controversy. The only way you can get any sort of conversational rise is on the subject of children. Is violence good for them or is it just an escape valve for their aggressive instincts? That sort of talk.

The quiz scandal has died 'way down as a proper subject of conversation, beyond an occasional "What ever became of Charles Van Doren?" There's much livelier interest on what happened to the "Firestone Hour," a great favorite in Mid and Southwestern circles. There is still a tremendous interest in the proposition of a sort of American BBC, a mixture of educational TV and upper level television fare.

For one thing, I get the idea people feel they could look at such a thing without losing caste. For another that it would be, in some way, useful viewing — that is, they'd learn Spanish on it or art or something reasonably worthwhile. People have long since given up hoping for anything except entertainment on TV and I think that television is idiotic to allow itself to get a reputation for total frivolity that way. Actually television isn't all that frivolous but if people think that's all they can expect from it, they'll go elsewhere for more serious things.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♥

South elected to open the bidding with one no trump. He feared that an original call of one spade might lead to complications if partner's response were either one no trump or two clubs, for South would have no convenient rebid available.

Holding four spades and four hearts, North probed for a major suit fit by responding with two clubs to his partner's one no trump bid. When the spade fit was revealed, North proceeded directly to game inasmuch as his hand was worth 10 points in support of spades.

West opened the queen of hearts which East overtook with the king and continued the suit. West dropped the jack under the ace but, before following to the third round of hearts, he paused to reflect. Declarer has shown up with nothing in hearts and is known to have the king and a number of small spades. He is marked accordingly with a minimum of 13 points in diamonds and clubs, so that prospects for scoring a trick in one of those suits appeared nil.

Apparently, the setting trick may be taken only via an overruff of the fourth round of hearts. However, West feared that declarer might ruff in with the king of spades and proceed to pick up the trumps by repeated fineses thru West, so he decided to engage in a bit of psychology.

Instead of taking a discard on the third round of hearts, West ruffed in with the three of spades and returned the ten of clubs, as though he were trying to find his partner with the king of that suit. South won the trick in his hand and decided that if either defender held all three remaining trumps it must be East. So he led a spade to the ace and, with this play, West's queen was established for the setting trick.

Keeping Up With Hollywood
by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Who's losing faith in plans for big pictures? Not Buddy Adler, head of 20th Century-Fox, who has just paid close to $200,000 for the screen rights to "The Visit," the Lunt and Fontanne play which has won two important awards for drama since its opening in 1958.

When I talked with Buddy he was reluctant to say which star he has in mind for Lynn Fontanne's part—but he admits he likes Ingrid Bergman. Don't think Ingrid won't listen. It was Buddy who brought Ingrid back before American audiences in "Anastasia" which won an Academy Award for her. And it was her good friend Mr. Adler who prevailed upon Ingrid to personally accept her Oscar.

"The Vist" by Swiss playwright Frederich Duerrematt, is a cynical and bitter story of revenge—the return of a powerful woman to the small town where she was jilted as girl. She sets out to ruin her lover—and does.

Anna Kashfi tells me I was completely wrong in saying she is half Indian and half English. "I haven't a drop of English blood in me," she said. "I am 100 per cent Indian and very proud of it." Then she went on to say she doesn't want to be mixed up in Marlon Brando's affairs.

"Tell me some news about yourself then," I said to the former Mrs. Brando.

"Well," she said, "I am leaving for Italy and Spain to make two pictures. One is 'San Saido Killing' and the other is 'The Survivors.' I am making them for Mario Zampi and I am looking forward to resuming my career."

Stopped by Natalie Wood and Bob Wagner's new home for a spot of tea as we British say. Natalie was in the garden, knee-

Kopp Is Named To CS Board

On motion of Commissioner John J. Rowan, the Allegany County Commissioners today appointed Charles L. Kopp, retired superintendent of county schools, as a member of the County Civil Service Board.

Kopp replaces William L. Wilson, local attorney, who resigned to accept an appointment as a member of the Allegany County Board of Education. Kopp is also a member of the committee which made a survey of the three county institutions.

It's A Big Country

I remember how Walter Lippmann once returned from a swing around the country with the primary observation that it was a very big country. Well, it's a cliche but one we're inclined to forget. After a couple of weeks of lecturing through the Southeast, I am struck again not only at how big the country is but at how rich and how increasingly mature.

I can never get over the amount of live theater that seems to be going in every city of any size at all, most of which has sprung up since the war. I'm flabbergasted that a city the size of Fresno, California (91,000 pop.), has its own symphony which happened to be playing the same night I was speaking. (We both drew big crowds. I don't know who stayed home to look at TV.)

I'm impressed by the scope of the winter season of the Sacramento Civic Theater, six plays ranging from "Naughty-Naught" to "Diary of Anne Frank," by its children's theater and the fact that in the summer it goes under canvas for nine or ten musicals. I just wish that every theater in America would stop concentrating on doing "Bus Stop" and try to arouse some interest in doing works by native local writers. There must be some. Young actors and directors, to say nothing of scene designers and electricians, are all encouraged to practice their arts but there is almost no encouragement of young writers. I think all these theaters should be holding an annual contest for new plays by young playwrights. I bet young playwrights would start coming out of the sidewalks. But someone has to give them a little push and a target to aim at. It's depressing to see all that energy devoted to warming over old Broadway hits that are not really worth all that commemoration.

Still the interest in Broadway is sharp and clear and remarkably well informed. In Sacramento, for instance, they are talking of getting together jet flights to New York (from San Francisco) for theater hungry Sacramentans who would pony up $325 for two matinees and five evening performances, the price including the jet seats, theater seats, and I guess meals and hotels, too. I'm astonished at the number of newspapers across the country that print first night notices of the plays — Brooks Atkinson's, Walter Kerr's, or The Associated Press or somebody's. I didn't think people cared.

If you think this means a sharp drop in interest in television, then you're right. At least I think you're right. Whether you're in a cab or a country club, you still hear that old opener: "I never turn it on any more" or, increasingly, "Since the set's been busted, the children don't even seem to miss it."

Actually, I don't believe this. The "I-Never-Turn-It-On-Any-More" gambit is a form of snobbery or at very least a kind of protective coloration to indicate that television is not a fit subject of controversy. The only way you can get any sort of conversational rise is on the subject of children. Is violence good for them or is it just an escape valve for their aggressive instincts? That sort of talk.

The quiz scandal has died 'way down as a proper subject of conversation, beyond an occasional "What ever became of Charles Van Doren?" There's much livelier interest on what happened to the "Firestone Hour," a great favorite in Mid and Southwestern circles. There is still a tremendous interest in the proposition of a sort of American BBC, a mixture of educational TV and upper level television fare.

For one thing, I get the idea people feel they could look at such a thing without losing caste. For another that it would be, in some way, useful viewing — that is, they'd learn Spanish on it or art or something reasonably worthwhile. People have long since given up hoping for anything except entertainment on TV and I think that television is idiotic to allow itself to get a reputation for total frivolity that way. Actually television isn't all that frivolous but if people think that's all they can expect from it, they'll go elsewhere for more serious things.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♥

A clever bit of artifice by West induced the declarer to take the wrong view in the trump suit and lose a vulnerable game contract today.

South elected to open the bidding with one no trump. He feared that an original call of one spade might lead to complications if partner's response were either one no trump or two clubs, for South would have no convenient rebid available.

Holding four spades and four hearts, North probed for a major suit fit by responding with two clubs to his partner's one no trump bid. When the spade fit was revealed, North proceeded directly to game inasmuch as his hand was worth 10 points in support of spades.

West opened the queen of hearts which East overtook with the king and continued the suit. West dropped the jack under the ace but, before following to the third round of hearts, he paused to reflect. Declarer has shown up with nothing in hearts and is known to have the king and a number of small spades. He is marked accordingly with a minimum of 13 points in diamonds and clubs, so that prospects for scoring a trick in one of those suits appeared nil.

Apparently, the setting trick may be taken only via an overruff of the fourth round of hearts. However, West feared that declarer might ruff in with the king of spades and proceed to pick up the trumps by repeated fineses thru West, so he decided to engage in a bit of psychology.

Instead of taking a discard on the third round of hearts, West ruffed in with the three of spades and returned the ten of clubs, as though he were trying to find his partner with the king of that suit. South won the trick in his hand and decided that if either defender held all three remaining trumps it must be East. So he led a spade to the ace and, with this play, West's queen was established for the setting trick.

Plans To Control

TORONTO (UPI)—Ventures Ltd. announced plans to buy a controlling 625,000 share stock interest in United Keno Hill Mines Ltd. from Conwest Exploration Co. Ltd. at $6 a share. United Keno is an Alaskan producer of silver, lead, zinc and cadmium.

Steel Output Jumps

LONDON (UPI) — British steel production was running at a record rate last month, the government announced. The 471,000 tons was the highest for any January and one-third higher than the same month last year.

Keeping Up With Hollywood
by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Who's losing faith in plans for big pictures? Not Buddy Adler, head of 20th Century-Fox, who has just paid close to $200,000 for the screen rights to "The Visit," the Lunt and Fontanne play which has won two important awards for drama since its opening in 1958.

When I talked with Buddy he was reluctant to say which star he has in mind for Lynn Fontanne's part—but he admits he likes Ingrid Bergman. Don't think Ingrid won't listen. It was Buddy who brought Ingrid back before American audiences in "Anastasia" which won an Academy Award for her. And it was her good friend Mr. Adler who prevailed upon Ingrid to personally accept her Oscar.

"The Vist" by Swiss playwright Frederich Duerrematt, is a cynical and bitter story of revenge—the return of a powerful woman to the small town where she was jilted as girl. She sets out to ruin her lover—and does.

Anna Kashfi tells me I was completely wrong in saying she is half Indian and half English. "I haven't a drop of English blood in me," she said. "I am 100 per cent Indian and very proud of it." Then she went on to say she doesn't want to be mixed up in Marlon Brando's affairs.

"Tell me some news about yourself then," I said to the former Mrs. Brando.

"Well," she said, "I am leaving for Italy and Spain to make two pictures. One is 'San Saido Killing' and the other is 'The Survivors.' I am making them for Mario Zampi and I am looking forward to resuming my career."

Hope Anna will be allowed to take her baby, Christian Devi, with her, because she is a good mother and has given her child love and excellent care.

Stopped by Natalie Wood and Bob Wagner's new home for a spot of tea as we British say. Natalie was in the garden, knee-

In Memoriam

SEGGIE—In loving memory of our dear father, Charles I. Seggie, who passed away 10 years ago today, February 12, 1950.
Time may pass and bring its changes,
Fresh with every coming year;
But his memory will be cherished,
In the hearts that hold him dear.
LOVING CHILDREN.

Card Of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to all neighbors, friends and relatives who were so kind during my bereavement, the death of my beloved husband, Edward R. Miller. I also want to thank those who sent flowers, those who loaned cars for the funeral, the pallbearers and any one who helped in any way.
MRS. EDWARD R. MILLER.

Natalie's agent had had an offer from Ray Stark to replace the absent France Nuyen. "I couldn't do it," Natalie said, "because Warner's have something for me."

"I think Natalie would have been very good as Suzie Wong," said Bob. "All she would have had to do would be to make her eyes up to look Chinese."

"I loved the book," said Natalie, "and would have liked very much to have done the picture if I hadn't had other commitments."

You may see an investigation of the 60-minute documentary feature, "Justice and Caryl Chessman" which Quentin Reynolds is narrating. The movie was made right in prison with the inmates he has lived with for 11½ years playing themselves and Chessman, of course, the hero.

Chessman, who is slated to die in San Quentin gas chamber Feb. 19 unless he gets another reprieve, was eager to have it shown, possibly to win sympathy. It is not for me to say whether this is right or wrong, but I certainly don't think Chessman should be glorified above other criminals on death row.

Marie McDonald, who just closed at the Chi Chi Club in Palm Springs, sid on her closing night Yvonne De Carlo and her husband, Robert Morgan, and the Jack Kellys sat on the steps because the place was so crowded.

"I certainly appreciated it," said Marie, "and it was something when Yvonne, in a white mink cape, was introduced from the steps. Keefe Brasselle refused to take a step seat and walked out in a huff when the management couldn't find a place."

Minding my manners and thanking Olivia de Havilland's husband, Pierre Galante, for the fascinating book, "Histoire d'Aujourd' Hui," which he sent me, brought a return letter from him with some news:

"Soon we shall see you. We plan to be in California in March and our little Gisele, who is now three-and-one-half, will be with us. We have just spent two weeks in Switzerland and Olivia has become a great skier! She loves it madly and was on the slopes four or five hours daily. I must say Gisele did the same thing—but I took it easy." How nice it will be to have Olivia and Pierre back again and with their little daughter whom I sww when she was just a few weeks old.

Natalie's agent had had an offer from Ray Stark to replace the absent France Nuyen. "I couldn't do it," Natalie said, "because Warner's have something for me."

"I think Natalie would have been very good as Suzie Wong," said Bob. "All she would have had to do would be to make her eyes up to look Chinese."

"I loved the book," said Natalie, "and would have liked very much to have done the picture if I hadn't had other commitments."

You may see an investigation of the 60-minute documentary feature, "Justice and Cary! Chessman" which Quentin Reynolds is narrating. The movie was made right in prison with the inmates he has lived with for 11½ years playing themselves and Chessman, of course, the hero.

Chessman, who is slated to die in San Quentin gas chamber Feb. 19 unless he gets another reprieve, was eager to have it shown, possibly to win sympathy. It is not for me to say whether this is right or wrong, but I certainly don't think Chessman should be glorified above other criminals on death row.

Marie McDonald, who just closed at the Chi Chi Club in Palm Springs, sid on her closing night Yvonne De Carlo and her husband, Robert Morgan, and the Jack Kellys sat on the steps because the place was so crowded.

"I certainly appreciated it," said Marie, "and it was something when Yvonne, in a white mink cape, was introduced from the steps. Keefe Brasselle refused to take a step seat and walked out in a huff when the management couldn't find a place."

Minding my manners and thanking Olivia de Havilland's husband, Pierre Galante, for the fascinating book, "Histoire d'Aujourd' Hui," which he sent me, brought a return letter from him with some news:

"Soon we shall see you. We plan to be in California in March and our little Gisele, who is now three-and-one-half, will be with us. We have just spent two weeks in Switzerland and Olivia has become a great skier! She loves it madly and was on the slopes four or five hours daily. I must say Gisele did the same thing—but I took it easy." How nice it will be to have Olivia and Pierre back again and with their little daughter whom I sww when she was just a few weeks old.

Market Closes Lower After Late Sinking Spell

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks moved along a narrow path Thursday until a last-minute sell-off brought declines running to more than 4 points in the main list.

Most of the major industrial categories including chemical, steel and electronic issues were caught in the downdraft.

Brokers said there still was very little in the news to force traders to quit the sidelines. They noted that as long as light trading continues to accompany price improvements, the basic position of the market must remain uncertain.

Chemicals were chiefly responsible for the decline in the industrial average with Union Carbide down more than 3, Du Pont off more than 2 and Allied Chemical down more than a point.

Nafi Corp., which led the market in turnover, was suspended because of a rush of sell orders in the early afternoon. It was up a point in the last sale before the suspension. Trading resumed later and it closed the day up $\frac{3}{4}$.

Steels, depressed by persistent reports that the inventories of steel-using industries were being filled at a faster - than - expected pace, showed losses of around 2 or more in Lukens, National Steel, Jones & Laughlin and Youngstown. U.S. Steel dropped a large fraction.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures rallied Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade, with most wheat and rye contracts closing strong and other grains firm.

At the final bell, wheat was up ¾ to 1⅛; corn up ⅛ to ¾; oats unchanged to up ¼; rye off ¼ to up 1⅛; and soybeans up ⅜ to ⅝.

Wheat futures advanced in late trading, with much of the action consisting of spreading between nearby and deferred contracts. Other factors in the rally included early commercial buying and reports that Poland would soon get authorization to buy 18,500,000 bushels of hard wheat and 3,750,000 bushels of red wheat.

Corn closed firm as demand for March came from cash houses. The weather cut into shipping, and receipts were light. There was some early hedge selling of March, and eastern houses sold May and July.

Export subsidies were granted on 200,000 bushels of corn and 225,000 bushels of oats.

Oats held mostly steady. Demand was scattered, and commission and cash houses sold March and May.

Soybeans recovered from early heavy tones and finished firm. The dip nearly carried nearby contracts to the seasonal low points. Meals also rallied. Early selling was scattered, and buying came from processors and commercial interests.

Outside market were mixed.

Market Closes Lower After Late Sinking Spell

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks moved along a narrow path Thursday until a last-minute sell-off brought declines running to more than 4 points in the main list.

Most of the major industrial categories including chemical, steel and electronic issues were caught in the downdraft.

Brokers said there still was very little in the news to force traders to quit the sidelines. They noted that as long as light trading continues to accompany price improvements, the basic position of the market must remain uncertain.

Market technicians see no steady uptrend in the market until a selling climax develops or business activity increases sharply.

Chemicals were chiefly responsible for the decline in the industrial average with Union Carbide down more than 3, Du Pont off more than 2 and Allied Chemical down more than a point.

Nafi Corp., which led the market in turnover, was suspended because of a rush of sell orders in the early afternoon. It was up a point in the last sale before the suspension. Trading resumed later and it closed the day up ¾.

Steels, depressed by persistent reports that the inventories of steel-using industries were being filled at a faster-than-expected pace, showed losses of around 2 or more in Lukens, National Steel, Jones & Laughlin and Youngstown. U.S. Steel dropped a large fraction.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures rallied Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade, with most wheat and rye contracts closing strong and other grains firm.

At the final bell, wheat was up ¾ to 1⅛; corn up ⅛ to ¾; oats unchaged to up ¾; rye off ¼ to up 1⅛; and soybeans up ⅝ to ⅞.

Wheat futures advanced in late trading, with much of the action consisting of spreading between nearby and deferred contracts. Other factors in the rally included early commercial buying and reports that Poland would soon get authorization to buy 18,500,000 bushels of hard wheat and 3,750,000 bushels of red wheat.

Corn closed firm as demand for March came from cash houses. The weather cut into shipping, and receipts were light. There was some early hedge selling of March, and eastern houses sold May and July.

Export subsidies were granted on 300,000 bushels of corn and 225,000 bushels of oats.

Oats held mostly steady. Demand was scattered, and commission and cash houses sold March and May.

Rye futures followed the action of wheat and attracted local short covering and top loss buying.

Soybeans recovered from early heavy tones and finished firm. The dip nearly carried nearby contracts to the seasonal low points. Meals also rallied. Early selling was scattered, and buying came from processors and commercial interests.

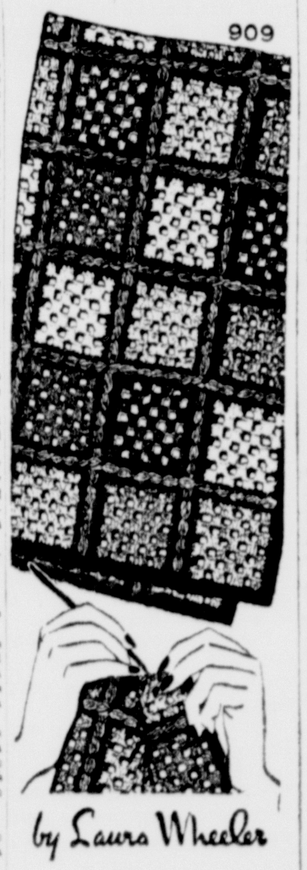

Export circles reported Israel and Formosa bought wheat.

Outside market were mixed.

Highway Bill Wheels Toward House Passage

Tawes Stands Firm On Teachers' Pay

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The State Roads Commission's plan to spend the bulk of its money in the next five years on completion of major highways wheeled effortlessly toward passage by the Maryland House of Delegates Thursday.

The bill that will leave only a relatively small amount of 40 million dollars for secondary roads was approved on second reading without discussion on voice voting. It could be passed by the House Friday or Monday.

Gov. Tawes, who has called the bill the most important new piece of legislation in this 30-day session, noted the House action with pleasure.

He was a spectator Wednesday night at a hearing where the roads commission explained its reasoning for wanting to wipe the written 12-year program begun in 1953 off the books.

Costs Skyrocket

Costs of road building have skyrocketed so much since the program was originated that it would take 21 more years and 1½ billion dollars to complete as outlined, John B. Funk, commission chairman said.

In order to get the most good out of the remaining money without raising taxes, the commission proposes to spend 330 million dollars for 400 miles of primary roads and 40 million on secondary through 1965.

The commission admitted it means sacrificing many secondary roads and has agreed to alllow local governing bodies and legislators designate which should be built with the money available.

Brief Legislators

The legislators, some of whom had complained Wednesday night about not having been consulted beforehand, began trooping Thursday to the governor's reception room where the commission staff waited to talk to them about their secondary roads.

In a further assurance to the legislators, the commission wrote into the bill itself a requirement that it must consult with local officials before determining policy in the area.

In its afternoon session the Senate gave tentative approval to a bill which would let judges commit to state hospitals dope addicts charged with a criminal offense other than actually selling narcotics.

Earlier in the day the Ways and Means Committee deferred action on the administration measure to increase the salaries of veteran teachers by $300 a year at an annual cost of about $4,300,000.

Chairman A. Gordon Boone said he wanted to give committee members additional time to submit possible amendments.

To Stand Firm

However, Gov. Tawes who is vigorously pushing the bill in preference to a teachers association plan costing nearly four times as much, told an afternoon press conference he would resist any material change in the measure.

"The leaders in the Legislature think it would be unwise to approve any major amendments to the James plan," said the governor, referring to Sen. William S. James (D-Harford), head of a committee which authored the administration teacher bill.

Sponsored by Sen. Hughes (D-Caroline), it would raise the state-supported minimum salaries for teachers to $3,800-$5,600. This compares with the present $3,200-$5,000 now supported by the state and the $4,000-$6,000 provided for in the bill fostered by the Maryland State Teachers Assn.

Requires Financing

The Hughes measure calls for lowering state income tax exemption from $800 to $700 per dependent, exclusive of those who are blind or over 65. This would raise an estimated $6,900,000, with about one-fifth of this kicked back to county and local governments. The rest would be added to the governor's proposed $4,300,000 to help finance the proposed new minimum salary schedule.

Further help toward financing the scales would come from a 14-cent increase in the compulsory 75 cents on local tax rates now earmarked for education.

To control competition for teachers among the counties, Hughes' bill also would restrict the amount by which a county may exceed the minimum salary schedule.

Almost Surrounded By New Auto Tags

These two clerks in the office of Allegany County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff appear virtually surrounded by some eight tons of new Maryland automobile license tags which were delivered to the Court House basement yesterday. The girls are Miss Janet Wilhelm of Frostburg and Miss Barbara Hall of Cresaptown. The tags, with black letters and numbers and light green backgrounds, will be available at the Court House as soon as the applications are mailed out from Baltimore.

Board Requests State To Shift Health Officer

16 Employes Term Action 'Ill Advised'

The State Department of Health will be asked to transfer Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer.

The decision to ask for Dr. van Strien's transfer was taken yesterday at a meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Commissioner William A. Wilson yesterday seconded a motion by Commissioner John T. Mason for the transfer. Commissioner John J. Rowan also backed the proposal.

Meanwhile, the board received a petition from 16 employes of the County Health Department stating the transfer would be "ill-advised."

Yesterday's action culminated a dispute which first broke out last year when at a meeting of the commissioners with Dr. van Strien and Dr. Prather the problems in connection with the department were discussed at length.

Following that meeting, the board dropped the matter, but recently a number of resignations, and some complaints from outside the department touched off yesterday's action, the commissioners said.

A copy of the board's request will be sent to Dr. Prather.

Man Dies Fighting Fire

A 61-year-old volunteer fireman from Kitzmiller was fatally stricken yesterday morning while fighting a fire which badly damaged a residence in Elk Garden, W. Va.

The victim was Andrew Carl Wilson, who was stricken with a heart attack while helping to extniguish a blaze at the home of William Murphy. He was second chief of the Kitzmiller Fire Company.

Firemen from that section received a call about 10:30 a. m. to the Murphy home and managed to confine the fire to the top part of the eight-room frame building.

Mrs. Murphy and two small children were home at the time and managed to get out of the house without being injured. Cause of the fire is still unknown, firemen said.

Mr. Wilson was a native of Elk Garden, and was a son of Mrs. Frances (Fortney) Wilson, Kitzmiller, and the late Robert J. Wilson.

He was a retired coal miner and was a member of Local 2204, United Mine Workers of America.

Also surviving besides his mother, are his widow, Hazel (Sharpless) Wilson; a daughter, Mrs. Gloria Kesner, of near Elk Garden, and a sister, Mrs. Margaet Wilson, Kitzmiller.

Services will be conducted Sunday at 2 p. m. at Mt. Bethel Methodist Church. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

The body is at the Pritts Funeral Home, Kitzmiller, and will be taken to the residence today at 2 p. m. The body will be taken to the church at 1 p. m. Sunday.

Police Defer Questioning Mrs. Allen

Await Recovery Of Blast Victim

Police and arson squad officials have deferred questioning a former Hardy County woman who was injured when a gas container exploded at her home in Parkville near Baltimore Wednesday.

Authorities said they put off questioning pending the recovery of Mrs. Pearl G. Allen, a native of Mathias, W. Va., who is reported in fair condition at Union Memorial Hospital. She was admitted shortly after the blast, suffering from shock and second and third degree burns.

According to an Associated Press dispatch, Mrs. Allen told police a propane gas container exploded when she lighted a cigaret in her bedroom Wednesday. The blast blew out two walls of the 1½-story dwelling.

Police told The AP that a note found on a kitchen table, addressed "To whom it may concern," said in the event of death Mrs. Allen wanted to be buried in a cemetery lot with her dog. She has been a widow for two years.

Mrs. Allen is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Mongold of Mathias. Her mother was a former resident of Piedmont, W. Va.

Youth Guilty In Use Of Deputy's Car

An 18-year-old South Cumberland youth was found guilty of unauthorized use of an automobile at a hearing yesterday before Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt in Trial Magistrates Court.

The youth was picked up by Lt. James E. Van and Detective Thomas J. See of the Cumberland Police Department and admitted in a signed statement that he stole the private automobile of an Allegany County deputy sheriff on Tuesday.

The vehicle, owned by Deputy Sheriff William E. "Scotty" Orr, was involved in a hit-and-run accident about 3:25 a.m. Tuesday when it struck a truck owned by William Goff, 901 Maryland Avenue.

Orr reported the car stolen after he left the vehicle on East First Street Monday for mechanical repairs. While the automobile was parked it was taken, he said. City police were notified Tuesday morning that a car had damaged the truck on Glenwood Street.

Officer Joseph Nelson investigated and later located Orr's damaged car on Oak Street. The front headlight had been smashed and a tire and wheel ruined. Approximately $200 damage was done to the vehicles.

The youth promised restitution for the damage, police said.

Man To Be Held For Grand Jury

A 21-year-old local man is being held for action of the April term of the grand jury in connection with a morals charge, the state's attorney's office said yesterday.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya identified the man as Gerald R. Swanger, of Roberts Street, who is charged with carnal knowledge of a 14-year-old girl.

Mr. Lilya said Gerald Swanger is a cousin of Robert L. Swanger, RD 4, who this week was released under $500 bond for grand jury action on a charge involving the same girl.

Jury Decides Man Guilty Of Manslaughter

Recommends Jail Term For Anderson

A jury found Hugh R. Anderson Jr., 28, of Purgitsville, W. Va., guilty of involuntary manslaughter by motor vehicle yesterday after deliberating for about an hour in Mineral County Circuit Court at Keyser, W. Va.

The jury returned the verdict shortly after noon with the recommendation that Anderson be sentenced to one year in the Mineral County Jail. Judge Ernest A. See, however, is not expected to pass sentence until early next week.

Anderson went on trial Tuesday in the death of Loren Wright Shoemaker, 25, also of Purgitsville, who was killed instantly when the car in which he was a passenger went out of control and rammed a tree about six miles south of Burlington.

Orville E. Shoemaker, 29, of Purgitsville, testified he was riding with the two men when the crash occurred. He identified Anderson as the operator of the vehicle.

Shoemaker told the court Wednesday that the three men had been drinking and that he surrendered the wheel to Anderson shortly before the accident.

Closing arguments were heard yesterday as the trial went into its third day, and the jury received instructions from the bench and retired about 11:15 a. m.

Martin Weakley of Ridgeley was foreman of the jury.

In another jury case yesterday an agreement in a land condemnation suit against a frozen food locker company was reached and the jury was instructed to return an agreed verdict of $5,500.

The suit was brought by the West Virginia State Road Commission against the company, Town and Country Frozen Foods, Inc., which is located at the intersection of Lincoln and Mineral Streets in Keyser. The property was acquired for right of way purposes in the improvements of U. S. Route 220.

Another jury was selected for a civil trial which will begin Monday, court officials said.

Delmore G. Bowman and Michael R. Bowman have filed the suit against Marvin Likens. Vernon Rankin is attorney for the Bowmans and H. R. Athey is representing Likens.

Revival To Start

Revival services will be held at Bethel Evangelical United Brethren Church, Seymour and Third streets, for two weeks beginning Sunday. Rev. C. F. Hickle will speak.

B&O Train Is Derailed At Swanton

Work Crews Clear Westbound Track

Ten cars of an 84-car Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight train were derailed yesterday morning near Swanton on the 17-mile grade, and railway officials said last night that only one of the three tracks had been cleared for traffic.

B&O officials said the train was en route to Cumberland from Grafton when the cars jumped the tracks, causing considerable damage to both the freight cars and the tracks. They did not, however, give any reason for the derailment.

The train was descending the steep grade when the accident occurred, blocking all three tracks at 81st Bridge about 11:35 a.m. After the overturned cars were uncoupled the engine continued to Cumberland with 68 cars, officials said.

With all three tracks blocked, the railroad sent crews from Grafton and Keyser, W. Va., to clear the wreck. One westbound track was cleared before 4 p.m. yesterday, but the two others will not be open before this morning, they stated.

No trains are being rerouted and only a slight delay is expected before the tracks are cleared. Officials said No. 12, a passenger train from St. Louis, was about 20 minutes late arriving in Cumberland last night. Westbound traffic is expected to move on time, they added.

The railroad said no one was injured.

Three Hurt In W.Va. Wreck

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP)—The locomotive and nine cars of a Baltimore & Ohio freight train derailed 25 miles north of here early Thursday injuring three of the five-man crew and causing damage that may exceed $100,000.

The wreck occurred as the 61-car train, northbound from Huntington to Parkersburg, hit a section of roadbed washed out by day-long rains near Letart, 15 miles south of Ravenswood.

Army Reserve Center Bids Due March 1

Corps Of Engineers To Supervise Job

Bids for the construction of a new U.S. Army Reserve training center for Cumberland will be opened March 1 in Washington, it was learned yesterday.

The bids will be opened at 1 p.m. by the Corps of Engineers, which will supervise construction of the new facility.

The new training center will be located on a 6.11 acre site on Route 220 adjoining the Amcelle plant and purchased last year from Celanese Corporation of America.

Construction cost of the one-story brick and concrete block training center has been estimated at about $250,000. It is designed to provide training facilities for about 200 men who belong to area Army Reserve units.

The new structure will be 156 by 46 feet, with a 70 by 50 foot assembly wing and a 47 by 50 foot maintenance shop.

The area will be improved with blacktopped roads and parking aeas, concrete walks, a steel flagpole, security fencing, drainage and sanitary sewer facilities and grading and seeding.

Ironic Note About President Lincoln Was Suspension Of Habeas Corpus

By ALBERT D. DARBY Jr.
News Staff Writer

One of the ironic notes about the career of Abraham Lincoln, whose 151st birthday is being observed today, is that in the course of the waging of the American Civil War, which resulted in freedom for the slaves and national unity, this great President of the United States suspended one of the basic rights of the U.S. Constitution, the writ of habeas corpus.

Habeas corpus is an equity writ derived from the English common law which provides the right of an arrested person to demand his freedom unless the arresting party can demonstrate sufficient evidence to warrant holding him for trial. This right is guaranteed against infringement in Article I, Section 9, of the Constitution.

Although Article I, Section 9, of the Federal Constitution forbids Congress to suspend the writ of habeas corpus, except when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it, President Lincoln on July 2, 1861, authorized General Winfield Scott to suspend the writ without Congressional authorization. It was not until March 3, 1863, that Congress granted this power to the President for the period of the war.

Only Suspension

Historians point out that Lincoln was the only American President to suspend the writ of habeas corpus. For instance, despite the fact that many liberties were curtailed during both World Wars, neither Woodrow Wilson nor Franklin D. Roosevelt suspended the writ of habeas corpus. Of course, neither of those wars involved a rebellion on American soil.

This suspension of the writ of habeas corpus is significant to Marylanders because it was aimed more at residents of this state than anywhere else in the nation.

The first act of Lincoln for such suspension was a communication of April 27, 1861, to General Scott which was aimed directly at Marylanders. The communication read as follows:

"You are engaged in repressing an insurrection against the laws of the United States. If at any point on or in the vicinity of any military line which is now or which shall be used between the City of Philadelphia and the City of Washington you find resistance which renders it necessary to suspend the writ of habeas corpus for the public safety, you personally or through the officer in command at the point where resistance occurs are authorized to suspend that writ."

This act was prompted by the mob attack upon federal troops in Baltimore on April 19, just eight days earlier.

Bridge Finance Bill Introduced In Legislature

Could Pave Way For Wiley Ford Span

A bill under study in the General Assembly could speed up repair or replacement of the Wiley Ford bridge, Del. Fred B. Driscoll said yesterday.

Mr. Driscoll, who heads the Allegany County delegation, said House Bill 40, introduced by Majority Leader Gordon Boone (D-Baltimore County) has been referred to the Ways and Means Committee for study.

Del. Driscoll said the bill would free the State Roads Commission from a legal restriction which has hamstrung interstate bridge projects.

The present law (Sections 86 through 89 of Article 89-B) has a subtitle on bridges which requires that any work on bridges between Maryland and another state must be financed on a 50-50 basis.

Could Negotiate

Although this sounds logical, Mr. Driscoll pointed out, Maryland's boundary with West Virginia lies not down the middle of the Potomac River, but on the low water mark on the West Virginia shore. As a result, the river normally lies within Maryland.

House Bill 40 would repeal this restriction but would not impose any regulations in its place, thus leaving the State Roads Commission free to negotiate with other states for work on interstate bridges.

Although officials of Maryland and West Virginia have held several discussions about the Wiley Ford bridge, West Virginia has argued that it lacks money to do such work on a 50-50 basis, but would be willing to build the West Virginia approaches.

If House Bill 40 should become law, Mr. Driscoll said, the State Roads Commission would be free to negotiate for work on the Wiley Ford bridge on whatever basis it could find agreement. Maryland would be legally able to finance, say, two-thirds of the cost, or even all of it if necessary.

Is Below Standard

Another interstate bridge in this area which has come in for considerable discussion is the Pinto bridge. But money is not the only problem to be solved there.

Mr. Driscoll pointed out that the bridge is not in the Maryland state system of highways and is below standard for inclusion in the system. This means that before the State Roads Commission could do anything about the bridge, Allegany County would have to improve it and get it into the state system.

But even in this case, said Del. Driscoll, HB 40 would help solve one of the several problems which has kept the heavily-traveled one-lane bridge without major repairs for years.

Parent Liability Law Is Proposed

Maryland would be wise to follow the lead of 23 other states and adopt legislation specifying that parents are civilly liable for damage caused by the intention acts of vandalism.

That opinion of Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason was offered in a talk to the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday in Central YMCA. He explained that under the common law, parents generally are not responsible for the intentional acts of vandalism of their children except when the parents contribute to that act.

Mr. Mason believes that specific legislation on this subject, as adopted by 23 states in recent years, would serve as a deterrent. Too many parents, he said, feel little responsibility for the acts of their children. He has discussed proposed legislation with the County Delegation in Annapolis and has hopes that the necessary measure will be introduced and passed.

Interstate Gap In Route 40 Is Cited By Labor

Say Pa. Turnpike Is Too Heavily Traveled

The fight to have the Western Maryland section of U. S. Route 40 included in the Federal Interstate Highway System was taken directly to Congress yesterday by eight labor union representatives.

The men, all members of Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, discussed the matter at length with U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall, Rep. Jim Wright of Texas, a member of the Federal Aid Highway Subcommittee of the House Public Works Committee, and Sherman S. Willse, a staff investigator for the subcommittee.

In separate talks with each of these men, the union leaders pointed out that present plans call for the westbound super highway system through Maryland to swing north at Hancock into Pennsylvania and to connect with the Pennsylvania Turnpike, where it would continue its westward course.

Section Eliminated

The effect of this would be to eliminate the portions of U. S. Route 40 in Allegany and Garrett counties from the federal highway network.

The portion of the Pennsylvania Turnpike which would be used is already too heavily traveled, and enormous expenditures would be needed to bring it up to new federal standards set for tunnel and bridge clearances and for road beds, according to the labor spokesmen.

Leading the group of union members was Josiah E. Mullenax, president of the labor council and an official of Local 1024, Carpenters Union.

Others in the group were F. Patrick Allender, business agent for Local 1024, Carpenters Union; Stanley Morgan, John G. Thomas and James McGann, Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America; Stanley Zorick and Joseph V. Burke, Local 26, United Rubber Workers Union, and Hubert Feeney, Local 180, United Glass and Ceramic Workers Union.

Provide Data

The men met first with Sen. Beall, who arranged for them to see Rep. Wright. In recent hearings, the Texas Representative has exhibited a keen interest in such matters as the one that brought the Western Maryland group to Washington.

After hearing the labor group's remarks, Rep. Wright told the group it had "some very valid points," and asked the labor men to give their information to an investigator for his highway subcommittee.

Acting as spokesman for the group, Mr. Allender said there are tunnels on the Pennsylvania Turnpike which are too low for Defense Department requirements and which could easily be sabotaged in case of a national emergency.

Visit General Assembly

The labor delegation Wednesday night attended a joint meeting of the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance committees of the General Assembly at Annapolis, at which John B. Funk, chairman of the State Roads Commission, outlined plans to speed up major work on state highways.

Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation in the House, asked Mr. Funk whether anything could be done to put the western leg of U. S. 40 in Maryland into the Interstate program. He was told that all Interstate mileage has been allocated, and that nothing could now be done except by federal action.

Del. Driscoll also asked why U. S. 40 is to be dualized all the way to Hancock, within 10 miles of the Allegany County line, but then becomes two-lane highway with passing lanes on the mountains.

Mr. Funk said the plan also involves right-of-way acquisition for eventual dualization of U. S. 40 west of Hancock, but that this won't be done before 1965 because of the high cost of building dual highways over mountains.

The local labor representatives gave each legislator at the meeting a copy of a letter to the State Roads Commission setting forth the reasons why the labor group feels Route 40 should be included in the Interstate system all the way to the Pennsylvania line.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. T. James Fahey, Hagerstown, announce the birth of a son yesterday in Washington County Hospital there. The mother is the former Miss Earline Grim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Grim, Allegany County Infirmary. The father is a son of Mrs. Regina Fahey, Maryland Avenue.

FBI Briefing Is Termed Helpful

Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming yesterday reported that the FBI conference held in Baltimore Wednesday to discuss federal motor vehicle theft laws and enforcement was very helpful.

The Police Department was represented by five of its top officials.

Tawes Stands Firm On Teachers' Pay

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The State Roads Commission's plan to spend the bulk of its money in the next five years on completion of major highways wheeled effortlessly toward passage by the Maryland House of Delegates Thursday.

The bill that will leave only a relatively small amount of 40 million dollars for secondary roads was approved on second reading without discussion on voice voting. It could be passed by the House Friday or Monday.

Gov. Tawes, who has called the bill the most important new piece of legislation in this 30-day session, noted the House action with pleasure.

He was a spectator Wednesday night at a hearing where the roads commission explained its reasoning for wanting to wipe the written 12-year program begun in 1953 off the books.

Costs Skyrocket

Costs of road building have skyrocketed so much since the program was originated that it would take 21 more years and 1½ billion dollars to complete as outlined, John B. Funk, commission chairman said.

In order to get the most good out of the remaining money without raising taxes, the commission proposes to spend 330 million dollars for 400 miles of primary roads and 40 million on secondary through 1965.

The commission admitted it means sacrificing many secondary roads and has agreed to alllow local governing bodies and legislators designate which should be built with the money available.

Brief Legislators

The legislators, some of whom had complained Wednesday night about not having been consulted beforehand, began trooping Thursday to the governor's reception room where the commission staff waited to talk to them about their secondary roads.

In a further assurance to the legislators, the commission wrote into the bill itself a requirement that it must consult with local officials before determining policy in the area.

In its afternoon session the Senate gave tentative approval to a bill which would let judges commit to state hospitals dope addicts charged with a criminal offense other than actually selling narcotics.

Earlier in the day the Ways and Means Committee deferred action on the administration measure to increase the salaries of veteran teachers by $300 a year at an annual cost of about $4,300,000.

Chairman A. Gordon Boone said he wanted to give committee members additional time to submit possible amendments.

To Stand Firm

However, Gov. Tawes who is vigorously pushing the bill in preference to a teachers association plan costing nearly four times as much, told an afternoon press conference he would resist any material change in the measure.

"The leaders in the Legislature think it would be unwise to approve any major amendments to the James plan," said the governor, referring to Sen. William S. James (D-Harford), head of a committee which authored the administration teacher bill.

This reaffirmation of his support of the James plan dimmed the prospects for a newly introduced compromise proposal on the bubbling teachers-pay issue.

Sponsored by Sen. Hughes (D-Caroline), it would raise the state-supported minimum salaries for teachers to $3,800-$5,600. This compares with the present $3,200-$5,000 now supported by the state and the $4,000-$6,000 provided for in the bill fostered by the Maryland State Teachers Assn.

Requires Financing

The Hughes measure calls for lowering state income tax exemption from $800 to $700 per dependent, exclusive of those who are blind or over 65. This would raise an estimated $6,900,000, with about one-fifth of this kicked back to county and local governments. The rest would be added to the governor's proposed $4,300,000 to help finance the proposed new minimum salary schedule.

Further help toward financing the scales would come from a 14-cent increase in the compulsory 75 cents on local tax rates now earmarked for education.

To control competition for teachers among the counties, Hughes' bill also would restrict the amount by which a county may exceed the minimum salary schedule.

Almost Surrounded By New Auto Tags

These two clerks in the office of Allegany County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff appear virtually surrounded by some eight tons of new Maryland automobile license tags which were delivered to the Court House basement yesterday. The girls are Miss Janet Wilhelm of Frostburg and Miss Barbara Hall of Cresaptown. The tags, with black letters and numbers and light green backgrounds, will be available at the Court House as soon as the applications are mailed out from Baltimore.

Board Requests State To Shift Health Officer

16 Employes Term Action 'Ill Advised'

The State Department of Health will be asked to transfer Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer.

The decision to ask for Dr. van Strien's transfer was taken yesterday at a meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Commissioner William A. Wilson yesterday seconded a motion by Commissioner John T. Mason for the transfer. Commissioner John J. Rowan also backed the proposal.

Meanwhile, the board received a petition from 16 employes of the County Health Department stating the transfer would be "ill-advised."

Yesterday's action culminated a dispute which first broke out last year when at a meeting of the commissioners with Dr. van Strien and Dr. Prather the problems in connection with the department were discussed at length.

Following that meeting, the board dropped the matter, but recently a number of resignations, and some complaints from outside the department touched off yesterday's action, the commissioners said.

A copy of the board's request will be sent to Dr. Prather.

Await Recovery Of Blast Victim

Police and arson squad officials have deferred questioning a former Hardy County woman who was injured when a gas container exploded at her home in Parkvile near Baltimore Wednesday.

Authorities said they put off questioning pending the recovery of Mrs. Pearl G. Allen, a native of Mathias, W. Va., who is reported in fair condition at Union Memorial Hospital. She was admitted shortly after the blast, suffering from shock and second and third degree burns.

According to an Associated Press dispatch, Mrs. Allen told police a propane gas container exploded when she lighted a cigaret in her bedroom Wednesday. The blast blew out two walls of the 1½-story dwelling.

Police told The AP that a note found on a kitchen table, addressed "To whom it may concern," said in the event of death Mrs. Allen wanted to be buried in a cemetery lot with her dog. She has been a widow for two years.

Mrs. Allen is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Mongold of Mathias. Her mother was a former resident of Piedmont, W. Va.

Recommends Jail Term For Anderson

A jury found Hugh R. Anderson Jr., 28, of Purgitsville, W. Va., guilty of involuntary manslaughter by motor vehicle yesterday after deliberating for about an hour in Mineral County Circuit Court at Keyser, W. Va.

The jury returned the verdict shortly after noon with the recommendation that Anderson be sentenced to one year in the Mineral County Jail. Judge Ernest A. See, however, is not expected to pass sentence until early next week.

Anderson went on trial Tuesday in the death of Loren Wright Shoemaker, 25, also of Purgitsville, who was killed instantly when the car in which he was a passenger went out of control and rammed a tree about six miles south of Burlington.

Orville E. Shoemaker, 29, of Purgitsville, testified he was riding with the two men when the crash occurred. He identified Anderson as the operator of the vehicle.

Shoemaker told the court Wednesday that the three men had been drinking and that he surrendered the wheel to Anderson shortly before the accident.

Closing arguments were heard yesterday as the trial went into its third day, and the jury received instructions from the bench and retired about 11:15 a. m.

In another jury case yesterday an agreement in a land condemnation suit against a frozen food locker company was reached and the jury was instructed to return an agreed verdict of $5,500.

The suit was brought by the West Virginia State Road Commission against the company, Town and Country Frozen Foods, Inc., which is located at the intersection of Lincoln and Mineral Streets in Keyser. The property was acquired for right of way purposes in the improvements of U. S. Route 220.

Another jury was selected for a civil trial which will begin Monday, court officials said.

Delmore G. Bowman and Michael R. Bowman have filed the suit against Marvin Likens. Vernon Rankin is attorney for the Bowmans and H. R. Athey is representing Likens.

B&O Train Is Derailed At Swanton

Work Crews Clear Westbound Track

Ten cars of an 84-car Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight train were derailed yesterday morning near Swanton on the 17-mile grade, and railway officials said last night that only one of the three tracks had been cleared for traffic.

B&O officials said the train was en route to Cumberland from Grafton when the cars jumped the tracks, causing considerable damage to both the freight cars and the tracks. They did not, however, give any reason for the derailment.

The train was descending the steep grade when the accident occurred, blocking all three tracks at 81st Bridge about 11:35 a.m. After the overturned cars were uncoupled the engine continued to Cumberland with 68 cars, officials said.

With all three tracks blocked, the railroad sent crews from Grafton and Keyser, W. Va., to clear the wreck. One westbound track was cleared before 4 p.m. yesterday, but the two others will not be open before this morning, they stated.

No trains are being rerouted and only a slight delay is expected before the tracks are cleared. Officials said No. 12, a passenger train from St. Louis, was about 20 minutes late arriving in Cumberland last night. Westbound traffic is expected to move on time, they added.

The railroad said no one was injured.

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP)—The locomotive and nine cars of a Baltimore & Ohio freight train derailed 25 miles north of here early Thursday injuring three of the five-man crew and causing damage that may exceed $100,000.

The diesel locomotive plunged 50 feet over an embankment and came to rest against trees partly submerged by the Ohio river.

Brakeman Earl Lott is in a Parkersburg hospital with a broken leg and other injuries. Engineer H. D. Bee and Fireman John Dean were released after treatment.

Bridge Finance Bill Introduced In Legislature

Could Pave Way For Wiley Ford Span

A bill under study in the General Assembly could speed up repair or replacement of the Wiley Ford bridge, Del. Fred B. Driscoll said yesterday.

Mr. Driscoll, who heads the Allegany County delegation, said House Bill 40, introduced by Majority Leader Gordon Boone (D-Baltimore County) has been referred to the Ways and Means Committee for study.

Del. Driscoll said the bill would free the State Roads Commission from a legal restriction which has hamstrung interstate bridge projects.

The present law (Sections 86 through 89 of Article 89-B) has a subtitle on bridges which requires that any work on bridges between Maryland and another state must be financed on a 50-50 basis.

Could Negotiate

Although this sounds logical, Mr. Driscoll pointed out, Maryland's boundary with West Virginia lies not down the middle of the Potomac River, but on the low water mark on the West Virginia shore. As a result, the river normally lies within Maryland.

House Bill 40 would repeal this restriction but would not impose any regulations in its place, thus leaving the State Roads Commission free to negotiate with other states for work on interstate bridges.

Although officials of Maryland and West Virginia have held several discussions about the Wiley Ford bridge, West Virginia has argued that it lacks money to do such work on a 50-50 basis, but would be willing to build the West Virginia approaches.

If House Bill 40 should become law, Mr. Driscoll said, the State Roads Commission would be free to negotiate for work on the Wiley Ford bridge on whatever basis it could find agreement. Maryland would be legally able to finance, say, two-thirds of the cost, or even all of it if necessary.

Is Below Standard

Another interstate bridge in this area which has come in for considerable discussion is the Pinto bridge. But money is not the only problem to be solved there.

Mr. Driscoll pointed out that the bridge is not in the Maryland state system of highways and is below standard for inclusion in the system. This means that before the State Roads Commission could do anything about the bridge, Allegany County would have to improve it and get it into the state system.

But even in this case, said Del. Driscoll, HB 40 would help solve one of the several problems which has kept the heavily-traveled one-lane bridge without major repairs for years.

Youth Guilty In Use Of Deputy's Car

An 18-year-old South Cumberland youth was found guilty of unauthorized use of an automobile at a hearing yesterday before Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt in Trial Magistrates Court.

Magistrate Weatherholt deferred sentence in the case as the boy testified he is trying to enter a service school.

The youth was picked up by Lt. James E. Van and Detective Thomas J. See of the Cumberland Police Department and admitted in a signed statement that he stole the private automobile of an Allegany County deputy sheriff on Tuesday.

The vehicle, owned by Deputy Sheriff William E. "Scotty" Orr, was involved in a hit-and-run accident about 3:25 a.m. Tuesday when it struck a truck owned by William Goff, 901 Maryland Avenue.

Orr reported the car stolen after he left the vehicle on East First Street Monday for mechanical repairs. While the automobile was parked it was taken, he said. City police were notified Tuesday morning that a car had damaged the truck on Glenwood Street.

Officer Joseph Nelson investigated and later located Orr's damaged car on Oak Street. The front headlight had been smashed and a tire and wheel ruined. Approximately $200 damage was done to the vehicles.

News Staff Writer

One of the ironic notes about the career of Abraham Lincoln, whose 151st birthday is being observed today, is that in the course of the waging of the American Civil War, which resulted in freedom for the slaves and national unity, this great President of the United States suspended one of the basic rights of the U.S. Constitution, the writ of habeas corpus.

Habeas corpus is an equity writ derived from the English common law which provides the right of an arrested person to demand his freedom unless the arresting party can demonstrate sufficient evidence to warrant holding him for trial. This right is guaranteed against infringement in Article I, Section 9, of the Constitution.

Although Article I, Section 9, of the Federal Constitution forbids Congress to suspend the writ of habeas corpus, except when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it, President Lincoln on July 2, 1861, authorized General Winfield Scott to suspend the writ without Congressional authorization. It was not until March 3, 1863, that Congress granted this power to the President for the period of the war.

Only Suspension

Historians point out that Lincoln was the only American President to suspend the writ of habeas corpus. For instance, despite the fact that many liberties were curtailed during both World Wars, neither Woodrow Wilson nor Franklin D. Roosevelt suspended the writ of habeas corpus. Of course, neither of those wars involved a rebellion on American soil.

This suspension of the writ of habeas corpus is significant to Marylanders because it was aimed more at residents of this state than anywhere else in the nation.

The first act of Lincoln for such suspension was a communication of April 27, 1861, to General Scott which was aimed directly at Marylanders. The communication read as follows:

"You are engaged in repressing an insurrection against the laws of the United States. If at any point on or in the vicinity of any military line which is now or which shall be used between the City of Philadelphia and the City of Washington you find resistance which renders it necessary to suspend the writ of habeas corpus for the public safety, you personally or through the officer in command at the point where resistance occurs are authorized to suspend that writ."

This act was prompted by the mob attack upon federal troops in Baltimore on April 19, just eight days earlier.

Swanger surrendered to the sheriff's office Tuesday and was questioned at the state's attorney's office that afternoon.

Mr. Lilya said Gerald Swanger is a cousin of Robert L. Swanger, RD 4, who this week was released under $500 bond for grand jury action on a charge involving the same girl.

Parent Liability Law Is Proposed

Maryland would be wise to follow the lead of 23 other states and adopt legislation specifying that parents are civilly liable for damage caused by the intention acts of vandalism.

That opinion of Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason was offered in a talk to the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday in Central YMCA. He explained that under the common law, parents generally are not responsible for the intentional acts of vandalism of their children except when the parents contribute to that act.

Mr. Mason believes that specific legislation on this subject, as adopted by 23 states in recent years, would serve as a deterrent. Too many parents, he said, feel little responsibility for the acts of their children. He has discussed proposed legislation with the County Delegation in Annapolis and has hopes that the necessary measure will be introduced and passed.
